British Invite Conference Of Congress, Parliament

Informal Proposal Urges U. S. Leaders Be Sent to Meet With Picked M. P.'s

By Jack Bell
Associated Press Staff Writer

Congressional leaders had under consideration last night a proposal that a bi-partisan group of 10 Senators and Representatives be chosen to confer in Great Britain with Parliament members on the conduct of the war and plans for the subsequent peace.

Proposals for such a visit were reported to have been advanced tentatively and informally by a representative of the British government in a secret meeting with Republican and Democratic leaders of both houses at the Capitol late in the day.

As outlined at this conference, the plan was reported to call for the selection of five Democrats and five Republicans, including the top ranking members of the House and Senate, to make a trip to England in July as the guests of Parliament.

Seek Common Peace Policy

While it was stressed that no formal invitation of this nature had been issued or would be issued until there was a certainty of acceptance, the British representative was said to have made it clear that Parliament leaders were anxious to hold such a conference.

Informed persons said that if the trip were made, one of the chief objectives would be to bring about a meeting of British and American legislative minds on the problems likely to confront the two nations at the peace table, as well as current questions involved in the conduct of the war.

In this connection, some of those who attended yesterday's conference were said to have pointed out that while the executive departments of the two nations will be charged with the responsibility of writing the peace terms when the time comes, no peace treaty can become effective as far as the United States is concerned until it is ratified by two-thirds of the Senate.

The suggestion was reported to have been made that if any congressional delegation visited England it ought to number among its members Speaker Rayburn of the House and the majority and minority leaders of both bodies.

To Test Sentiment

Final decision on the trip was said to have been delayed to permit leaders to feel out the sentiment in both branches of Congress.

Those present at yesterday's meeting were reported to have included Speaker Rayburn, House Majority Leader McCormack, House Minority Leader Martin, Senate Majority Leader Barkley, Senate Minority Leader McNary, Senator Austin of Vermont, the assistant Republican leader, and Senator Hill of Alabama, the Democratic whip.

Along with plans for discussion of war and peace problems, the proposed trip was reported to have been projected also as a demonstration to

A.F.L. Invites C.I.O. to Renew Peace Parleys

By the Associated Press

The American Federation of Labor last night initiated a new move for "union and solidarity" with the Congress of Industrial Organizations.

President William Green announced the unexpected action at the conclusion of the A. F. L. executive council's spring meeting.

"The council," Green said, "has instructed me to advise the representatives of the C. I. O. that the peace committee of the A. F. L. stands ready to meet with them for the purpose of negotiating peace and unity. Such action is necessary first because of the war.

"There ought to be unity and solidarity which would help to win the war. The meetings should be started immediately for the purpose of seeking a basis of accommodation."

The peace committees of the two great labor organizations have not met since the abortive unity effort of 1939. The A. F. L. committee members are William L. Hutcheson of the carpenters union, Daniel Tobin of the teamers and Harry Bates of the bricklayers.

President Green said he expected to write immediately to Philip Murray, president of the C. I. O., to suggest resumption of the meetings.

Survey Is Begun In Hundred Cities For Ticket Rationing

The Government yesterday began a survey for rationing of passenger space on trains and buses, at the same time establishing control of all bus lines operating between Washington and New York City, effective June 3.

The Office of Defense Transportation announced that it had begun a survey of intercity train and bus passenger travel affecting 100 cities. The survey will be undertaken, it said, as a means of compiling information which will be used "in adjusting passenger travel requirements to the available supply of passenger transportation facilities and services."

The survey will end next Thursday at midnight and a complete tabulation will be kept by all carriers in the 100 cities on intercity tickets sold. The cities are selected on the basis of geographical importance and traffic density. Joseph B. Eastman, ODT director, said a passenger interview program would be carried out with the cooperation of WPA field workers.

Questions Planned

Questions to be asked include purpose of the trip, the passenger's occupation, mileage and destination, and frequency of travel. Eastman estimated that more than 20,000 travelers would be interviewed during the week.

In announcing control of District-New York buses ODT officials said the lines would go on a complete war footing and estimated the changes would cut mileage covered by the buses about 25 per cent, or 5000 miles daily.

3 Types of Hosiery And 3 Pairs of Shoes, Plus Trim Galoshes

Three of the "best-dressed grils" in America, posed for the photographers yesterday at the Army War College. They were wearing uniforms of the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps.

When they appeared in their khaki and olive drab suits, the closest guarded military secret in Washington was out—and everybody started exclaiming, "How're you going to keep the gals out of the Army now?"

Yes, girls, you get silk stockings. And cotton. And anklets. Three types of hosiery and three types of shoes, plus a pair of galoshes, go with the first uniform Uncle Sam is issuing to his noncombatant soldieretes.

And the anklets, mind you, will be in gold or moss green, which were revealed to be the official WAAC colors. The cotton work stockings will be of a sun-tan shade, which will be repeated in the full-fashioned rayon models in WAAC put on for dress wear.

New Eagle for Caps

A brand-new eagle has been designed for the uniform caps. It looks even less militant than that worn by real soldiers, but still seems plenty fierce.

Another striking note is provided by the head and helmet of Pallas Athene, the Goddess of Victory claimed as the WAAC's own motif. A cut-down of the victorious lady, who also was noted for her wisdom, will be worn on each lapel of the officers' winter jacket and on the left end of the blouse collar when the blouse "appears as the outer garment in warm weather." It is of gold color metal, as also are the letters, "U. S." which will be worn on the officers' winter jacket collar and on the right end of the summer blouse collar. Auxiliaries

Proposal Aims to Spread Goods

Merchants Weigh WPB Order To Reduce Stocks to Minimum

By Gerald G. Gross
Post Staff Writer

Washington's central organization of retail merchants yesterday pondered the effect of a forthcoming WPB order which will force stores to reduce stocks to "a practicable working minimum."

Principal object of the order will be to spread everything from safety pins to grand pianos more equitably among retail outlets for the benefit of sellers and consumers alike.

A War Production Board spokesman indicated yesterday that the final draft will be issued in "two or three weeks" and become effective July 1. Draft No. 3 now is in process of being revised.

Both Arthur J. Sundlun, president, and Edward D. Shaw, executive secretary, of the Washington Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association, withheld comment on the probable effect of the order on local businesses.

However, when Shaw was reminded that Washington department store inventories are running 56 per cent higher than last year, according to latest Federal Reserve figures, he pointed out that the number of Federal employes here has increased approximately 50 per cent in the same period.

Shaw expressed the opinion that the Capital's phenomenal wartime growth should be taken into consideration by WPB while it is working on an inventory yardstick.

An official of the production board emphasized that the approaching step may force some

Pay Tax Plan May Exempt Farm Help

Committee Studies Excluding Domestic Servants Also From Deduction System

By Robert C. Albright
Post Staff Writer

Exemption of domestic servants, farm hands and casual labor from the Treasury plan to collect income taxes every payday yesterday was discussed in the House Ways and Means Committee, as a showdown was delayed until Monday.

Acceptance with modifications of pay-as-you-go taxes apparently is favored by a majority of the committee, but members wanted time to test public opinion. There was growing opposition to making tax collectors out of housewives and farmers.

Still driving to complete a tax bill before June 13, the committee turned aside from withholding tax proposals to simplify the complicated capital gains and losses tax structure and to raise the maximum effective rate on long-term capital gains.

Revenue Gain Seen

Tentatively approved, were changes jointly recommended by the Treasury and congressional staff experts, which Representative Cooper (Democrat) of Tennessee predicted would result "in more transactions in property" and raise some 50 million dollars additional revenue.

Gains and losses resulting from sale of stocks, bonds and other property would be dealt with as follows under yesterday's committee changes:

The number of classifications of gains and losses would be reduced from three to two. Short-term transactions would be those on property held up to 15 months, instead of 18, while sales of assets held over 15 months would be considered long term.

Short-term gains of individuals and corporations would be treated as normal income and subjected to ordinary normal and surtax rates.

Net Gain Rate Raised

The maximum rate on statutory net long-term capital gains of individuals would be increased from 30 to 50 per cent. Actually, the effective rate would be 25 per cent, as only 50 per cent of such gains is taxable.

Statutory losses, whether long or short, could be used as an offset against any gains. Capital losses could be carried forward for five years as deductions against future gains. To prevent hardship in the case of a taxpayer having a small income and sporadic losses, up to $1000 of such losses could be offset against ordinary income, such as salaries or dividends.

Corporations would receive the same treatment, except for banks and insurance companies, whose losses would not be allowed as a deduction from other income. They would be permitted, how-

Neighbor Republic Acts After Two Vessels Are Sunk By Submarines

Bulletin

By International News Service

Mexico City, May 22.—President Manuel Avila Camacho tonight informed his cabinet that a state of war exists between Mexico and the Axis nations.

By the Associated Press

Mexico City, May 22.—The Mexican cabinet decided tonight to call a special session of Congress to declare war on the Axis.

The decision was taken as a reprisal for the sinking of two Mexican ships by Axis submarines operating in the Caribbean, and after the refusal of the governments of Germany, Italy and Japan to receive a Mexican note asking for "complete satisfaction" for the sinkings.

A formal statement issued after the cabinet meeting said President Avila Camacho would ask the permanent commission of Congress to call the full body into a special session "so that in our own constitutional way it may dictate the law authorizing the President to declare that a state of war exists with the countries of the Axis."

Move to Block Axis Assets

A declaration of war on the triple Axis powers would be the first formally declared on in Mexico's history.

The government already had moved to block the escape of Axis assets here after the torpedo sinkings of the tanker Potrero del Llano off Miami, and the Faja de Oro, off Cuba.

A few hours before the government ordered all Mexican banks to stop changing dollar currency into pesos or negotiable securities.

Axis elements in Mexico were said to hold dollar cash which might total 20 million dollars and today's move, it was believed, was a prelude to Mexican seizure of Axis assets as indemnity for the torpedoing and sinking of two Mexican tankers within a week.

An official announcement said the 6067-ton tanker, Faja de Oro, was sunk off Cuba and that seven Mexican sailors perished. The Axis governments had just rejected a Mexican protest over the sinking May 13 of the tanker Potrero del Llano.

It was learned that Washington has forbidden any one to enter the United States with more than $250 in currency. This action, it was explained, was designed to aid Mexico in controlling Axis funds.

It was said the President soon

A 'Near-Miracle'

President Roosevelt assured the Nation last night, in observance of Maritime Day, that the country's shipyards are performing a "near miracle" in producing sorely needed vessels and that the Axis submarine menace is being solved.

But, at the same time, the Chief Executive sounded a note of warning, declaring that America faces a hard, long war and the people should not express undue optimism about minor successes.

In a formal statement issued in connection with the Nation-wide ceremonies celebrating the launching of 27 new vessels on Maritime Day, the President said:

"Maritime Day—this is its first wartime observance—a fitting occasion for all of us and the people of the United States to pay deserved tribute to the brave men who man the gallant ships of our Merchant Marine and those other heroes without uniforms, the shipyard and factory workers."

War of Transportation

The President declared that the tenth annual observance of Maritime Day holds more than ordinary significance for the people of the United States, adding that we are engaged in what is largely a war of ocean transportation.

"A little more than a year ago," he said, "we embarked upon the greatest shipbuilding program in history. No other nation ever had attempted so vast a maritime enterprise. There were those who doubted our ability to succeed. Today, I can assure you that we will perform this near-miracle of ship production. The Nation's shipbuilding capacity has been increased more than 500 per cent. That of itself is an outstanding achievement."

Despite this progress, the President said, we are still confronted with a serious ship shortage, largely because Axis submarines have taken a "heavy toll."

Ships Are Going Through

"But that problem," he declared, "like others confronting us, is being solved. Our ships are going through and we will continue to go through in growing numbers. The American people have reason to be proud of the heroism and patriotism of the officers and seamen of their Victory Fleet. During these dangerous days and nights on the sea lanes of the world, with danger lurking above, below and on the surface, they do not falter in the performance of their duty. It is gratifying that the Congress of the United States has recognized such heroism and authorized bestowal of proper awards to these men of the sea, who are just as vital to our

Treason Charged To Nazi Helper

By the Associated Press

Attorney General Biddle yesterday ordered the United States attorney at Detroit to seek an indictmen for treason against Max Stephan for allegedly aiding Peter Krug, a German air force lieutenant, after the latter's escape from a prison camp in Canada.

This is the first time in the present war that prosecution has been ordered in the United States for treason, a charge which carries a penalty ranging from five years' imprisonment and $10,000 fine up to death.

Krug was recaptured by FBI agents in a San Antonio (Tex.) hotel on May 1 and returned to Canada.

In Augusta, Me., yesterday the State director of civilian defense warned that "German spies and agents are at work in Maine." He said military and police authorities have accurate information of recent landings by foreign agents on the coast of Maine.

He said that women as well as men agents are at work in the State in places known to the authorities.

Chinese Repel Seaborne Raid On Foochow

But Enemy Columns Continue Advance On Port by Land

By the Associated Press

Chungking, China, May 23 (Saturday).—Chinese troops have destroyed more than half of a seaborne Japanese invasion force which landed on Chuanshih Island, at the mouth of the Min River east of Foochow on the Fukien coast, and the remainder of the enemy has been sent reeling back to the ships, the Chinese announced officially today.

The high command communique failed to say how many enemy troops were involved but some reports said the Japanese had hurled as many as 25,000 men into their drive against Foochow, capital and chief seaport of Fukien.

Chinese shore batteries slaughtered the invaders who swarmed on the island yesterday morning under protection of a barrage from Japanese ships standing offshore, the Chinese announcement said.

Leave Much Booty

In the headlong dash back to their ships, the Japanese were declared to have left much equipment, which the Chinese captured.

Chinese batteries exchanging fire with the enemy warships offshore likewise repulsed an attempted landing on the north bank of the Min, a Chinese communique said. While listing these specific successes, the Chinese did not claim that they had smashed what appeared to be a determined Japanese thrust upon Foochow itself.

While the fighting raged around the Min River mouth, Japanese

Soviets Say Enemy, Using Many 'Chutists, Has Achieved Gains, But at Terrific Cost

Moscow, Saturday, May 23.—The Russian army, battling fiercely through the eleventh day of Marshal Timoshenko's offensive in the Kharkov area, claimed today to have killed more than 15,000 Germans in hurling back Nazi efforts to seize the initiative in the last three days.

(A British broadcast, heard in New York, said the Germans were "throwing in masses of airborne troops" in an attempt to turn the tide of battle. The broadcast, quoting the Moscow radio and the army newspaper Red Star, said the German troops were being wiped out as fast they parachuted to earth.

("The Germans are fighting stubbornly and are counter-attacking and even launching offensives. It is proving a costly business for the Germans," the broadcast quoted from Red Star.)

The communique said Russian resistance was continuing on the eastern part of the Kerch Peninsula.

As a gauge of the ferocity of the fight and its huge slaughter, the midnight communique said that the 15,000 Nazis had been killed on a single flank of the Kharkov front—the Izyum-Barvenkova sector, where wave after wave of Hitler's shock battalions were thrown against the Red army.

In one sector of that southern end of the conflict the Russians said they repelled 11 Nazi attacks in a single day. The receding Nazi waves finally left 3000 dead on the field

Berlin (from German broadcasts), May 22 (AP).—Fourteen persons in Mannheim have been sentenced to death for high treason, an official announcement said today, reporting that a Communist organization had been uncovered in the German industrial city.

Those sentenced were charged with listening to enemy broadcasts, treasonable support of the enemy, and disintegration of German defensive strength.

Allied FliersKnock Out 7 Jap Planes, Cripple 2 Ships

Allied Headquarters, Australia (Saturday), May 23 (AP).—Allied bombers crippled two Japanese ships, destroyed seven Japanese planes, and badly damaged six other bombers in two swift strokes against the enemy's invasion bases at Rabaul, New Britain and Lae, New Guinea, it was announced officially today.

In the attack on Rabaul a large transport was "left in a crippled condition" in the harbor and six heavy Japanese bombers were badly damaged on the airdrome, a communique from General MacArthur's headquarters said.

"Enemy interception was ineffective," it added.

A tanker was "severely damaged" at Lae and two Japanese bombers and five fighters were destroyed.

The bombers were destroyed on the ground, and out of eight Japanese fighters which rose to intercept the Allied raiders, five were shot down in flames.

All Allied planes returned safely, the communique added.

The communique text:

"New Guinea: Lae—Our air force attacked the airdrome and shipping. Two enemy bombers were destroyed on the ground. A tanker in the harbor was severely damaged. Eight Japanese fighters attempted an interception. Five were shot down. All our planes returned safely."

Fort Sill, Okla., May 22.—The latest idea of grasshopper airplanes for artillery observation is a little over a year old in our Army. The planes were available, the pilots were already partly trained, and other means of observation seemed to have been made obsolete by the pressure of modern war.

When it was decided to try out the scheme, questionnaires were sent through the Field Artillery to find light plane pilots. Hundreds of them turned up, but very few with the amount and kind of flying experience the Army wanted. Original plans were altered somewhat and the first 33 pilots were assigned to experimental work with grasshoppers borrowed from the Air Corps.

ANDREWS

They wanted four officers and 28 enlisted men but they found only 19 men with sufficient flying time and had to fill up their quota with 14 officers. The men had an average total of 100 hours flying time; the officers 170 hours.

These 33 officers and men were put through a six weeks course of training here at Fort Sill, devoting half their time to flying and half to engine and airplane maintenance. Their flying consisted of practice in the ground-hugging tactics of the grasshoppers, handling them in small and difficult fields and roads, doing difficult things under difficult circumstances. Those not washed out have carried on since as the Air Training Detachment of the Field Artillery School.

The enlisted men who finished the course were promoted to staff sergeants and the detachment was split into two sections for field service tests, one flying to Fort Bragg, N. C., and the

Roosevelt Orders Boys 18, 19 Registered for Draft June 30

President Roosevelt yesterday ordered registration on June 30 of young Americans 18 and 19 years old to complete the Government's inventory of the Nation's available wartime man power.

Mr. Roosevelt also called up for registration on the same day men who became 20 year old after December 31, 1941, or who will reach that age on or before June 30.

The order will bring in a new class of selective service registrants—the 18 and 19-year-old group—but these young men will not be subject, under existing law, to military service until they are 20 years old.

Mr. Roosevelt declared their registration advisable "to insure victory, final and complete, over enemies of the United States."

Approximately three million young men will be affected by the order, including 2,400,000 18 or 19 years old and 600,000 who turned 20 last December 31.

Conferees on a bill raising the pay of members of the armed forces in the enlisted grades were slated to reach formal agreement today on Senate-House versions of the legislation.

Both Houses have agreed on pay increases for noncommissioned officers, but when the legislation passed the House, that chamber upped the pay for buck privates and apprentice seamen and for first-class privates and second-class seamen from the Senate's figure of $48 and $42 a month to $54 and $50.

Both Chairmen Reynolds (Democrat) of North Carolina, and May (Democrat) of Kentucky, of Senate and House Military Affairs Committees, agreed that the conferees

Moscow, May 22 (AP).—Tass asserted in a broadcast today that the Gestapo had arrested a number of German court officials whose reported offense was "having passed light sentences on persons expressing discontent with the war and the Hitler regime."

The official Soviet news agency said the arrests were made in Berlin, Cologne, Hanover, Dresden and other cities.

Santiago, Chile, May 22 (AP).—Police, reporting discovery of a Terrorist plot among members of the Nazi-like Popular Socialist Vanguard Party, seized a quantity of bombs and ammunition and made several arrests in raids early today.

Circles close to the police said the plot was directed "against the present democratic government" and financed by "a foreign Fifth Column."

New York, May 22 (AP).—For 20 minutes tonight, Manhattan vanished under the first total blackout of the war.

Up, down and across its 22 square miles there fell an unprecedented hush, broken by a shout from a cop or a "lights out" from an air warden.

Two additional Washington men who fought with Gen. MacArthur in the Philippines and believed now to be prisoners of the Japanese are Barry and James H. Baldwin, nephews of J. F. Duhamel, local historian.

They are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Newland Baldwin, who had made their home in Manila for many years and were listed recently among the Americans interned on the islands.

The Baldwins are descendants of early District inhabitants and have many relatives in this area. A third Baldwin son, Newland, jr., also is in the service, their uncle said yesterday, and is stationed with the Signal Corps in Iceland.

Indignation mounted over the attack on the 6067-ton tanker Faja de Oro, formerly the Italian ship Genoano, by a submarine off Cuba.

An official announcement said that seven Mexican sailors perished in the torpedoing of the tanker and that 28 were rescued.

The blunt refusal of Germany, Italy and Japan to accept Mexico's protest over the sinking May 13 of the tanker Potrero del Llano, off Florida, already had aroused Mexico and placed the issue squarely upon President Avila Camacho.

(In Miami, Fla., Salvador Aguayo, Mexican Consul, announced the Faja de Oro was attacked last Wednesday night off the coast of Cuba. He said 27 survivors had been landed at Key West, Fla.

(Aguayo said the attack on the Faja de Oro was the answer of the Axis to the Mexican protest against the sinking of the Potrero del Llano. He said the Faja de Oro was torpedoed after the protest had been delivered and added: "It appears that the submarine was waiting.")

With numbers of state governors and military zone commanders rushing to the capital for conferences, Undersecretary of the Navy Othon P. Blanco denounced the attack on the Faja de Oro as a "brutal Axis act."

Capital newspapers devoted almost all their front pages to the crisis with the Axis, urging that the Mexicans be ready to meet the responsibilities of what the government organ, El Nacional, called the "most transcendental chapter in our country's history."

Report of Submarine Attack Remains Unverified, However

By Drew Middleton
Associated Press Staff Writer

London, May 22.—Without corroboration elsewhere, the Italian high command announced today that the submarine Barbarigo had sunk a United States battleship of the Maryland class with two torpedo hits Wednesday just off the South Atlantic bulge of the Brazilian coast.

The special communique, implying that the Italian submarine remained near enough to the surface to observe the results, added that the battleship's destroyer escort failed to "react" to the torpedoing.

This rare Italian claim dominated the day's developments in the war at sea, which also included:

German announcements that 20 more ships, totaling 111,600 tons, had been sunk by U-boats in the Caribbean and the Gulf of Mexico and three others, amounting to 14,000 tons, in the Gulf of St. Lawrence in the torpedo warfare against the United Nations, making a grand total of 681,000 tons destroyed in all areas thus far in May by German ships and planes.

British disclosure that the German cruiser Prinz Eugen, damaged five days ago in a torpedo attack off southern Norway, had arrived at Kiel, big German naval base on the Baltic. The air ministry has reported two definite torpedo hits and one probable on the 10,000-ton warship.

Rio Hasn't Heard of It

Official Brazilian and United States sources at Rio de Janeiro, commenting on today's Italian claim, said they had no knowledge of any naval engagement in Brazilian waters which, by the Italians' own story, would have occurred in darkness about 22 miles from shore.

The brief communique, as relayed by Stefani, official Italian news agency, follows:

"On May 20 at 2:50 a. m., Rome time, off the Brazilian coast, 100 miles to the west of the island of Fernando Noronha, the submarine Barbarigo commanded by Lieut. Comdr. Enzo Grossi attacked a United States naval formation which was steaming southward.

"The Barbarigo cutting in between escorting destroyers, at a distance of several hundred meters, launched a salvo of torpedoes against a battleship of the Maryland class, 32,000 tons, armed with eight guns of 406 millimeters.

"The battleships was hit in the bow by two torpedoes and sank in a short space of time. The escort did not react."

The location given, 100 miles west of the island of Fernando Noronha, would place the action perhaps within earshot of the mainland since that Brazilian island lies 125 miles offshore to the east.

Officials said there was no word here from Fernando Noronha of a naval engagement in that area.

While German submarines strove to cut the United Nations' supply arteries the British reported that 70 per cent of the German navy's large units were in Baltic and North Sea ports, refitting for new forays. Only the battleship Tirpitz, the pocket battleship Luetzow and the Prinz Eugen's sister ship, Admiral Hipper, remained at Trondheim, Norway, for operations on the Soviet supply line.

The Prinz Eugen had been at Trondheim, under repair from a previous attack before she started her run toward Kiel on the night of May 17, in which she weathered the British torpedo hits.

The German battleship Scharnhorst also was reported at Kiel, undergoing repairs, as was the 6,000-ton cruiser Nuernberg, while the battleship Gneisenau, with which the Scharnhorst and Prinz Eugen dashed from Brest, France, in February, was said to be at Baltic port and the cruiser Seidlitz at Bremen.

The German aircraft carrier Graf Zeppelin, now understood to be completed, also is in the Baltic.

ultimate victory as the men in the armed forces.

"The Nation's maritime industry is writing a wartime preface to the most glorious chapter in our history. It is making a vital contribution to the immediate war effort and clearing the way for America's full restoration to the position in world trade befitting so great a Nation."

Admiral Ernest J. King, commander in chief of the United States Fleet, also praised the men who man the merchant ships and said that the shipbuilders have already turned out vessels that have made possible our successes to date.

"We are depending on these same men," he said, "to put over the biggest shipbuilding program in history and to sail the seas in these ships along with us."

Maritime Commission Chairman Emory S. Land said Maritime Day marked the beginning of a period when the shipyards will deliver two ships a day and in the near future three a day to fulfill the demand of 2300 merchant vessels and 700 auxiliary craft by the end of 1942.

The day saw the launching of 27 merchant ships in shipyards on all coasts and the Great Lakes. It also was marked by ceremonies in many cities. Four new vessels were placed in service, one of them only 60 days after the laying of its keel—a world record.

Here in Washington hundreds of persons inspected the training ship Keystone State docked at a pier on the waterfront, while a luncheon meeting was held by the Propeller Club at the Lee-Sheraton Hotel.

other to Fort Sam Houston, Tex. The Bragg section was to work with a corps artillery brigade, the Sam Houston section with the artillery of the Second Division. Each spent a month in the field and then started home. The Bragg section flew directly back while the Sam Houston section stopped over at Temple, Tex., to run tests for the Tank Destroyer Command.

The grasshopper people point with no little pride to their record so far in this brand new enterprise for field artillerymen. They flew a total of 850 hours in training with no accidents; 700 hours at Fort Sam Houston and Temple without an accident; and 500 hours at Fort Bragg with only one acident in which nobody was hurt. That, they calculate, adds up to 2050 hours of the most chancey sort of flying with no one injured and only one airplane damaged.

From time to time, as their experience grew, the grasshoppers have had to revise their plans for operation and organization. Now they figure on two airplanes with one officer and one enlisted pilot and mechanic with each Field Artillery battalion. Another three planes and four pilots would be assigned to artillery headquarters, the senior officer to serve as division or corps artillery air officer.

They hope, while their plans are still in the process of jelling, to train one officers in each battalion for 30 days as an air observer. This officer would then go back to his battalion and prepare others for the day when they hope their plans will mature. When that time comes, it is their ambition to train as many observers as possible in every battalion.

For the present, the Field Artillery is relying on a good backlog of partially trained light plane pilots already in its ranks for building up its grasshopper corps. When this supply has been exhausted, it hopes to set up a school with six civilian instructors, each with thousands of hours of light plane time, to train grasshopper pilots from the ground up.

In the meantime, the grasshoppers are doing the best job they know how with their borrowed airplanes. They are earnest youngsters, full of the enthusiasm for flying which made them spend their own good money learning to be light plane pilots in civil life.

They've got something, these flying field artillerymen. They've got the sort of enthusiasm, the spirit, the zest for their work, the willingness to try something new, the devotion to their cause which has built victorious American armies out of neglected little professional forces before this.

Their corps is the result of that spirit and a fine readiness to work together for the common good which marks the new Army. The Air Corps has lent its airplanes to the Field Artillery to try out this new departure. The Field Artillery has given the benefit of its experience to the Tank Destroyers.

Altogether they are preparing to visit on our enemies a plague of grasshoppers.

German Losses Among Officers Reported High on Red Front

By Walter Kerr
Copyright by New York Tribune, Inc.

Moscow, May 22.—The Red army's successes around Kharkov bring up the question of what has happened to the German armed forces during their winter in Russia.

One of the answers, certainly, is the extreme losses suffered in the German officer corps, which numbered between 280,000 and 290,000 11 months ago, when the attack on the Soviet Union began.

The high officers who suffered may be divided into three groups. One includes men like Colonel General Harder, who resigned voluntarily as chief of staff of land forces in protest at the purge of high army field commanders.

The second class includes men who were killed in battle. Among them were Col. Gen. Ritter Von Schobert, commander of the German Eleventh Army; General Von Briesen, commander of the Fifty-second Army Infantry Corps; Lieut. Gen. Bergman, commander of the 137th Infantry Division; Lieut. Gen. Von Hochenhausen, commander of the 134th Infantry Division; Maj. Gen. Von Weber, commander of the Seventeeth Tank Division, and Gen. Melverstedt, commander of the S. S. (elite guard) police division.

Many Others Killed

The third group includes lower ranking officers of veteran divisions who died on the battlefield. For example, the Eighth German Tank Division, which fought in the Polish and French campaigns, lost 90 per cent of its officers and personnel in fighting around Tikhvin, east of Leningrad.

Other divisions that have suffered heavily in this respect are the Seventh and Eleventh Tank Divisions, the Eighteenth Motorized Division and the 123d Division.

All these lost officers are in addition to the thousands killed in the summer and fall battles of last year and other thousands who fell on other sectors during the winter campaigns.

The Red army has estimated that it completely destroyed in the first two months of the war alone, at a time when it was retreating eastward into Russia, 12 tank divisions, 37 infantry divisions, 8 motorized divisions, 3 S. S. divisions. In these units were the pick of the officers' corps.

Privates Hastily Promoted

To overcome these losses, the Red army estimates that the foe could draw on about 55,000 older men, mostly veterans of the World War, of whom only 25 per cent are Nazi party men. The only other potential reserve of officers are young men trained in the years since Fuehrer Adolf Hitler came to power, who are loyal Nazis but lack military education, having had only three months yearly over a period of years.

The Red army now finds the Germans hastily promoting to commissions privates who had been trained only three to six months before receiving an active command.

The Red army has noticed the difference with the officer veterans gone. It does not find as many tough, swaggering officers among the prisoners. Now they are men of a different type, who surrender more easily, occasionally bringing their men with them.

In one sector recently an entire battalion of General Mandel's Thirty-fifth Division retired toward the rear, unwilling to give battle. Such cases are still rare, but are increasing.

War Workers at Front

Non-commissioned officers likewise have suffered. Many of them have since been replaced by men from the ranks who frequently had not had time to receive special military schooling.

Germany's trouble in finding man power is widely known. Men who once worked in the Reich's defense factories have been found serving at the front. Not long ago the 403 Infantry Division arrived for the first time at the front, with only two infantry regiments instead of three. The 330th Division came with three infantry regiments and an artillery regiment, but had only two battalions to each regiment instead of the customary three.

The average age of the troops in the 403d was 35 years.

Kharkov Battle At Bloody Crisis

in one area in one day, along with heaps of battered tanks.

Choking dust hovered over the hot Ukrainian plains, as each side resorted to every military trick learned in a campaign which has had few equals in history.

The supplementary communique telling of attempted German flanking operations also said Red airmen destroyed or damaged 85 Nazi tanks at various points along the front during Thursday. The Russians also claimed the recapture of another populated place far to the northwest on the Kalinin front.

The army organ Red Star announced that the Kharkov struggle had reached a new crescendo of violence, adding:

"The enemy is making furious efforts to take the initiative out of our hands, but this is not last year and the relation of the opposing forces is quite different.

"If the enemy has succeeded in obtaining some partial, limited successes, he cannot now solve problems of great strategic scope . . . we have everything necessary to keep the initiative."

The general picture drawn from Soviet accounts was of inconclusive fighting in some areas and Soviet advances in others. In one undesignated sector, said the afternoon communique, Russian troops broke into a town "on the heels of the retreating enemy."

German counterattacks employed a new tactic by which two small tank forces were sent forward to divert Soviet attention while a third and much stronger force sought to break into the Russian flanks.

Military dispatches reported, however, that Soviet anticipation had destroyed the element of surprise, and that all such assaults failed.

The capture of a sharply increasing number of German prisoners was reported and the official Communist newspaper Pravda declared that all had testified that Timoshenko's lunge had been wholly unexpected by the German command.

A British military spokesman observed that in the fighting about Izyum and Barvenkova, about 80 miles below Kharkov, the German counter-offensive had cut into the salient created by Timoshenko's advance, but that there was no evidence that this area was being widened.

There were some indications of heavy fighting far to the north of the Ukraine, in the Staraya Russa region below Lake Ilmen.

The British news agency Reuters reported hearing a German broadcast to the effect that the Russians had broken through "the main German fighting line" on an eight-mile front southeast of Ilmen. The broadcast added, however, said Reuters, that these Russian attacks had subsequently "collapsed in the face of stubborn German resistance."

The version of the Luxembourg radio, as heard by B. B. C. was that the Russian tanks that made the break-through were destroyed and that the Germans at the end of the action still were holding their main positions.

The German high command itself spoke only of "ineffective" Russian attacks below Ilmen. As to the Kharkov front it claimed that all Soviet attacks had been repelled, adding:

"The initiative is now in our hands."

3 More Merchant Ships Sunk Off Coast And in Gulf of Mexico, Navy Announces

The Navy announced yesterday the sinking of three merchant vessels—one off the Atlantic Coast and two in the Gulf of Mexico.

The Navy listed the ships as one small United States merchant vessel, a medium-sized United States vessel and a small Honduran vessel.

All three were torpedoed. Survivors of the three ships have been landed at Atlantic and Gulf ports.

Mate Boards Attacking Sub

New Orleans, May 22 (AP).—The story of an American ship officer boarding an Axis submarine which apparently had run so low on ammunition that it was hard put to sink its victim was disclosed today, with Navy announcement of the sinking May 15 of a small Honduran cargo vessel.

First Mate Joachim Johansen of Vineland, N. J., boarded the Axis marauder and daringly upbraided the submarine captain for the attack.

A shipmate in the same lifeboat with Johansen said the undersea craft was manned by Germans, but appeared to be of Italian design and too small to have made an Atlantic round trip without refueling.

Jose Rodriguez of Santiago, Cuba, a fireman, was killed by gunfire and two officers and two crewmen were injured in the strange encounter in which the sub's crew attempted to commandeer a lifeboat to send a destroying crew aboard the freighter after it had been abandoned.

This effort was delayed by rough seas and eventually was abandoned for other reasons, but meanwhile, Johansen, stalling for time until help could arrive, rebuked the German commander for killing Rodriguez, and was in turn questioned by the commander because the ship, while under attack, had radioed for help.

The Navy reported the submarine cruised among the lifeboats for a time, then pulled away, but returned in 10 minutes. The commander ordered the chief mate's boat alongside and told the men to get aboard the submarine while he borrowed the lifeboat to put men aboard the ship to blow it up.

"The chief mate," related Harry Schlesinger of New Orleans, chief radio operator, "tried the maneuver, but a rough sea threw the boat against the submarine and Johansen jumped aboard.

"Johansen was mad, and when he got aboard the sub he said: 'This is an injustice. You killed men on that ship.'"

"'This is war,' an officer replied. Johansen also complained that the lifeboat would be smashed and his men drown.

"The lifeboat was being knocked against the sub and the bow was smashed. Suddenly the submarine cast it loose and Johansen ran and jumped into the lifeboat barely in time. The submarine crash-dived. It was almost dark by this time. Although we remained there 18 hours we did not see it again. The ship was still afloat, and when last seen by the crew was listing and settling."

Survive Torpedoing

Norfolk, Va., May 22 (AP).—An Axis submarine torpedoed and sank a small American merchant ship off the Atlantic Coast the night of May 15, the Navy announced today.

Thirty-one survivors, including a four-man Navy gun crew were landed at Norfolk five days later by a rescue ship which picked them up after 21 hours in one lifeboat and two rafts. Eight crew men were missing, including the radio operator, Louis Taix, of New Orleans, who went down with the ship while trying to send an S O S.

No one saw the submersible but Capt. Cecil Desmond of Rockland, Mass., saw the wake of the torpedo about 200 feet from the ship. The torpedo struck forward on the starboard side, directly below the spot where the captain stood, and "hot acid went in my eyes and down my throat."

D. C. Man Among Injured

New Orleans, May 22 (AP).—Ninety seconds after two torpedoes crashed amidships, a medium-sized United States cargo ship plunged to the bottom of the Gulf of Mexico Saturday, May 16, carrying to death at least 21 members of the crew and gun crew, the Navy disclosed today. Robert W. Trotter of Washington, D. C., was among the injured.

The attack and sinking came with almost unprecedented speed which contributed to the heavy loss of life. There was no time to use the radio to summon help and the 19 survivors rode liferafts for about 36 hours before being picked up. Five were hospitalized in Galveston, Tex., when brought ashore.

Although injured, Capt. A. Henry Rowe, a veteran of the World War, spent four hours directing picking up of survivors, then set a course for shore. A makeshift flag of underwear was rigged when a ship was sighted, and the men were picked up and taken to a Texas port.

Officer Tells How U. S., Philippine Troops Wiped Out Secret Nest of Japs

Enemy Spoke English to Lure Yanks to Trap

By the Associated Press

San Francisco, May 22.—How a handful of bluejackets and marines, assisted later by Philippine scouts, cleared out a secret nest of Japanese threatening capture of a Navy section base in the islands in January was related today by Col. William T. Clement of the Marine Corps.

Comdr. Francis Bridget discovered the enemy had built up a force of hand-picked men on Longaskayan Point at the southern tip of the peninsula, only a mile from the section at Mariveles.

"They were living in caves, hiding night and day until they could be reinforced to the point where an attack on the base could be made successful," Clement said.

"Commander Bridget of the Navy Air Corps rounded up all the sailors and marines he could find and formed a battalion to rout them out.

Joined by Scouts

"I joined him the next morning and we had fought there five days when the Second Battalion of the Fifth Philippine Scouts, the best fighting men I have ever known, joined us.

"Then, after three more days' fighting, we cleaned out the Japs—there were some 200 of them—to the last man."

Clement said the Japanese had been chosen not only for their skill and aggressiveness as fighters, but also for their knowledge of English.

"They would talk English at night and when our men, lured into thinking buddies were near at hand, went to join them, they would shoot us down.

"Other times, parties of them would cry 'We've had enough, we give up,' and when we moved in to capture them, we would be shot from the side."

Escaped to Australia

The 48-year-old Clement, whose home is at Richmond, Va., eventually went to Bataan and then escaped to western Australia.

"I had 16 eggs for breakfast that first day," he said of his arrival in Australia.

Clement is en route to Washington. He has one son at Yale, another at the Choate School in Wallingford, Conn., and a daughter staying with friends in Quantico, Va. Mrs. Clement died a year ago.

Methodist Women Ask Voice in Peace

By The Associated Press

Columbus, Ohio, May 22.—The Methodist Women's Society of Christian Service, representing more than two million women, advocated in a resolution today that women be given a place in the postwar peace conference.

The resolution suggested that if such representation was not granted, the women would "hold our own advisory conference in the same city in which the peace parleys are conducted."

The delegates also voted to protest Government tire priorities regulations which the society claimed "curtailed milk deliveries while permitting unlimited distribution of beer, wine and liquor by wholesale dealers."

The delegates gave unanimous approval to resolutions suggesting the Federal Government assume control of all distilled liquors now in storage and convert them, if possible, into materials needed in the war effort and convert factories distilling alcoholic beverages into war factories. Another resolution asked the President and the Congress to use their powers "to remove all alcoholic beverages from communities surrounding Army camps."

Retirement Plan Adopted

Nashville, Tenn., May 22 (AP).—Adoption of a retirement plan for lay members was announced today by the Methodist board of education.

Treasurer W. E. Hogan said the board voted an appropriation of $5,000 annually as a retirement fund for lay employes of the board. This system would retire laymen at 65 on a pension of $15 a year for each year of board service, making the maximum pension $525 a year.

7-Day Week Condemned

Milwaukee, May 22 (INS).—Resolutions condemning the seven-day workweek were informally discussed tonight by delegates to the general assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States, prior to their formal presentation to the assembly tomorrow.

The chief discussion is expected on the overture by the Presbytery of Spokane, Wash., which demands that the assembly go on record against Sunday work in munitions factories.

Official Sues Dies For Linking Him To Communists

David B. Vaughn, chief of the administrative management division of the Board of Economic Welfare, filed suit against Representative Martin Dies in the District Court yesterday, asking $75,000 damages because Dies called him a Communist affiliate and tried to get Vice President Wallace to fire him.

Vaughn's complaint was filed by Attorneys Spencer Gordon and Charles A. Horsky of the firm of Covington, Burling, Rublee, Acheson and Shorb.

Dies wrote the Vice President a letter, on March 28, on the stationary of the House Committee on Un-American Activities, of which Dies is chairman. This letter said 35 officials of the Board of Economic Welfare "have public records which show affiliation with front organizations of the Communist Party."

The Dies letter, Vaughn said, had exposed him to contempt and ridicule and compromised the good reputation he had enjoyed since he was born in Kentucky in 1910.

Allied Training Group Will Be Set Up Here

By Bill Boni
Associated Press Staff Writer

Ottawa, May 22.—Representatives of 14 of the United Nations concluded a five-day air training conference here today with announcement that a United States-Canadian-British committee on training in North America will be established in Washington and that other important results of the discussions must be kept secret.

A communique announcing the committee plan said a public report would be made, dealing only with proceedings at the first plenary session and with general description of the conference work.

The advisory committee, which will have a United States representative as chairman, will serve as liaison among such nations as China, Poland, Norway and the Netherlands, which have air training programs in North America.

It will arrange for exchange of information on training, advise on training standardization and on the most effective use of facilities.

Selection of Washington as the advisory group's headquarters and the decision to select a chairman from the United States attested to the mounting importance of the United States in the preparation of men to carry the air war to the Axis.

In addition to the United States and Canada, other nations represented here this week included Britain, Holland, Belgium, Poland, Greece, Czechoslovakia, South Africa, China, Norway, Yugoslavia, New Zealand, Australia and Free France.

Shafroth Chief Of Navy Forces In S.E. Pacific

By the Associated Press

Rear Admiral John F. Shafroth has been appointed commander of United States naval forces in the southeast Pacific, an assignment which apparently would make him primarily responsible for protection of waters off the western coast of South America.

Shafroth, 55, is a native of Colorado, but lists his present permanent residence as 3404 Garfield Street Northwest.

He formerly was assistant chief of the Bureau of Navigation but last January 2 was assigned to duty at sea. He received his present rank in December.

Shafroth's new assignment presumably continues a process of naval reorganization begun about two months ago simultaneous with the completion of Japan's conquest of the China Sea and General MacArthur's appointment as supreme commander in the Australian area.

Shafroth is the son of the late Senator from Colorado, John F. Shafroth. In his Annapolis days he was a star athlete, playing on the football team and winning championships in boxing and wrestling. He also starred in track events.

Mrs. Shafroth, originally from New York, lives here with their daughter, Helen Morrison Shafroth.

U. S. Investment in Cramp Shipyard Put at $12,000,000

By the Associated Press

Edmund Toland, counsel for the House Naval Affairs Committee, estimated yesterday that the Government had 20 million dollars tied up in the rehabilitation of the Cramp Shipyard, Philadelphia, and connected contracts under the Navy's program.

Cost of the rehabilitation has been estimated at 12 millions, which the Navy has underwritten. The committee concluded hearings yesterday in its investigation of "complimentary" bidding on subcontracts under the rebuilding program.

"Will Cramps hold title to the property if the Navy pays that 12 million dollars?" Toland asked Joseph P. Ripley, chairman of the board of directors of the new Cramp Co. which reopened the yard in 1940.

"I think it will unless the Navy terminates its contract, which it can do in 90 days," said Ripley.

"If the Navy doesn't terminate the contract, Cramp Shipbuilding Co. will have a rehabilitated shipyard for which the taxpayers paid 12 million dollars, plus a million dollar fee on each vessel it produces," commented Toland.

Referring to the Navy's settlement of a one-million-dollar debt of the old Cramp Ship & Engine Co. for $143,000 when the new firm, controlled by E. Roland and W. Averell Harriman, reopened the yard, Ripley asserted:

"I think the Navy got an awfully good deal, getting $143,000."

Acting Chairman Bradley (Democrat), of Pennsylvania, disclosed the Navy, anxious to get operations started, had threatened to seize the yard in 1939 unless Piladelphia city settled its tax claims against the old Cramp company, totaling more than one million dollars. The newly organized Cramp firm settled that llen, with the approval of the State Legislature, for $100,000.

Ripley explained the Harrimans, whose holding companies were chief creditors of the old Cramp company, launched the new venture with "new money" amounting to $1,140,300. The Harriman brothers' holdings in the company, however, amounted to $4,058,800, exclusive of funds advanced by Brown Brothers, Harriman—a private banking firm—and other borrowed capital not underwritten by the Navy.

Capt. Ralph T. Hanson, supervisor of ships for the Navy at the yard, told the committee:

"I should say the company in the main was diligent, except for certain individuals who possibly made their guiding rule speed, and incompetent persons who are in the process of being eliminated."

Potomac Basin Group Will Use Facilities for War

Utilization of facilities of the Interstate Commerce Commission on the Potomac River Basin in the war program was approved at the commission's meeting here yesterday, Governor O'Conor of Maryland reported.

The meeting was attended by officials from Virginia, West Virginia, Pennsylvania and the District.

The meeting marked the first anniversary of the commission, authorized by Congress last year after the four States and the District agreed to uniform steps to end Potomac pollution.

Army and Federal Public Health Service representatives consulted with the commission, O'Conor reported. Specific attention was given to sanitation in the immediate area of Army training camps and naval stations, he said.

R.A.F. Veterans Here Tell of War in Libya

With the dust of the Western Libyan Desert scarcely off their uniforms, five British pilots have arrived here with tales of Royal Air Force exploits in the Middle East.

The party of handsome, blue-clad officers was led by Squadron Leader Clive Robertson Caldwell, who destroyed 20 enemy aircraft during operations in Libya, five of them in a single "show."

"Oh, that was over the Libyan desert before Tobruk," he recalled during a mass interview in the British Press Office yesterday. "We all had plenty of opportunity while the ammunition held out, as the Germans were flying in close formation.

"As one was shot down, another would move in to take his place. They're great chaps for regimentation, you know, and when they've been told to do a thing a certain way, they do it. That made it much easier for us to aim. I think that their Stuka pilots were a bit off pitch that day."

Crashed on British Trucks

Did the Nazi fliers do any damage to the British in return?

"Oh, yes, when they crashed, several of them fell on our trucks directly below them. Scored direct hits."

Flight Lieut. J. E. S. White, who looks more like an American college student than a veteran of the Abyssinian and Libyan campaigns, did strategical reconnaissance in American-built craft along the Libyan coast.

On one flight, White's engine failed and he had to bail out into the ocean. After swimming for four hours he reached land and hiked for 50 miles across the desert before he found British patrols.

Completely without identity because he had lost most of his clothes in the sea, he could not establish his identity. The patrols finally blindfolded him and took him through front lines to a base where he was able to prove his origin.

Italians "Not Very Determined"

Others in the group were Squadron Leader John Alexander, Flying Officer Ian Spencler, and Pilot Officer Lloyd Warriner, all members of the same Wellington Bomber Squadron who have carried out raids from the Western Llybian Desert over Cyrenaica, Greece, Crete and Rhodes.

Concerning relative merits of Italian and German pilots, the officers agreed that the Italians are "not very determined."

"One attack and they're gone," commented Caldwell. "We saw them very rarely, principally early in the second Libyan campaign when they were escorted—or possibly driven—by German Messerschmitts. Many did acrobatics for us, and some fought.

"The Germans? Sometimes they do foolhardy things; most pilots do. But I've noticed no dropping off in flying ability in the Middle East. Messerschmitts are all engine, while our British and American planes have greater maneuverability and firing power."

Prisoner Looked for Defeat

Caldwell added that he had seen several German prisoners, captured after crashes.

"One was quite arrogant, but the others were reasonable. One said: 'I'll be free in a year; the Russians will have beaten us by then. But you have to meet the Japanese; it will take you four or five years.'

"I saw a chap who was a member of a special squad of German aces sent down to dominate the Western Desert sky; aces, I think, are those who have shot down 10 or more planes. This one said that if his two companions escaped, there were only three survivors out of 70 that originally went out as a 'wing.' They were veterans of the British, French and Polish campaigns."

Steel for Nazis Cut 25 Per Cent

New York, May 22 (AP).—Grand Duchess Charlotte of Luxembourg and her prince consort, Felix, said tonight internal sabotage had reduced the output of steel from the duchy's mills 25 per cent.

The exiled rulers of the tiny occupied country arrived by clipper. They plan a trip tomorrow to see President Roosevelt in Washington and then will go to Canada where their six children are residing.

"The Nazis are deporting our countrymen by the thousands and making labor conscripts of them in Germany," the prince consort said.

875 Cheerful Americans Sail for Home From Lisbon

By the Associated Press

Lisbon, May 22.—The Swedish-American liner Drottningholm sailed tonight with a cheerful group of North and South American diplomats, newspaper correspondents and other civilians being exchanged for Axis internees. The ship, which arrived here a week ago with Axis diplomats and nationals, carried 875 passengers on the return trip to the United States.

Admiral William D. Leahy, United States Ambassador to Vichy, was among them. The body of his wife, who died in Vichy a few days after Admiral Leahy had been ordered to return to Washington to report, also was aboard.

Herbert C. Pell, former Minister to Budapest, and Mrs. Pell and many members of consular and legation staffs in Axis-occupied Europe and in Germany and Italy went aboard the ship happily. In addition there were diplomats and nationals from Mexico, Colombia, Venezuela, Guatemala, Cuba, Peru, Bolivia, San Salvador, Costa Rica and Haiti.

Associated Press correspondents returning on the ship included Louis P. Lochner, Alvin J. Steinkopf, Ernest G. Fischer and Angus Thuermer of the Berlin bureau and Richard G. Massock, chief of bureau at Rome.

Hundreds of persons crowded the pier here to watch the Drottningholm sail, and many watched with envy. Shortly before the ship departed, Louis P. Harl, an American newspaper correspondent who had spent many years in Paris, rushed down the gangplank, saying "I won't go. I won't go." Harl has a French wife and five children in Paris. He served in the United States Army during the first World War and remained in Paris after it ended.

Beatrice Michelina Middleton, American actress who lived for several years in Spain, sailed, although friends said she has been very ill.

Admiral Hart Gets Gold Star

President Roosevelt yesterday presented to Admr. Thomas C. Hart a Gold Star, in lieu of the second Distinguished Service Medal, for "exceptionally meritorious service" as commander in chief, United States Asiatic Fleet.

The ceremony took place in the President's office in the presence of Secretary of the Navy Knox and Admr. Ernest J. King, commander in chief of the combined fleets.

The citation with the Gold Star said Admiral Hart's conduct of the operations of Allied naval forces in the southwest Pacific during January and February, 1942, was characterized "by unfailing judgment and sound decision coupled with marked moral courage in the face of discouraging surroundings and complex associations."

It added that in his position of great responsibility he "exercised sound judgment and marked resourcefulness in dealing with the difficult military and diplomatic situation prevailing prior to December 7, 1941, and upon our entry into war with Japan disposed and handled the Asiatic fleet in a manner which left nothing to be desired."

Korean Nationalist Warns Of Jap Blow at Soviet in June

By Scott Hart
Post Staff Writer

Kilsoo Haan, the Korean nationalist who at least broadly warned the United States—in advance—of the line of attack the Japanese would use on this country, yesterday told The Post that the Japanese Embassies in Argentina and Chile have advised their nationals that Japan may attack the maritime provinces of Siberia and the Kamchatka Peninsula in June.

HAAN

Haan's sources were agents of the Sino-Korean People's League in Central and South America. He has faith in them. The Japanese nationals in the two key countries have been told, the agents informed Haan "to be ready for any emergency which may come in June."

Why the Japs in Argentina and Chile, specifically, were so put on notice of the purported Siberian attack baffles Haan. He knows that the Japanese have been strangely loose with their plans before, but he doesn't know why plans should be scattered among their groups in South America.

"Since December, 1941," Haan said, "the agents of the Sino-Korean People's League have been very active in Central and South America.

"The Japanese Embassies said that 700,000 Japanese troops are poised for an attack on the following five strategic points:

"Vladivostok—Russia's only naval base in the Far East.

"Khabarovsk—nerve center of the Trans-Siberian Railroad and of the Amut River to Nikolayevsk.

"Blagoryeshchensk—toward Bochareva—and the Trans-Siberian Railroad.

"Otoveyannaya—toward Lake Baikal."

Haan emphasized the importance of the Japanese naval base of Rashin in North Korea—which is only 150 miles from Vladivostok."

Haan's sensational and prophetic disclosures before the war began were based on information he gathered from the book, "The Three Power Alliance and the United States-Japanese War," which had been published openly in Japan in 1940. Haan somehow purloined a copy, which had been brought to California by two Japanese members of the Black Dragon Society.

Koreans Observe Treaty Anniversary

Koreans here yesterday observed the sixtieth anniversary of the signing of the Treaty of Amity and Friendship with the United States. A delegation laid a wreath on the grave of Commodore R. W. Shufeldt in Arlington Cemetery in token of his part in arranging the treaty.

Shufeldt consummated the treaty on May 22, 1882, introducing Korea, then the "Hermit Kingdom," to the Western world. Korea's isolation and seclusion, centuries old, thus was ended. But within the next 25 years Japan drove the Korean Emperor from his throne and annexed the country.

Industry Wage Pacts Backed By Roosevelt

By Joseph A. Loftus
Associated Press Staff Writer

Industry-wide wage agreements were reported last night to be high on the list of a half dozen steps which President Roosevelt said might be taken to prevent unwarranted pay increases.

The President did not enumerate these possible half dozen steps, but told a press conference the Government would do everything it could to keep private plants from boosting wages without substantial cause.

Lending support to the report of favor in high places for industry-wide wage agreements was the fact that the Government concluded one itself yesterday with 19 A. F. of L. building trade unions, with memberships totaling about 1,500,000.

The pact virtually blankets the entire Government building construction field for the duration of the war and provides that any justified wage adjustments shall be handled by a Federal board rather than by individual companies. A similar agreement prevails in shipbuilding.

Unions Recognize Danger

The pact was announced by Secretary of Labor Perkins who said that while other industry agreements were not formally being negotiated, "studies are being made." She told newsmen the building trade pact was "extremely important" and predicted its impact on the national economy would be "admirable."

The unions said they took the action because they recognized "the danger of drastic inflation due to rapid and uncontrolled increases in prices of commodities and to assist in effectuating the seven points outlined by President Roosevelt in his message to Congress."

Meanwhile, the War Labor Board, ruling on wages for the first time since President Roosevelt called for stabilization of remuneration of workers, turned down a union request for a general increase for 1700 employes of the Breeze Corporations, Inc., Newark, N. J. However, the board raised the hiring rate, and allowed upward revision of rates in 10 different classes of work to achieve standardization.

The building trades stabilization agreement sets up a wage adjustment board consisting of three representatives of the unions, three representatives of Government contracting agencies, and a chairman, who is Daniel W. Tracy, Assistant Secretary of Labor.

G.M. Reaches Pact With CIO On Overtime

By the Associated Press

General Motors Corporation and two C. I. O. unions reached an agreement yesterday on a pay formula for overtime, the issue that precipitated G. M. C.'s short-lived defiance of the War Labor Board early this month.

The formula puts an end to premium pay for Saturdays, Sundays and holidays, as such. It provides for straight time for the first 40 hours of a work week, time and a half for work in excess of eight hours a day and 40 hours a week, time and a half for the sixth consecutive day of work, and double time for the seventh consecutive day of work.

It is understood the shifts will be so arranged that for practical purposes there will be no double time. Also, any time worked on the sixth day customarily would be in excess of 40 hours and therefore compensated for at the time-and-one-half rate. Overtime for the sixth and seventh days would be diminished by all time lost for personal reasons.

The agreement with the United Automobile Workers will go into effect next Monday at 12:01 a. m., and affects nearly 200,000 workers. The effective date of the agreement with the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers has not been determined.

All other provisions of existing agreements will remain in effect until new pacts are written. Mediation hearings before a war labor board panel will go forward, and any pay increases agreed upon or ordered by the board will be retroactive to April 28, the expiration date of the old contracts. The Electrical Workers Union is negotiating for about 30,000 employes.

The board on May 1 ordered the old U. A. W. contract extended till May 18, including the double time for Sundays, as such. The corporation first refused to agree, but capitulated at a public hearing a few days later. Negotiation of a new overtime formula began immediately after the hearing on May 6. Conferees worked 4 days and 3 nights a week until the agreement was reached.

Race Bias Rules In Many Plants, Ethridge Says

Cambridge, Mass., May 22 (AP).—Mark Ethridge, a member of President Roosevelt's Fair Practice Committee, asserted today that many of the Nation's largest and most vital war industries were discriminating against Negroes and Jews by refusing to hire them, even when they were highly skilled workers.

Ethridge, who is general manager of the Louisville Courier-Journal, told a Nieman Foundation Institute on War Problems that the race issue constituted a highly important question in connection with the Nation's war effort.

He said the rules of some labor unions were responsible for wholesale discrimination against Negroes in war plants.

He declared that both the Germans and Japanese were making use of the race issue abroad as a major war weapon.

Merchants Here Weigh Proposal To Cut Stocks

stores to turn back certain goods to wholesalers or sell them to other retailers, should not be viewed necessarily as a preliminary to general rationing.

As the plan probably will work out, a merchant having an excess of one or more kinds of goods, say, furniture and turkish towels, would not be permitted to buy merchandise in which he is running low until his surpluses were unloaded.

Artificial Shortages

According to WPB, inventories have skyrocketed throughout the country in the last few months. This is attributed, at least in part, to withdrawal from the market of such items as washing machines, vacuum sweepers and others whose manufacture requires critical materials.

Unable to buy these, merchants have put their money into abnormally large stocks of nondurable goods, creating artificial shortages which the WPB is seeking to relieve.

An existing WPB regulation prohibits inventories beyond a "practicable working minimum." The order which is being drafted will define this minimum for the first time, probably differentiating between durable and nondurable goods and making allowances for stores in defense areas.

New York Merchants Also Discuss Order

New York, May 22 (AP).—About 70 leading retail merchants discussed today at a closed meeting the proposed War Production Board order which would limit store inventories to an arbitrary level that observers said might be below the current average position.

Lew Hahn, general manager of the National Retail Dry Goods Association, which called the meeting of representatives of some of America's largest stores, said the consensus was that the retail trades would cooperate with the Government in all necessary steps.

"It was generally agreed that probably some inventory limitation ruling may be necessary," Hahn said in a statement, "but that to achieve the desired result the order should be made thoroughly practicable and clear as to its meaning, and no greater burden should be placed upon the consuming public and the stores which serve them than is actually necessary."

Tentative "drafts" of the expected order, trade sources said, were reported to have circulated for several days in retail quarters.

Observers said probably 500,000 of the country's 1,800,000-odd retail outlets would be affected if the order should be applied to stores with total inventories of $20,000 or more.

The greatest uncertainty, these sources pointed out, was the basis by which inventories should be measured.

3 'Best-Dressed Girls' Are WAACs

(privates in the ranks) will have the same insignia but it will be on disks rather than of the cut-out variety.

Rank insignia for officers, to be worn on jackets, shirtwaists, overcoats and utility coats, will be the same as that for Army officers of corresponding grade. Although the WAAC is serving "with" the Army and is not "in" it, therefore, the bars and leaves of lieutenants, captains, and majors will be worn. Only one gold leaf will be issued, however, as only Director Oveta Culp Hobby will rank that high in the service.

Undies Still Unsettled

With the underwear and blouses the Quartermaster Corps is still having trouble. Not much information was released on them yesterday. Blouses worn by the models yesterday were not quite "regulation." It is still assumed the underwear will be cotton, although there probably will be some rayon for dress-up purposes and to match the hosiery. If the same high-class designing obvious in the WAAC suits is followed, certainly it will be something the girls will wear without grumbles.

The blouse, when finished, will have long sleeves and two patch pockets. It can be worn without the coat in summer. A specially designed necktie in a khaki shade, somewhat more narrow and short than the regular Army issue, will be worn with the shirtwaist that is worn with the jackets. Although officers at the college were tight-lipped about it, it is believed the official blouse will be worn without a tie. A press release has promised it will be "modish."

The three uniforms modeled looked distinctly "Army," but had a wearable feminine softness. The skirts were flared slightly, but not too much to break WPB rationing orders. The coat is long and belted, with four pockets. The summer uniform, which is light khaki in color and made of cotton twill, will be the same for both officers and Auxiliaries—except for the insignia.

Shades of Olive Drab

Winter uniforms, however, have a difference. The Auxiliary's winter uniform will be of two olive drab shades that are almost the same. But the two shades used for the officers' winter uniform are so different the skirt seems almost gray and the jacket almost brown. If fashion magazines were displaying the two, they would list four colors for them—but they all are "o. d." to the Army.

Caps for all are high and stiff, with a visor. They look somewhat like the new Red Cross caps, except the latter can be softened on the sides and made into different shapes. On girls who "can wear them" they will be extremely rakish, but some faces may find them difficult.

Tobacco brown calfskin oxfords with military heels will be regulation. To match the anklets, however, an athletic, laced oxford with white canvas uppers and black soles will be issued. A slipper of moccasin type, done in capeskin, with a soft leather sole will be included in the uniform for comfortable wear in the barracks. The galosh is a two-snap model with an 8-inch square top.

Eagle on Buttons

All buttons will be of plastic material, decorated with the WAAC eagle embossment.

Three coats also will be issued to the well-dressed corps. The double-breasted overcoat is made of 16-ounce covert cloth, with vertical slash pockets and inverted pleats in the back, held in by a half belt. In addition to this well-tailored and attractive garment, there will be a utility coat with a removable woolen lining and a light weight raincoat with a hood. Cotton rayon fabric has been used in the tricky utility coat, that looks as if it would be at home on a college campus. A scalloped cape "sets off this garment and affords additional protection across the shoulders."

In addition to all this, the Quartermaster Corps will issue to the WAAC's a combination hand and general-use bag of golden tobacco brown, made of water-repellent cotton rayon and having two units which can be used together or separately. The main bag will contain several small fitted cases, including a change purse and "compartments for personal items." Both bags will be equipped with slide fasteners and the handbag will be attached to the utility bag with slide fasteners. They can be worn over the shoulders or carried under the arm.

Price Control May Require 100,000 Police

Copyright by Chicago Sun

More than a hundred thousand Federal employes will be needed to police price controls and rationing, Price Administrator Leon Henderson yesterday told the House Appropriations Deficiency Committee in recommending that 210 million dollars be provided for his office.

This was the information members of the group disclosed tonight after having questioned Henderson on the need for so many new employes. They said that thus far, the Budget Bureau has not cleared Henderson's request.

Henderson now has about 7200 employes in his office and in the field. Committeemen said he told them that 95,000 more would be needed, including lawyers, statisticians, inspectors and "sleuths."

"Judging from Henderson's statements, there will be gumshoers operating in every hamlet in the country," one committeeman asserted. "Henderson told the House Banking Committee last fall that the price controls established would be self-policing. We called him to learn why he wants a Nation-wide organization to poke into every little general merchandise store at the crossroads."

When the price control bill was before the House last winter, Representative Albert Gore (Democrat), Tennessee, who unsuccessfully sponsored the Baruch over-all freezing anti-inflation bill, predicted that if Henderson's price control bill passed it would "require a hundred thousand people to enforce it."

Committeemen said they would investigate Henderson's request further and would withhold action until the Budget Bureau submits an estimate of his needs.

Army Seeks 45 Billions For Next Year

By Cecil B. Dickson

Copyright by Chicago Sun

The Army's 1943 war program yesterday reached the staggering figure of 45 billion dollars as the Navy planned vast expansion of its aircraft carrier and submarine fleets.

Nearly a billion dollars for construction of submarines and small aircraft carriers was requested by the Navy yesterday in a supplemental budget estimate. This estimate is to be made public formally next week.

In that connection, it was learned that President Roosevelt recently had conferred with leading Naval Affairs members of Congress on the feasibility of expanding the aircraft carrier program to 100 ships. This would give the United States more aircraft carriers than all the nations combined. The Japanese are reported to have 35, including converted tankers.

Super Battleships Delayed

Plans for construction of two super battleships, that were projected before the war broke out, have been deferred to permit the steel to be used to rush completion of battleships now on the ways and for building of smaller naval craft, it was reported.

A few weeks ago, the War Department reported to the House Appropriations Committee that it would ask for 35 billions for the expansion and maintenance of the Army in the fiscal year beginning July 1. Hearings before the committee had been scheduled to be opened on May 11.

Since then the estimates have been boosted to 45 billions, and for the first time, Budget Director Howard D. Smith has submitted them to the War Production Board for advice on whether this huge program can be fitted in with the already authorized 165-billion-dollar program.

Reports that are disturbing Naval Affairs and Maritime Committee members in Congress are to the effect that WPB Chief Donald M. Nelson, the Army, Navy and Maritime high command, have reached an impasse on the distribution of steel.

Production Lines Hum

Nelson has his production lines of tanks, planes, munitions and guns moving at high speed. Informed Congressmen say that Nelson believes they should not be interrupted, but that the Navy and Maritime Commission chiefs assert that unless steel for ships to carry war materials to the battlefront is released in sufficient quantity that the guns, tanks, munitions and fighter planes are useless except for defense purposes on this continent.

Already Nelson has taken drastic steps to limit the use of steel for all but war and other vital defense purposes. A directive, to be signed by the WPA, War and Navy Departments, already is virtually in effect, although the signatures have been withheld pending establishment of a policy on steel distribution.

With such an impasse, the problem was reported to have been laid on President Roosevelt's doorstep for a final decision.

Georgetown U. Ready for Graduation Activities

Georgetown University's 143d annual commencement activities will open today with a mass in Dahlgren Chapel at 9 a. m. for Georgetown men in the armed services and a dual track meet wth Fordham at 6:30 p. m., for Army Relief.

The entire day will be given over to alumni who are beginning to arrive from many sections for probably their last class reunions during the war.

The Rev. John J. Kehoe, S. J., faculty director of athletics, will be celebrant at the mass, which will be followed at 11:30 a. m. by the National Alumni Association meeting. New officers are to be elected, the incumbent president being Martin B. Conboy of New York, former United States Attorney.

A flag raising ceremony at 2:30 p.m. will feature the dedication of the new Hoya Field in the rear of the Medical-Dental buildings on Reservoir Road. With Col. Denham B. Crafton, professor of military science and tactics in command, the flag raising will be the signal for the start of the track meet.

Senior R. O. T. C. cadets will be in charge on the field and the entire proceeds will be given to the relief work of the Army. Georgetown University's athletic department is paying out of its own pocket the expenses of the visiting teams.

While the field is soggy from yesterday's rain, there was no indication early last night that the track meet would be postponed.

The newly elected alumni officers and approximately 500 old grads will attend the reunion dinner tonight at 6:30 in the senior dining hall on the campus. They will be welcomed by the Very Rev. Arthur A. O'Leary, S. J., president of the university. The program will be informal.

Tomorrow at 10:30 a. m. in Dahlgren Chapel the seniors of all departments will attend the baccalaureate mass. The Rev. Henri J. Wiesel, S. J., pastor of the Church of St. Aloysius, in Washington, will preach the sermon. There will be a lawn party on the college campus at 4:30 p. m. Awarding of prizes to honor students will take place tomorrow night at 8:30 o'clock on the college campus. Robert B. Neu, one of the honor students of the college senior class, will deliver the traditional Cohonguraton oration, or class valedictory.

The commencement exercises take place Monday at 5 p. m. on the campus, when degrees will be conferred on all seniors except those of the law school. The latter will hold its graduation exercises on June 6.

Postmaster General Frank C. Walker will make the address at Monday's commencement and receive an honorary Doctor of Laws degree from the university.

A. F. G. Deplores Denial of Leave

Expressing fear that restriction of leave for Government workers may impair their health, the American Federation of Government Employes last night adopted a motion calling for an investigation of the matter.

The motion was introduced by Caso March, chairman of the legislative committee. Members of the unit pointed out Government workers are now deprived in many cases of time off on holidays and Sundays.

Harry J. Keller, president of the District department of the organization, presided.

Race Bias Rules In Many Plants, Ethridge Says

Cambridge, Mass., May 22 (AP).—Mark Ethridge, a member of President Roosevelt's Fair Practice Committee, asserted today that many of the Nation's largest and most vital war industries were discriminating against Negroes and Jews by refusing to hire them, even when they were highly skilled workers.

Ethridge, who is general manager of the Louisville Courier-Journal, told a Nieman Foundation Institute on War Problems that the race issue constituted a highly important question in connection with the Nation's war effort.

He said the rules of some labor unions were responsible for wholesale discrimination against Negroes in war plants.

He declared that both the Germans and Japanese were making use of the race issue abroad as a major war weapon.

Merchants Here Weigh Proposal To Cut Stocks

stores to turn back certain goods to wholesalers or sell them to other retailers, should not be viewed necessarily as a preliminary to general rationing.

As the plan probably will work out, a merchant having an excess of one or more kinds of goods, say, furniture and turkish towels, would not be permitted to buy merchandise in which he is running low until his surpluses were unloaded.

Artificial Shortages

According to WPB, inventories have skyrocketed throughout the country in the last few months. This is attributed, at least in part, to withdrawal from the market of such items as washing machines, vacuum sweepers and others whose manufacture requires critical materials.

Unable to buy these, merchants have put their money into abnormally large stocks of nondurable goods, creating artificial shortages which the WPB is seeking to relieve.

An existing WPB regulation prohibits inventories beyond a "practicable working minimum." The order which is being drafted will define this minimum for the first time, probably differentiating between durable and nondurable goods and making allowances for stores in defense areas.

New York Merchants Also Discuss Order

New York, May 22 (AP).—About 70 leading retail merchants discussed today at a closed meeting the proposed War Production Board order which would limit store inventories to an arbitrary level that observers said might be below the current average position.

Lew Hahn, general manager of the National Retail Dry Goods Association, which called the meeting of representatives of some of America's largest stores, said the consensus was that the retail trades would cooperate with the Government in all necessary steps.

"It was generally agreed that probably some inventory limitation ruling may be necessary," Hahn said in a statement, "but that to achieve the desired result the order should be made thoroughly practicable and clear as to its meaning, and no greater burden should be placed upon the consuming public and the stores which serve them than is actually necessary."

Tentative "drafts" of the expected order, trade sources said, were reported to have circulated for several days in retail quarters.

Observers said probably 500,000 of the country's 1,800,000-odd retail outlets would be affected if the order should be applied to stores with total inventories of $20,000 or more.

The greatest uncertainty, these sources pointed out, was the basis by which inventories should be measured.

(privates in the ranks) will have the same insignia but it will be on disks rather than of the cut-out variety.

Rank insignia for officers, to be worn on jackets, shirtwaists, overcoats and utility coats, will be the same as that for Army officers of corresponding grade. Although the WAAC is serving "with" the Army and is not "in" it, therefore, the bars and leaves of lieutenants, captains, and majors will be worn. Only one gold leaf will be issued, however, as only Director Oveta Culp Hobby will rank that high in the service.

Undies Still Unsettled

With the underwear and blouses the Quartermaster Corps is still having trouble. Not much information was released on them yesterday. Blouses worn by the models yesterday were not quite "regulation." It is still assumed the underwear will be cotton, although there probably will be some rayon for dress-up purposes and to match the hosiery. If the same high-class designing obvious in the WAAC suits is followed, certainly it will be something the girls will wear without grumbles.

The blouse, when finished, will have long sleeves and two patch pockets. It can be worn without the coat in summer. A specially designed necktie in a khaki shade, somewhat more narrow and short than the regular Army issue, will be worn with the shirtwaist that is worn with the jackets. Although officers at the college were tight-lipped about it, it is believed the official blouse will be worn without a tie. A press release has promised it will be "modish."

The three uniforms modeled looked distinctly "Army," but had a wearable feminine softness. The skirts were flared slightly, but not too much to break WPB rationing orders. The coat is long and belted, with four pockets. The summer uniform, which is light khaki in color and made of cotton twill, will be the same for both officers and Auxiliaries—except for the insignia.

Shades of Olive Drab

Winter uniforms, however, have a difference. The Auxiliary's winter uniform will be of two olive drab shades that are almost the same. But the two shades used for the officers' winter uniform are so different the skirt seems almost gray and the jacket almost brown. If fashion magazines were displaying the two, they would list four colors for them—but they all are "o. d." to the Army.

Caps for all are high and stiff, with a visor. They look somewhat like the new Red Cross caps, except the latter can be softened on the sides and made into different shapes. On girls who "can wear them" they will be extremely rakish, but some faces may find them difficult.

Tobacco brown calfskin oxfords with military heels will be regulation. To match the anklets, however, an athletic, laced oxford with white canvas uppers and black soles will be issued. A slipper of moccasin type, done in capeskin, with a soft leather sole will be included in the uniform for comfortable wear in the barracks. The galosh is a two-snap model with an 8-inch square top.

Eagle on Buttons

All buttons will be of plastic material, decorated with the WAAC eagle embossment.

Three coats also will be issued to the well-dressed corps. The double-breasted overcoat is made of 16-ounce covert cloth, with vertical slash pockets and inverted pleats in the back, held in by a half belt. In addition to this well-tailored and attractive garment, there will be a utility coat with a removable woolen lining and a light weight raincoat with a hood. Cotton rayon fabric has been used in the tricky utility coat, that looks as if it would be at home on a college campus. A scalloped cape "sets off this garment and affords additional protection across the shoulders."

In addition to all this, the Quartermaster Corps will issue to the WAAC's a combination hand and general-use bag of golden tobacco brown, made of water-repellent cotton rayon and having two units which can be used together or separately. The main bag will contain several small fitted cases, including a change purse and "compartments for personal items." Both bags will be equipped with slide fasteners and the handbag will be attached to the utility bag with slide fasteners. They can be worn over the shoulders or carried under the arm.

Price Control May Require 100,000 Police

Copyright by Chicago Sun

More than a hundred thousand Federal employes will be needed to police price controls and rationing, Price Administrator Leon Henderson yesterday told the House Appropriations Deficiency Committee in recommending that 210 million dollars be provided for his office.

This was the information members of the group disclosed tonight after having questioned Henderson on the need for so many new employes. They said that thus far, the Budget Bureau has not cleared Henderson's request.

Henderson now has about 7200 employes in his office and in the field. Committeemen said he told them that 95,000 more would be needed, including lawyers, statisticians, inspectors and "sleuths."

"Judging from Henderson's statements, there will be gumshoers operating in every hamlet in the country," one committeeman asserted. "Henderson told the House Banking Committee last fall that the price controls established would be self-policing. We called him to learn why he wants a Nation-wide organization to poke into every little general merchandise store at the crossroads."

When the price control bill was before the House last winter, Representative Albert Gore (Democrat), Tennessee, who unsuccessfully sponsored the Baruch over-all freezing anti-inflation bill, predicted that if Henderson's price control bill passed it would "require a hundred thousand people to enforce it."

Committeemen said they would investigate Henderson's request further and would withhold action until the Budget Bureau submits an estimate of his needs.

Army Seeks 45 Billions For Next Year

By Cecil B. Dickson

Copyright by Chicago Sun

The Army's 1943 war program yesterday reached the staggering figure of 45 billion dollars as the Navy planned vast expansion of its aircraft carrier and submarine fleets.

Nearly a billion dollars for construction of submarines and small aircraft carriers was requested by the Navy yesterday in a supplemental budget estimate. This estimate is to be made public formally next week.

In that connection, it was learned that President Roosevelt recently had conferred with leading Naval Affairs members of Congress on the feasibility of expanding the aircraft carrier program to 100 ships. This would give the United States more aircraft carriers than all the nations combined. The Japanese are reported to have 35, including converted tankers.

Super Battleships Delayed

Plans for construction of two super battleships, that were projected before the war broke out have been deferred to permit the steel to be used to rush completion of battleships now on the ways and for building of smaller naval craft, it was reported.

A few weeks ago, the War Department reported to the House Appropriations Committee that it would ask for 35 billions for the expansion and maintenance of the Army in the fiscal year beginning July 1. Hearings before the committee had been scheduled to be opened on May 11.

Since then the estimates have been boosted to 45 billions, and for the first time, Budget Director Howard D. Smith has submitted them to the War Production Board for advice on whether this huge program can be fitted in with the already authorized 165-billion-dollar program.

Reports that are disturbing Naval Affairs and Maritime Committee members in Congress are to the effect that WPB Chief Donald M. Nelson, the Army, Navy and Maritime high command, have reached an impasse on the distribution of steel.

Production Lines Hum

Nelson has his production lines of tanks, planes, munitions and guns moving at high speed. Informed Congressmen say that Nelson believes they should not be interrupted, but that the Navy and Maritime Commission chiefs assert that unless steel for ships to carry war materials to the battlefront is released in sufficient quantity that the guns, tanks, munitions and fighter planes are useless except for defense purposes on this continent.

Already Nelson has taken drastic steps to limit the use of steel for all but war and other vital defense purposes. A directive, to be signed by the WPA, War and Navy Departments, already is virtually in effect, although the signatures have been withheld pending establishment of a policy on steel distribution.

With such an impasse, the problem was reported to have been laid on President Roosevelt's doorstep for a final decision.

Georgetown U. Ready for Graduation Activities

Georgetown University's 143d annual commencement activities will open today with a mass in Dahlgren Chapel at 8 a. m. for Georgetown men in the armed services and a dual track meet with Fordham at 6:30 p. m., for Army Relief.

The entire day will be given over to alumni who are beginning to arrive from many sections for probably their last class reunions during the war.

The Rev. John J. Kehoe, S. J., faculty director of athletics, will be celebrant at the mass, which will be followed at 11:30 a. m. by the National Alumni Association meeting. New officers are to be elected, the incumbent president being Martin B. Conboy of New York, former United States Attorney.

A flag raising ceremony at 2:30 p.m. will feature the dedication of the new Hoya Field in the rear of the Medical-Dental buildings on Reservoir Road. With Col. Denham B. Crafton, professor of military science and tactics in command, the flag raising will be the signal for the start of the track meet.

Senior R. O. T. C. cadets will be in charge on the field and the entire proceeds will be given to the relief work of the Army. Georgetown University's athletic department is paying out of its own pocket the expenses of the visiting teams.

While the field is soggy from yesterday's rain, there was no indication early last night that the track meet would be postponed.

The newly elected alumni officers and approximately 500 old grads will attend the reunion dinner tonight at 6:30 in the senior dining hall on the campus. They will be welcomed by the Very Rev. Arthur A. O'Leary, S. J., president of the university. The program will be informal.

Tomorrow at 10:30 a. m. in Dahlgren Chapel the seniors of all departments will attend the baccalaureate mass. The Rev. Henri J. Wiesel, S. J., pastor of the Church of St. Aloysius, in Washington, will preach the sermon. There will be a lawn party on the college campus at 4:30 p. m. Awarding of prizes to honor students will take place tomorrow night at 8:30 o'clock on the college campus. Robert B. Neu, one of the honor students of the college senior class, will deliver the traditional Cohonguraton oration, or class valedictory.

The commencement exercises take place Monday at 5 p. m. on the campus, when degrees will be conferred on all seniors except those of the law school. The latter will hold its graduation exercises on June 6.

Postmaster General Frank C. Walker will make the address at Monday's commencement and receive an honorary Doctor of Laws degree from the university.

A. F. G. Deplores Denial of Leave

Expressing fear that restriction of leave for Government workers may impair their health, the American Federation of Government Employes last night adopted a motion calling for an investigation of the matter.

The motion was introduced by Caso March, chairman of the legislative committee. Members of the unit pointed out Government workers are now deprived in many cases of time off on holidays and Sundays.

Harry J. Keller, president of the District department of the organization, presided.

Giant Flying Boats Will Smash Foes, Martin Predicts

Copyright by New York Tribune, Inc.

New York, May 22.—Glenn L. Martin, aircraft designer and manufacturer, predicted today that great fleets of 140,000-pound flying boat transports, the largest in the world, will help to "insure winning the war."

Once the war is won, he said, great peace-time fleets of 250,000 and 500,000 pound planes will be the commercial tranpsorts of the post-war era. Their capacity and speed, he added, will be limited only by the daily volume of cargo to be carried and the number of trips desired.

"It is a fact that American war aircraft production is nearly twice that of Germany, and all this before the automobile companies had begun to roll out airplanes," Martin said. "We are beginning to see the results of this production, as well as the superior American quality."

Martin spoke at a luncheon at which Lord & Taylor presented its fifth annual American Designs Award to Martin.

Walter Hoving, president of Lord & Taylor, who presided, described the aircraft designer's supreme accomplishment up to the present—a 250,000 pound flying boat. "These ships are ready for construction. They may play the deciding role in eventual history," Hoving said.

The 250,000 pound giant, which will dwarf Martin's 140,000 pound Mars, now the world's largest flying boat, "ca nearry 102 passengers with eighty pounds of baggage apiece, 25,000 pounds of mail and a crew of 12, all of this at a speed that will cover the distance between New York and London in thirteen hours," Hoving said.

"Convert that payload into 1000-pound bombs," he continued, "then picture to yourself a flight of these monsters dropping missiles on the tinder box cities of Japan or on the industrial centers of Germany. The fires that raged in London, Pearl Harbor, Chungking, Singapore and Manila will seem like mere bonfires in comparison. Nor is this an idle dream. These ships are ready for construction. They may play the deciding role in eventual victory."

Raid on Foochow From Sea Repelled

planes bombed Mamoi, on the north shore of the stream about 20 miles east of Foochow.

In neighboring Chekiang Province, north of Fukien, the Chinese said a Japanese column occupied Tunglu, 35 miles southwest of Hangchow, and continued westward in an attempt to outflank Kinhwa, provisional capital of Chekiang and gateway to Kiangsi Province and central China.

This enemy column, one of four thrusting across Chekiang, advanced along the north shore of the Cinetang River toward Lanchi, which lies some 65 miles farther southwest of Tunglu and about 12 miles northwest of Kinhwa.

A second Japanese column moving down the railway toward Kinhwa was reported attacking Iwu, about 32 miles northeast of Kinhwa.

The enemy drive to the vicinity of Iwu represented an advance of 15 miles since yesterday when this foremost spearhead was reported some 50 miles from Kinhwa, which American and other missionaries began leaving yesterday.

More than 1000 Japanese were declared killed in a battle Tuesday west of Chengsien, where the Chinese acknowledged their losses too were heavy.

Announcing a victory in Central China, Chiang Kai-shek's command said Chinese troops recaptured Loshan, in southern Honan Province, and that the Japanese were retreating westward.

(The Japanese radio claimed continuing successes in Chekiang, saying that two Chinese armies were beaten badly May 19 and that mopping-up operations were in progress.)

(The Japanese claimed that in the week ending Friday they smashed remnants of the Chinese Communist army in Hopei Province and cleaned up guerilla forces in western Shantung, killing 8,911 Chinese and taking 12,469 prisoners).

In North China, the Chinese said three Japanese columns had started a new attack near the Fen River in South Shansi Province but had been checked.

There were no reports from Yunnan Province in the southwest, into which the Japanese have advanced from Burma. The British announced another bombing at Akyab airport, on Burma's west coast.

A Chinese unit making a daring assault upon Japanese at Nawngkio, Burmese town between Mandalay and Lashio, were declared to have inflicted 300 casualties upon the enemy and destroyed four Japanese armored cars.

Whatever the result of the new Japanese assaults in China, there will be no Chinese food problem, Admiral Shen Chung-zieh, minister of agriculture, reported. This autumn's harvest will be 20 per cent better than last year.

Thief Takes $70, Ruins Furniture Of D. C. Office

The thief who entered the Liberty Auto Body Corporation office, 2115 M Street Northwest, sometime Thursday night or early Friday and stole $70 from a metal cabinet plus the contents of two pay telephones, apparently didn't find as much cash as he expected.

He turned the office into a setting for chaos by slashing the upholstery on a davenport and several chairs, smashed a radio and, just to make a good job of it, cut up some clothes.

The incident was reported by Eugene S. Fauntleroy, 6142 Sligo Mill Road Northeast, owner.

Manager Augustus Gumpert of the Harrington Hotel reported the theft of an envelope containing six $100 bills from a safe deposit box in the hotel sometime between 6 p. m. and midnight Thursday. Albert Sorenson, owner of a metal shop at 1204 Twenty-third Street Northwest, said a safe in the shop was looted of $30 Thursday night or Friday morning.

Citizens' Group Urges Pay Rises For U. S. Employes

The Anacostia Citizens Association last night advocated $300-per-year increases in salaries of Government employes, Federal and District, as well as time and one-half pay for more than 40 hours a week as proposed by President Roosevelt and the Civil Service Commission.

In another resolution adopted at its meeting at Anacostia Senior-Junior High School, Sixteenth and Ridge Streets Southeast, the association pledged its support of efforts to obtain priorities for a proposed school at Hillside Road and Alabama Avenue Southeast.

The association further resolved that the Federal Government should share the burden of any increase in water rates which may be imposed.

It was the organization's last meeting until next September.

British Papers Assail Publicity Results in U. S.

Copyright by New York Tribune, Inc.

London, May 22.—At an estimated cost of $1,500,000 a year the British cause is ill-served in the United States by those in charge of its publicity in Washington and no improvement is to be expected merely from the recent appointment of Harold Butler to take over the British press service from Sir Gerald Campbell.

This is the gist of comments appearing today in the London weeklies, World's Press News and the influential Economist, marking the climax of a wave of criticism over the inefficiency of British publicity in America.

Computing the expenditure on this publicity at between four and five million dollars since the war started, the Press News declares that "all evidence of the results achieved points to failure rather than success," an dsays that only a radical overhauling of the publicity machine can save the situation.

British Information Head Here Replaced

Retirement of Sir Gerald Campbell as Director General of the British Information Service in the United States was announced last night. He will be succeeded by Harold Butler, who will hold the rank of Minister, and who is expected to arrive here in June.

The retiring director, however, will continue to act as adviser to the Ambassador, Lord Halifax, it was stated.

Kin of Defendant Testifies at Civil Service Theft Trial

Wallace M. Haynes, brother of a defendant charged with illegal removal of Civil Service Commission records, testified in District Court yesterday that he thought the removal was not wrong, but admitted under Government examination that certain actions of another defendant had made him aprehensive about the matter.

Haynes was asked by Assistant United States District Attorney Charles B. Murray whether he ever saw Harlin G. Crandall, former Civil Service Commission employe, look back over his shoulder while carrying out records to determine "if anybody was seeing him."

Crandall's attorney, James A. O'Shea, objected at this point but Justice James W. Morris allowed Haynes' affirmaitve answer to go into evidence. The witness was called to testify by his brother, Lawrence L. Haynes, one of five defendants on trial.

Haynes told the court and jury, under examination by Murray, that he saw Crandall "look back" on two or three occasions. He said he himself had called at the Civil Service Commission in a car to get records about 15 times.

19 Seamen Face Mutiny Charges

Key West, Fla., May 22 (INS).—Nineteen civilian seamen, facing possible charges of mutiny, tonight were removed from an American merchantman at anchor in Key West harbor.

The sailors were taken into custody by a squad of armed U. S. Marines.

They were charged with endangering the safety of their ship and of the port.

"If evidence shows that there was a concerted effort to mutiny, we will enter charges of mutiny against the men," officials said.

Police revealed yesterday that the pistol used in the shooting of Johnson, who died early Wednesday morning in Casualty Hospital of a wound in the abdomen, was found in Drew's room when they arrested him Thursday afternoon.

Steel Workers Elect Murray First President

By the Associated Press

Cleveland, May 22.—C. I. O. President Philip Murray today was chosen the $20,000-a-year president of the C. I. O. United Steelworkers of America, formed this week from the Steel Workers Organizing Committee which he has headed since its 1936 inception.

A visibly nervous crane operator from Brackenridge, Pa.—Russell Richards, 33—nominated Murray with these words:

"Next to Franklin D. Roosevelt, I revere him more than anyone else in the country."

The sandy-haired delegate returned to his chair and cried as the union's constitutional convention staged a 15-minute demonstration before electing Murray by a standing vote which appeared unanimous. The chairman had been greeted with a chorus of "No" when he asked if there were any other nominations.

The C. I. O. president, accepting the steelworkers' position, said in the past his only salary had been the $18,000 a year he drew from John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers and added:

"I hope—and I say hope—to continue occupancy of the vice presidency of the United Mine Workers without compensation—at least until my term expires."

Just before his election Murray disclosed the union had "saved $1,500,000 against a rainy day that may come. I want that money to fight the situation out against anybody who might want to destroy this union."

ever, the 5-year carry-over of losses against future gains.

In the case of banks, net capital losses attributable to sale or exchange of bonds or other evidences of indebtedness would be allowed in full as deductions against other income, with the loss measured by the difference between the purchase and selling price. Losses from other types of capital assets and all gains would be treated for banks the same as for other corporations.

In the case of life insurance companies, net capital gains and losses from assets purchased after the proposed change takes effect, would be treated in the same way as net capital gains and losses of banks.

Before attending to this involved bit of business, described by the committee as a "simplification," members passed morning and afternoon sessions taking testimony on the Treasury plan to collect income taxes at the source by payroll deductions and corporate withholdings from dividends.

Feasible, Helvering Says

Guy T. Helvering, Commissioner of Internal Revenue, told the committee that given an adequate expansion of personnel he could effectively administer the tax withholding program. It was said in one quarter that Helvering would need a personnel increase of about 10,000, mostly in the field.

At the afternoon session, Frederick J. Lawton, administrative assistant to the budget director, was questioned on providing priorities in personnel for the Internal Revenue Bureau over some other agencies, accused by Helvering of "raiding" his staff.

Up against an early decision on pay-as-you-go taxes, most members declined to make any public commitments.

"If the people like it and it works, then I'm for it," smiled Chairman Robert L. Doughton.

Across the Capitol, Senator George (Democrat) of Georgia, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, and one of the first to advance the withholding tax idea in Congress, said he thought "the virtues of the plan outweigh the objections."

George said in his opinion collection of taxes currently at the source would make it easier for the average citizen to pay his taxes, and would mutually benefit the Government by collecting quick revenue and offsetting inflation.

George conceded serious objections, and a new load on employers assigned the added burden of collecting other taxes for the Government, but said "many tax objections that are valid in normal times may be waived during a war emergency."

the world of the unity between the two great English-speaking nations in this time of world crisis.

It would repay in part, one legislator said, Prime Minister Churchill's visit to the United States several months ago.

Just as Mr. Churchill's trip to confer with President Roosevelt was regarded as signifying the singleness of purpose between the heads of the two governments, the proposed visit of the Congress members was said to have been projected to cement the bonds of friendship between the leaders of the two legislative bodies.

Wood Scarce, Housing Plans Face Revision

By the Associated Press

Complete revision of the defense housing program, with emphasis placed on simplification and construction of "duration dormitories," appeared in prospect last night as a direct consequence of serious shortages in construction lumber.

Only an "irreducible minimum" of public housing will be carried on, War Production Board officials indicated after a conference with officials of the National Housing Agency on effects of WPB orders last week diverting virtually all construction lumber to military requirements for 60 days.

In all probability, they said, privately financed defense housing already under way would be completed, provided the NHA and WPB find it absolutely essential to the war program. There was considerable uncertainty, however, as to the fate of more recently authorized housing on which work has not yet begun.

Inevitable curtailment of the defense housing program has led to serious consideration and discussion of plans for billeting war workers in private homes, if necessary.

In emphasizing construction of temporary dormitories, housing officials admitted they faced a problem in caring for defense workers with families. Efforts would be made, they explained, to urge such workers to leave their families at home when taking war jobs elsewhere, since only a minimum number of family dwellings are contemplated in the simplified program.

Dormitories will take care of single men and men with wives, they pointed out, but are unsuitable for families with children.

Earlier yesterday, WPB announced it would invoke an emergency clause in its lumber freeze order and allocate supplies to essential housing projects. The NHA is reviewing its entire program to list projects in order of importance.

Meanwhile, with many projects stopped entirely for lack of lumber, and others slowing down, it appeared the contractors might have difficulty holding their construction crews together if efforts to relieve their material needs were delayed.

Bus Space Ration Survey Ordered

order: Pennsylvania Greyhound Lines, Inc.; Safeway Trails, Inc., and Eastern Trails, Inc., all of which have their terminals at Twelfth Street and New York Avenue Northwest. A fourth bus line affected is the Quaker City Bus Company, which operates only between Philadelphia and New York.

To Pool Services

ODT officials said the plan provides for pooling services, staggering schedules, permitting interchange of tickets and eliminating certain duplicating operations. They said the bus companies planned to eliminate all express service between the two cities and generally slow down their schedules, as part of a general plan worked out cooperatively by the companies and ODT to conserve rubber and equipment. Buses now make an average of 28 stops between Washington and New York as compared with six or seven by trains.

An official of Greyhound Lines said beginning June 3, there will be a curtailment of schedules between here and New York.

"We now have 27 schedules to New York from Washington," he said. "We will cut that down to 18. The order will make for increased loads on the buses but the public will not be affected in any appreciable way. It simply means that by pooling services, interchanging tickets, elimination of some duplicating operations and staggering schedules, the buses will carry full loads instead of part loads as often has been the case. I repeat that the public will not be inconvenienced."

U. S. Officer Tells How Japs Sank Sailors on Rafts

By the Associated Press

An American naval officer who fought in the Dutch East Indies battle of Lombok Straits last February said yesterday the Japanese warships there torpedoed raft loads of unarmed and helpless survivors from a sunken Dutch destroyer.

The story was told by Commander Thomas H. Binford of Aberdeen, Miss., who received the Navy Cross from Secretary Knox yesterday for having successfully led an American destroyer division in the violent night battle.

Binford also told of an apparent, but unintended, duel between two groups of Japanese warships which stood off and fired at each other after attacking Allied vessels had gone between them.

"We considered all the possibilities," he said, "and we all agreed that something had happened that set one group of the Japanese ships to fighting the other group between the first and second waves of our attack."

Greek Actor Reaches New York After Twice Eluding Nazis

By the Associated Press

New York, May 22.—Alexandre Minotis, leading actor of the Royal Theater, Athens, who twice escaped from a German prison camp, is doing the only thing he wants to do at the moment—"breathing deeply of New York's free air."

"I hardly like to go to bed," he said, "for every time I close my eyes I see the panorama of suffering my people are undergoing. I see again the atrocities of the Gestapo. I see the dead and dying in the streets of Athens and I see the hopelessly starved women and children emaciated, suffering but never crying."

Minotis arrived yesterday by Pan American Clipper and joined his wife here.

On April 25, 1941, Minotis left Greece on a ship which was bombed at Pireaus. He said of the 1000 aboard, 840 were killed.

Two nights later, German aviators came to the house in which he was quartered, told him they were the pilots who had bombed the ship, and took him prisoner.

In October, he tried to escape to Turkey. Refused permission to land, he went to the island of Chios, where he was picked up by a Gestapo officer who had seen him play in Frankfort and Berlin.

Some time later the same officer helped him to escape to Athens, "because he admired my art." Minotis fled in a small fishing boat and landed on the island of Phocis, a Turkish possession.

He said the people of Greece were dying by the hundreds from tuberculosis and famine. There were no more burials, he said, the Germans simply digging holes under the houses where the people die and tumbling their bodies into them.

Minotis said he would leave for the West Coast shortly to begin "my mission"—which is to raise money to aid Greece.

Wholesale Safety-Razor Stocks Frozen

By the Associated Press

The War Production Board last night prohibited sale and delivery of all safety razors now in the hands of manufacturers and jobbers, and ordered them made available to the armed services.

Retail stores are not affected by the "freeze," which became effective at 2:01 a. m., Eastern War Time, today.

WPB disclosed that razor manufacturers, denied the use of copper, thus far have been unable to supply the Army and Navy with razors made of substitute materials.

Officials said that the Army would need about 700,000 razors a month during the next two months and that the only means of meeting this demand was diversion of all except retail stocks.

Meanwhile, manufacturers expect to develop a "war razor" with plastic handle and guard, capped with steel or zinc. No rationing of razors is contemplated, a WPB spokesman explained, since the production of plastic razors, when it gets under way, is expected to take care of civilian as well as military requirements.

No estimate was immediately available as to the number of razors now in stock in retail stores. Last March 25, WPB ordered razor production curtailed to 70 per cent of the 1940 monthly average, and reduced the amount of copper which manufacturers could use to 30 per cent of 1940 monthly consumption. Production of razors in 1940 totaled about 12 million.

Razors in transit when the freeze order takes effect may be delivered to retail stores and sold without restriction. Razors also may be sold and delivered to the Army and Navy for free distribution to men in the services, but may not be sold to the armed forces for resale, whether at post exchanges or other retail outlets.

Jobbers are permitted to dispose of their stocks to other jobbers or to manufacturers.

Thom Reelected Head of Symphony Board of Directors

The meeting was held at the United States Chamber of Commerce with Harold A. Brooks, vice president, presiding in the absence of Thom.

Three of the other present officers of the board were also reelected for the coming year—Brooks, vice president; Milton W. King, treasurer, and Mrs. Willis Fisk, assistant secretary. E. R. Finkenstaedt was named secretary.

Ten members of the board of directors whose terms expire this year were unanimously reelected for an additional three-year period. They are Mrs. Joseph E. Davies, A. F. E. Horn, Mrs. Walter Bruce Howe, Frank R. Jelleff, Mark Lansburgh, Dr. William McClellan, Miss Marion Shouse, Lieut. Col. L. Corrin Strong, Mrs. A. Lloyd Symington and Corcoran Thom.

Maj. Gen. Wesson, Ordnance Chief, Up for Retirement

An inflexible Army retirement law, effective in war as in peacetime, brought a War Department announcement Thursday that Maj. Gen. Charles M. Wesson, Chief of Ordnance, would be retired from active service soon.

General Wesson rounds out four years of duty in the ordnance post on May 31, and on that date will revert officially to civil life. However, he is subject to immediate recall to active duty in some other capacity.

Numerous other officers who by law had to quit specific posts or the military service entirely have been brought back to duty, often to serve on executive or advisory boards.

General Wesson has had a 45-year career in the Army. The War Department noted that he had been charged with administering the Army's transition from a peacetime to a wartime ordnance program. He will be succeeded by Maj. Gen. Lewis H. Campbell, jr., a native of St. Louis.

Women, Convicts Seen Labor Source

McNutt Believes Fair Sex Can Handle 4-5ths of Vital Jobs in War Industries

Copyright by Chicago Sun

Expansion of two relatively untapped sources of labor—women and convicts—were cited by Government officials here yesterday as a means of heading off a man power shortage in industrial war production.

Anticipating an increased use of women to replace men called to the colors, Paul V. McNutt, chairman of the War Man Power Commission, announced that four-fifths of all the jobs in vital war industries could be handled by women.

His statement was based on a survey of 21 key industries, covering 1,250 jobs made by the occupational analysis section of the U. S. Employment Service.

Meanwhile, with the United States buckling down to all-out production using men and women; a further source of man power and industrial facilities was suggested when the Justice Department indicated that the labor of 100,000 convicts in State prisons may be drafted for war production.

With the conversion of prison industrial equipment to wartime uses, James V. Bennett, Federal Bureau of Prisons director, said that the prisoners could produce about 100 million dollars worth of war materials annually.

Referring enthusiastically to the possibilities of women becoming more important on the industrial scene, McNutt, in his statement, said, "women have shown that they can do, or learn to do almost any kind of work."

"Thousands," he said, "already are working in jobs which have customarily been filled by men, and the development of our man power mobilization program may require a more general use of those who have the physical strength and other characteristics necessary to do the work."

In the case of skilled jobs, McNutt indicated that free training for women in war production is being rapidly expanded in many areas.

Training programs within the State prisons is considered unnecessary, as Bennett, in a report to Attorney General Biddle said of the total population of 160,000 in the prisons, 40,000 are trained industrial workers, 40,000 to 50,000 more are semiskilled and from 15,000 to 20,000 are farm workers.

In a formal opinion on May 6 to the President, the Attorney General held there was no legal barrier to the utilization by the Federal Government of goods produced by convict labor in State prisons. The chief barrier now is the difficulty of procuring materials due to priorities. Many of the 100,000 skilled and semiskilled workers, Bennett reported, are now idle.

Cripple Attacked By Army Deserter Lies Near Death

Lee Cornet, 39-year-old legless cripple who was struck over the head April 29 with a hammer wielded by a youthful deserter from the Army, was reported in a grave condition yesterday at Casualty Hospital.

His physician, Dr. Ross Morris, gave Cornet a chance to pull through but said he did not expect a crisis for several days.

On April 30, police arrested William Samuel Morehouse, 16, 1204 North Capitol Street, who admitted that he attacked Cornet after the latter had befriended him. He struck Cornet in his apartment, 233 Kentucky Avenue Southeast, when he believed the cripple was phoning Army authorities to notify them of his whereabouts, Morehouse told officers.

Glamour Girl Sobs At Murder Trial

Madeline Webb Hears Judge Deny Motion To Dismiss Charge

By the Associated Press

New York, May 22.—Madeline Webb's newly acquired composure broke today and she burst into tears when Judge Jonah J. Goldstein denied motions to dismiss the first-degree murder indictments against her and two codefendants.

The State completed presentation of testimony that Miss Webb, her lover, Eli Shornbrun, and their friend, John D. Cullen, were responsible for the robbery-slaying of Mrs. Susan Flora Reich, wealthy Polish refugee, on March 4.

Defense counsel particularly requested dismissal of the charge against Miss Webb, contending there was insufficient corroboration of the testimony given by Shonbrun's uncle, Murray Hirschl, himself under indictment for the murder.

"In my opinion," Judge Goldstein said, "there is ample evidence to find that Hirschl's testimony has been corroborated in all essential aspects."

Tears Flowed Freely

Miss Webb's tears flowed so freely she had to remove her glasses and mop the tears with a handkerchief.

Special counsel later said all three defendants would take the stand.

"Shonbrun is determined that Miss Webb shall be vindicated 100 per cent because she is innocent," one lawyer added.

Mrs. Vera V. Webb, Madeline's church-going mother who has come to New York from her Stillwater, Okla., home to help her daughter, also will testify, defense counsel said. Mrs. Webb has described Madeline as "a good and thoughtful daughter who never caused me any worry."

The trial will resume Monday.

Two final State witnesses were a luncheonette proprietor and a city toxicologist whose testimony indicated that Mrs. Reich died on March 4 at 1 p. m., approximately an hour after she had eaten lunch.

Girl Blamed as Decoy

Her body was found the next day in a Hotel Sutton suite which the State contends was rented by Shonbrun and Miss Webb under the names of "Mr. and Mrs. Ted Leopold."

The State claims Miss Webb acted as decoy, calling up Mrs. Reich and invited her to the Hotel Sutton "to meet my new husband, Ted Leopold."

Hirschl, the State's chief witness, testified that detailed plans for robbing Mrs. Reich were made by the three defendants the day before the slaying. He admitted that he himself bought the nippers—a jewler's tool—with which Mrs. Reich's $1500 diamond ring was cut from her finger. He also testified he accompanied the defendant, Cullen, on a shopping trip to get adhesive tape and wire with which to gag and bind the victim. Hirschl told several different versions of the murder.

High School Killer Gets Life Sentence

Chicago, May 22 (INS).—Clarence (Stevie) McDonald, high school student, tonight was under life sentence for the "kiss-kill" slaying of his 17-year-old sweetheart, Dorothy Broz, in the balcony of a Chicago theater last February 24.

His only consolation, after a criminal court jury of eight women and four men found him guilty and set penalty at life imprisonment, was that "he had beaten the electric chair."

As he was led from the courtroom, he turned to a deputy, and said:

"Well, I beat the chair. Now there is a chance for me to get out."

He will be eligible for parole after 20 years.

He showed no emotion when the verdict was read. His defense was temporary insanity.

Young McDonald, also 17, shot and killed his sweetheart as he tenderly embraced her.

Expert Says Brother Wrote in Sister's Diary

Kansas City, May 22 (AP).—A handwriting expert testified today that George Welsh, jr., wrote the final entry in the diary of his beautiful 24-year-old sister, Leila, whom he is accused of bludgeoning and hacking to death March 9, 1941.

The two-word entry, "broke up," in the dainty lose-leaf volume with cork cover binding was dated four days before the girl was found slain and mutilated in her bed.

The State did not attempt to interpret the meaning of the last cryptic entry.

The last previous entry dated more than a year earlier, related the girl's romance with a young man.

Welsh had to be boosted through a window into the courtroom this morning, so dense was the crowd packing the corridors.

Ralph Turner, police chemist, testified earlier that laboratory tests made after the crime indicated stains on trousers reportedly belonging to Welsh were made by blood.

Dr. C. W. Smith, Former Prison Official, Dies

Dr. Carrie Weaver Smith, head of the National Training Schools for Girls until 1937, and for the last five years owner of the Readers Book Shop, 814 Seventeenth Street Northwest, died yesterday in Doctors Hospital of a heart ailment.

In public hearings before the District Commissioners, Dr. Smith defended her administration of the training school, calling many prominent persons to testify.

After leaving the school she bought the book shop and told friends "she started life all over again at 54," and found the job a peaceful one after the hectic days of the school. Her bedroom was a cot behind a stack of books; her closet, a few hangers surrounded by book shelves.

She is survived by two brothers and a sister, Remberg Gilman Smith, of Texas; Palmer J. Smith, of Atlanta, Ga., and Miss Leonora Smith, a teacher, of Cullowhee, N. C. Funeral arrangements will be completed upon the arrival of relatives en route here.

Group Urges Observance Of Lord's Day

The Rev. Dr. James H. Taylor, pastor of Central Presbyterian Church, is chairman of the Permanent Committee on the Sabbath of the Presbyterian Church in the United States—a committee that will urge stricter Sabbath observance in recommendations to be presented at the General Assembly meeting beginning Thursday in Knoxville, Tenn.

The committee's recommendations follow:

That the ministers and officers of our church set a good example of reverence for and observance of the Lord's Day;

That all our people be urged to be regular in their attendance upon the worship of the church;

That Sunday school teachers use their influence to have their pupils attend the morning services of the church;

That parents be urged to attend the church services together with their children; that they occupy the same pew that "the family pew" might be restored;

That the use of the Lord's Day merely for business or pleasure be not only disapproved but also condemned;

That our people refrain from making purchases on the Lord's Day, except in cases of necessity and mercy;

That employers, as far as possible in this present emergency, do not require the employes to work on the Lord's Day, and

That pastors of all our churches be requested to read to their congregations the action of this assembly in regard to Sabbath observance.

Capital's Churches Schedule Observance of Whitsunday

Whitsunday—the birthday of the Christian Church—will be celebrated in the Nation's Capital churches tomorrow with appropriate services.

The occasion commemorates the decent of the Holy Ghost on the Apostles, when, according to the Biblical text, "they were all with one accord in one place" after the Ascension of Jesus Christ. They received the gift of tongues that they might impart the Gospel to foreign nations.

Commenting on the significance of Whitsunday the Rev. Dr. Charles W. Sheerin, rector of Epiphany Episcopal Church, said yesterday:

"Whitsunday is to the church year what the Fourth of July is to the national year. It is the birthday of the church, and of course the emphasis in our services is to be the gift of the Holy Spirit.

"Possibly there is more vagueness to what we preach about the Holy Spirit than any other teaching of the church and yet the crying need today is man's hunger for spiritual values."

Epiphany's offering tomorrow will benefit the Episcopal Church's Army and Navy Commission Fund, whose motto is, "Keep the Church With the Boys in the Army, Navy and Marine Corps."

Levinthal Sees Hope In Holiday Message

Declaring that Shevuoth, the two-day Jewish religious celebration which began yesterday, brings a message of hope to humanity in the present struggle against barbarism, Judge Louis E. Levinthal, president of the Zionist Organization of America, said yesterday.

"Pentecost, or Shevuoth, the Feast of Weeks, this year has a new and deeper significance for the Jewish people. The present war of survival, in which the destiny of all free people of the world hangs in the balance, underscores poignantly the principles of justice and humanity which are perpetuated by this festival. Commemorating the promulgation of the Ten Commandments at Mount Sinai, the festival of Shevuoth proclaims to the world the eternity and indestructibility of the social, ethical and moral tenets that constitute the foundation of modern civilization. Shevuoth brings a solemn message to humanity of the inviolate and eternal truth that right and justice will always triumph."

U. S. Official Indicts Entire German Nation

Marking an apparent departure in United States diplomatic policy, a high State Department official yesterday charged that the entire German people should be indicted for the "lust for power" which led to the war.

He was Raymond H. Geist, chief of the department's division of commercial affairs and first secretary of the American Embasy in Berlin during Hitler's march to power. He addresesd a luncheon of the Washington Round Table of the National Conference of Christians and Jews at the Washington Hotel.

Previous public pronouncements by officials of this country have been directed mainly at Hitler and other Nazi leaders, depicting the German people as victims of these overlords. Geist, however, outspokenly declared:

Failed Civilization

"No indictment can rest heavier on a people than on the Germans of this generation who have failed to hold their place in the forward march of civilization.

"This apostasy—this total desertion of a great nation from faith, principles and heritage is a graver event in the annals of the world than the threat of armies and engines of war."

Geist also laid blame on two great German institutions—the church and the universities—for failing to foster the proper spirit in the people and thus prevent them "from embarking on the catastrophic adventure with Hitler."

The Catholic Church in Germany, he said, is doomed by Hitler's Reich.

Unconcealed beneath the militaristic show of power in Germany, however, Geist said, "is that which lies deeper in the heart of the Reich than all else: Inescapable, relentless, tormenting fear."

Moral Leaders Outcasts

Mr. Geist said that those modern Germans who have risen above this and become leaders in progressive moral and political programs have been considered outcasts by the people themselves.

"In that nation there have been men of genius whose enlightenment and aspirations to advance the common good of man have been second to none and who have fought for the truth; but these men have not had general following at home, and have left little impression on their own countrymen. From Heine to Thomas Mann they have been outcasts."

Earlier in the program, Dr. A. W. Gottschall, director of the Southern area of the National Conference of Christians and Jews, reviewed his area's accomplishments for the first half of 1942.

Daniel C. Roper, chairman of the Washington Round Table of the National Conference of Christians and Jews, presided at the meeting.

Dr. Paul Douglass, president of American University, attended with a group of his students.

Honorary Degrees Are Going To 3 D. C. Religious Leaders

One prominent religious leader this week received an honorary degree from a college, and two others will be likewise honored today.

ANDERSON

CRANFORD

The three are the Rev. Howard Stone Anderson, pastor of First Congregational Church; the Rev. Clarence W. Cranford, pastor of Calvary Baptist Church, and Page McK. Etchison, religious work director of the Central "Y" and president of the D. C. Organized Bible Class Association.

Mr. Etchison received an honorary degree of doctor of humanities from Salem College, Salem, W. Va., at commencement exercises on Thursday, and delivered the commencement address. Gov. M. M. Neely of West Virginia, also spoke.

Mr. Etchison has been affiliated with the local Y. M. C. A. more than 28 years. He is vice president of the D. C. Sunday School Association and a member of the North American Committee of the World's Sunday School Association.

Dr. Anderson today will receive a doctor of divinity degree from Doane College, Crete, Nebr., which was established in 1872 by a group of Congregationalists, headed by Col. Thomas Doane. Senator Hugh Butler of Nebraska is president of the board of trustees.

Dr. Anderson is president of the Washington Ministerial Union, president of the board of trustees of the Middle Atlantic Congregational Conference, and member of the Federation of Churches' board of directors. Since he came to First Church as pastor in 1936, there has been a 50 per cent increase in the congregation. Only 36, he is among the city's youngest clerics.

Mr. Cranford, who came here February 1 as new pastor of Calvary Church after a successful ministerial career in Richmond, today will receive a degree of doctor of divinity from Bucknell University, Lewisburg, Pa. He is 36.

In his address to the graduating class last night, Mr. Cranford said, in part:

"Even though we stand in the midst of the turbulent waters of world crisis, let us dare to dream of the day when once again we shall be permitted to bridge them with new understanding."

Seasonal Climb In Farm Labor Noted in State

College Park, Md., May 22 (AP).—A seasonal increase was noted in the number of farm workers between April 1 and May 1, the Maryland Crop Reporting Service said today, but added that scarcity of hired labor would make harvesting a problem.

So far, the report said, farmers have been able to keep their work "about up to normal" by increased hours, more family workers and exchanged labor among farms.

But, it added, increased acreages of crops are being planted and "hired labor is scarce with the situation not expected to become any better as harvest labor is still a problem."

The number of persons employed on approximately 40,000 Maryland farms May 1 was 77,000—an increase of 6000 over the number employed April 1.

Of the 77,000 farm workers, 49,000 are family workers and 28,000 hired workers. Family workers increased by 4000 between April and May, while hired workers increased by 2000.

Union Leader Asks Labor Have Voice in OPA

Detroit, May 22 (AP).—Victor G. Reuther, assistant director of the war policy division of the C. I. O.-United Automobile Workers, today vigorously criticized the authority of Price Administrator Leon Henderson and urged that a labor advisory division be created in the OPA.

"It is tragic," Reuther told a union meeting, "that such a powerful agency as the OPA, which exercises such sweeping influences on the lives of workers, should be removed completely from labor. Henderson's power smacks of dictatorship."

"Henderson makes policies on wages, consumer goods, real estate and rationing. He should have the advice and restraining influence of labor and consumers.

"Labor also must resist the drive for a sales tax and for other proposals which place the financial burden of war on labor's shoulders. Part of the campaign against sales taxes should be a great labor campaign for voluntary purchase of war bonds."

Case Of Mr. Flynn

Apparently the Flynn case has been closed. For the second time a Bronx grand jury has exonerated the chairman of the Democratic National Committee of any wrongdoing in connection with the laying of 8000 granite paving blocks belonging to New York City in the courtyard of his Lake Mahopac estate. Bronx Commissioner Robert L. Moran, who figured prominently in the investigation of this mysterious incident, has even emerged with a city pension. But it is not to be supposed that Mr. Flynn has got these paving stones off his neck.

The mystery of the incident alone is sufficient to keep it alive. The grand jury found that these city paving stones were laid in Mr. Flynn's courtyard by city employes who had been transported in city cars. "After the issuance of subpenas by the Civil Service Commission indicated that an investigation was forward," the presentment stated, "all of the city employes who worked at Mahopac received checks covering their full time at the city rate of pay, and approximately 8000 blocks were returned to the city yards." In other words, there seemed to be no doubt in the minds of the grand jurors that someone had attempted to defraud the city and had run to cover when exposure seemed imminent. But the jurors decided to do nothing about it.

The case was taken up again after one member of the grand jury had made an affidavit asserting that District Attorney Samuel J. Foley, a close associate of Mr. Flynn, had questioned the witnesses "in the manner of a defense attorney." But this and other criticisms from the same source were smoothed over and the grand jury once more hastened to drop its hot potato. In short, the Bronx washes its hands of any conclusions that might besmirch the reputation of any of its distinguished political leaders. But Mr. Edward J. Flynn need not expect the rank and file of citizens throughout the country to be so considerate. He must realize that his usefulness in the post of chairman of the Democratic National Committee is at an end. For the weight of 8000 city paving blocks would be quite a burden for even the great vote-getting Democratic Party to carry through the forthcoming elections.

In Spain

For many months there has been increasing tension between the Spanish clergy and the Franco government. Evidently the hierarchy is becoming more and more boldly outspoken against the government and its policies. The latest report in this connection concerns a pastoral letter said to have been read from all the pulpits of a diocese in the Province of Logrono. The bishop took the controlled press to task for having suppressed the truth about the Nazi persecutions of Catholics in the Low Countries and in Germany itself.

Nowhere, indeed, has Hitler's propaganda effort to palm off his Russian campaign as a holy war against godless Bolsheviks collapsed more completely than in Spain, where the pitiful consequences of politico-religious civil war are still evident on every side.

Of course, there is reason to believe that El Caudillo himself is none too keen for further participation in the crusade and that he is striving to keep Spanish collaboration to whatever minimum will spare his country from outright occupation. In this respect his own position is complicated by two factors. First, Spain is swarming with S. S. guards, Gestapo and other such "tourists." Secondly, a considerable portion of Franco's people are ready to forsake him whenever opportunity offers. For it should be remembered that Franco came to power as the representative not of a political party or a particular political philosophy, but of groups representing diverse and, in some instances, irreconcilable political doctrines, backed up, of course, by the armed force of Germany and Italy.

All parties save the Falange were, to be sure, subsequently outlawed. But the old cleavages continued under the new name, and nowadays many Spaniards once brought together through fear of communism and anarchism are being consolidated through hatred of the pagan New Order as represented by the Gestapo and supported by the fanatical wing of the Falange. It is even reported that monarchists and clericals are joining forces with the more moderate Republicans now in exile.

40-Hour Week

The Administration has not acted too soon to adjust the pay of Government employes to present-day realities. Some employes now draw overtime pay while it is denied to others without rhyme or reason. There is also a great variation in the number of hours which Federal workers are expected to spend on the job. Some means of ironing out these inequities and of distributing the extraordinary burden of Government work resulting from the war must be found.

In many instances, too, as the President pointed out yesterday, additional compensation for hard-working Government employes is clearly in order. Federal salaries have remained stationary while wages in private industry have increased sharply in the last two years. With living costs now 15 per cent above the level existing when the war broke out in Europe, Federal workers in the low-salary brackets are feeling the pinch. Of course, the war has made a lower standard of living necessary. But that sacrifice should not be imposed with special force upon any one particular group whose salaries have not kept pace with the trend.

We must remember also that the Government is still competing in the open market for man power. A system of priorities easing the process of transfer from nonwar to war agencies is in operation. But it does not prevent anyone from leaving the Government service, and it is a well-known fact that some agencies are losing personnel because their pay scales are lower than those of various private industries. Unless and until we resort to compulsory labor for the duration, therefore, it is necessary to keep the pay of the rank and file in the Government service roughly comparable to that of private employes.

All these desirable adjustments can be made, however, without another bow to the 40-hour week, which is utterly out of place in wartime. Apparently President Roosevelt is trying to kill two birds with one stone. By suggesting that Government employes earning less than $3800 be paid time and a half for "official" working hours in excess of 40 each week the President is trying to bolster up the 40-hour week in war industries as well as to enlarge the pay checks of Federal workers. Here is the weakness of the proposal. Instead of relaxing a rigid rule that ignores the necessities of wartime, it would more solidly intrench that unwise policy.

Why should we pretend that a 40-hour week is the standard working period in an all-out war? The straightforward course is to recognize that the work to be done can be accomplished only in 48 or even 54 hours a week, and then to adjust pay scales accordingly. Certainly increases for Federal employes in the lower brackets will not be made the less inflationary by camouflaging them. The greatest danger of inflation lies in the boosting of purchasing power by devious means and by the continued pretense that we can maintain peacetime standards in the midst of a world-wide struggle.

Withholding Tax

The Treasury's chief tax adviser, Randolph Paul, is doubtless right in concluding that an income tax system embracing between 20 and 30 million people cannot function effectively without collection at the source. Accordingly the Treasury has recommended that 10 per cent of wage and salary payments, interest on bonds, and dividends be withheld at the source and turned over to the Treasury to be credited against income tax liabilities. The advantage of this kind of withholding tax is that it compels taxpayers to spread their payments throughout the year. It thus makes sure that the careless and improvident will not face the tax collector on payday with empty pockets.

However, the Treasury proposal is something more than a straight withholding tax. It would authorize collection this year of taxes that normally would not be due until next year. As a result, taxpayers who have not completed payment of their 1942 taxes would be called upon to assign an additional 10 per cent of income to the Treasury.

The Treasury asserts that its withholding tax plan would absorb a considerable amount of current income and thus have an anti-inflationary effect. To us this argument seems rather weak. In the first place, the withholding tax payments would be credited on next year's tax bill. So the taxpayer in the long run would have the same amount to spend, regardless of the date of tax payments. In the second place, the imposition of a 10 per cent withholding tax at this time would unquestionably reduce sales of war bonds. For an individual who had paid heavily increased taxes on last year's income and had had further deductions made in anticipation of next year's tax liabilities might well balk at contributing another 10 per cent, or any sum at all, for the purchase of war savings bonds.

In our opinion, therefore, the success of the voluntary system of saving to buy bonds will be gravely jeopardized if a withholding tax is imposed before this year's tax payments are out of the way. If that is done, the Treasury might as well prepare for the speedy introduction of a compulsory savings plan. Incidentally, a system of income tax collection at the source can easily be expanded to cover compulsory deductions at the source for investment in Government securities.

Eventually, in any case, some form of compulsory savings appears to be inevitable. That is likewise the opinion of Prof. Alvin H. Hansen, special economic adviser to the Federal Reserve Board, who calls for a compulsory savings program in conjunction with much deeper taxation of incomes below the $3000 level, plus a retail sales tax. This linking of demands for heavier taxation of low-income groups with demands for compulsory savings is entirely logical. For the average taxpayer cannot be expected to save very much voluntarily when he is being subjected to severe pressure from the tax collector. And we must tax until it hurts to avert inflation and release goods for war production.

Army Poets

Most of the great painting and poetry which is inspired by war is painted or written long after the event. The actual atmosphere of war is not exactly favorable to either of these arts. Thus it is surprising but most encouraging to discover that, if art and poetry are being more and more neglected in the civilian preoccupation with war, both are being actively encouraged by the United States Army. At Fort Belvoir a group of gifted soldiers have executed a remarkable series of mural paintings for the decoration of the recreation halls and service clubs. Classes in the understanding and appreciation of the fine arts, moreover, are regularly conducted.

In our mail this morning came a little volume called "Free Men Sing," comprised entirely of poems written by soldiers at Fort Meade. This book, however, seems to represent only a small part of the verses being written at Fort Meade. So many verses were being submitted to the camp newspaper that it was decided to have an exhibition of all the manuscripts which could not be published. And from these exhibits something more than a score were selected for inclusion in "Free Men Sing."

The Fort Meade poetry is naturally much less sophisticated than the Fort Belvoir art. This is mainly the work of men who were either successful painters or advanced students of painting before their induction. The fastidious reader might find the meters commonplace, the imagery either shopworn or awkward, the rhyme occasionally forced, and the themes often conventional or sentimental. But in contrast to a good deal of contemporary poetry, the reader has no difficulty in discovering what the poet is trying to say. This, however, is not the point. The point is that the poems are spontaneous and sincere, and that they are to that extent a valuable mirror of their authors' minds and hearts.

Drafting Labor

The War Man Power Commission has taken initial steps to set up a system of man-power priorities for war industries and also to prevent drafting into the armed services of men "skilled in a critical war occupation." The eight-point program outlined by the board is designed to establish closer working arrangements between Government placement agencies and war industries with a view to achieving maximum war output. Superficially it appears to be largely a restatement of objectives that are already familiar. However, in an address before the National Industrial Conference Board, Chairman McNutt admitted that in some instances it might be necessary to employ compulsion to achieve maximum war output. So, if either employers or workers refuse to follow the suggestions of the Man Power Board, they have warning of what to expect. In that case the employer's right to hire and fire and the employe's freedom to choose his occupation may be curtailed. This is a type of governmental control that everybody would like to avoid if possible. But it is a power that the Government should not hesitate to exercise if industry and labor fail to offer the kind of cooperation essential to full efficiency.

SORROW FOR SPRING

The nearing sun grew strong.
The river willow turned to yellow and all the bright day long the birch trees watched for you;
softly before you came the shy wind called your name, the low hills dreamed of you.

They joy that you have come:
Cowslips unfold their sudden gold,
the wild untended plum is beautiful for you!
once more the robins shout and dogwood burgeons out, all loveliness for you.

But you they love shall die.
One certain dawn shall find you gone, stricken from field and sky.
Birch trees shall mourn for you;
and though no voice has said
aloud that Spring is dead, dark hills shall grieve for you.

To Bolster Morale

"Regular Subscriber's" letter in your column on the 16th of May regarding service promotions is of great interest to many, judging from the appearance of similar articles in newspapers country-wide.

It does seem that a more equitable system of promotion of Army officers could be formulated, at least giving some consideration to those who have been active in and held commissions in the Officers' Reserve Corps for a length of time and who, at least, have some knowledge of the groundwork of military training.

One of the things in the service which all men aspire to is a promotion. A promotion gives a man a fresh start to fight just that much harder and unquestionably bolsters morale.

The writer's husband is 43 years of age, a veteran of the World War, having spent over a year in France and Germany at that time and has held a commission in the Officers Reserve Corps of the Army since 1924. He has been on active duty at camp in the present crisis for over 13 months performing the duties of a captain all of that time and is still a lieutenant.

This does not offer much incentive for men on the outside to join the armed forces of our country and it is my firm belief that a new system of promotion of Army officers should be evolved.

Taximen's Garb

Having been in most of the largest cities in the continental United States, allow me to say that the taxicab drivers of Washington, D. C., are the worst-dressed drivers.

Washington being the Nation's Capital and residence of high Government officials, both national and foreign, I believe it therefore fitting and proper that taxicab drivers should be more careful in their attire when performing their duties. I have ridden in several cabs here in Washington, and let me truthfully say that some of the drivers wore dirty shirts and pants. Most of the cab drivers of other cities wear uniforms, so there is no reason why cab drivers here in this Nation's Capital should be "sore eye" to the public riders.

There should be a law to compel them to wear uniforms and be more careful in their attire so that visitors or even town residents will be more willing to hire them. But I guess, because of this unusual time, they think that the public needs them more than they need the public.

Beaches Are Clean

As one who derives quite a goodly proportion of his living from sales to resort hotels along the New Jersey coast from Sea Bright to Cape May, I am prompted to write this letter in justice to businessmen along the coast.

From time to time I have heard fantastic rumors of the deplorable condition of New Jersey beaches due to enemy submarine activities—oil, debris, etc. I have just returned from a trip on which I made it my business to stop at the following beaches—Bayhead, Mantaloking, Sea Girt, Spring Lake, Belmar, Avon, Bradley Beach, Ocean Grove, Asbury Park, Long Branch and all the way up to Sea Bright. I want to go on record as absolutely denouncing such unfounded tales as false. The beaches, other than for the usual amount of driftwood, etc., are as clean and white as they ever are at this season of the year. The beach at Atlantic City is clean, as it always is. There was no evidence of oil anywhere.

I have not been to the lower coast at yet, but based on reliable reports, am of the opinion that the beaches at Ocean City, Sea Isle City, Avalon, Stone Harbor, Wildwood and Cape May are equally clean and free from oil.

Where these asinine rumors started is a mystery. Many people enjoy their vacations at the Jersey coast. A large amount of money is invested in hotels there to help people enjoy themselves. So, in justice to both the patrons of hotels and to the hotels themselves, if any reader of this article hears these rumors, I hope he will tell the rumor-monger he doesn't know what he is talking about. By doing so, the reader will not only reassure people that it will be safe and pleasant to take their vacations along the coast, but also help a lot of very fine people who have a great deal of capital invested continue to make pleasant vacations possible.

Where Taxes Fall

The United States has been for years the most criminal of all the civilized nations of the world. That it is no longer so is not because it has reduced crime but because another nation has outstripped it in criminal records.

What is the greatest preventive of crime? Not courts and jails, though they do their part, but the power of religion, a spiritual force which surpasses all others: Training children in the way they should go, teaching the Ten Commandments, stretching out the friendly hand of kindness and sympathy to the criminally inclined, leading the guilty to repentance and building up character. Mr. Morgenthau, however, would reduce or destroy this beneficent influence, eliminate charity and the practical philanthropies which proceed or flow from it, by taxing away the funds necessary to sustain it and adding them to the Treasury of the United States.

There are other ways by which the United States Treasury can be more greatly enriched than by taxing charity, morals and religion. A sales tax, the fairest of all methods of taxation because it knows no favorites and applies to all alike, would bring in many times as much as the proposed plan and it would also tend to prevent a "boom" about which we seem already somewhat hysterical.

Crime costs the United States "at least 15 billions, not millions, a year. That is 41 million a day, $28,000 a minute." We cannot, and must not weaken or destroy our greatest preventive of crime, misled by fallacious reasoning.

Democracy Not Abdicating

Now that you have printed the lament for democracies that was sent from Ottawa by Contributor Janet R. Keith I hope, for antidote, you will give us a little editorial comment based on realities rather than misconceptions. I should dislike to see her get away with the intimation that our method of quick-stepping war activities shows that democracy has, as she says, "failed us in our time of great emergency," or that "our elected representatives no longer rule the Nation" (assuming that by her doubtful word "rule" she means "exercise their proper functions.")

What she says about Canadian representatives the Canadians may attend to. But I think she fails to appreciate some vital points about our United States set-up for war. Take her statement that our emergency executives like Nelson, Henderson, McNutt, Wallace, and Milo Perkins "aren't even responsible to the people's elected representatives." Weren't they all appointed by the President? And what is the President if not one of "the people's elected representatives?" Your Ottawa contributor speaks of him as if he were like her prime minister, a creature of the government group; whereas he is elected by popular vote and perhaps more than any other elected representative is recognized as "the people's man."

Against her suggestion that democracy has faltered and gone into disrepair under stress of the war demands, and that a debilitated Congress has had to abandon the job to nonelected executives because of democracy's failure, I hope you will consider the suggestion that just the opposite has come to pass. Democracy, right here in our own United States, has risen to splendid achievements under the spur of the war emergency, and has given astonishing proof that democracy can function with speed and efficiency in time of need, and without overriding any of its own principles.

All the executive power that has been used or is being used by the United States for fighting the war has either been derived from the people directly or else has been lawfully and properly delegated by the people's representatives in Congress. The "Dictators"—Nelson, Henderson, and the rest—act under powers delegated by Congress, which Congress even now extends or restrains if it finds sufficient occasion. Instead of abdicating while these men take over, Congress swiftly implements them with new laws adapted to new developments. Far from abdicating and leaving these men to do it, Congress has been going along with them. It is not only giving them supporting authority where needed, but through numerous committees it gets a line on how the special emergency system is working. It checks up on the personnel. It keeps an eye on changing conditions within the system and out through the country. It weighs and discusses what it finds, and thereby not only fulfills an obligation to the electorate but performs a useful service that ties in directly with the service being performed by the war executives. And a thing your contributor should not forget is that Congress is right on the job and can recall the powers delegated as easily as it has delegated them.

She extolls the spirit and abilities of the war "dictators" here in Canada. So do I; my admiration and gratitude go out to them. But she says, rather patronizingly perhaps, "There seems to be little doubt that the United States Congress has fallen into low public esteem." I wonder if she knows. The only corroboration she offers is from Congressman "Mike" Monroney, and he merely generalized for Congress the sins of omission and commission that are acknowledged by all who use the Book of Common Prayer. The lady says, "The awful truth is that we haven't been getting our best brains elected." Well, perhaps Congress doesn't rate 100 per cent our best brain power. But where can you point to a representative body numbering over 500 individuals with that amount of No. 1 brains present? And if they showed that much would they be representative?

The Post Impressionist

O'Neal Ashore

The press story of "one of the greatest convoys on record" landing American troops in North Ireland carried an incidental item which was something more than a small coincidence. The first man ashore, it said, was Marvin H. O'Neal, a freckled, red-haired youth who called himself an Irishman from South Dakota.

Exactly 300 years before, in 1642, another freckled-faced, red-haired Irishman, Owen Roe O'Neill, with a hundred officers, landed on the Donegal, North Ireland, coast. A Scottish army of 20,000 under Monro, had been plundering the country. That the struggle was political and partisan rather than Irish against English is evident fror the fact that O'Neil was joined by an Englishman, Colonel Preston, with 500 officers, just as Sir Garrett Moore and Sir Arthur Chichester, close to the English Court, were close friends of Red Hugh O'Neil, uncle of Owen Roe, 40 years before.

Owen Roe O'Neil defeated Monro and became one of the legendary heroes of Ireland. The "Anglo-Irish" party of 1642 was rebelling against the cruel laws of the parliamentarians and sought to unite more closely the "Old Irish" and the "Old English."

Most of the leading Irish families were closely related in blood ties with the English. The Geraldines, DeLacys and others previously sent to subdue the Irish had become known as "degenerate English" and "more Irish than the Irish themselves." Maurice Fitzgerald had married the daughter of Art Kavanaugh in defiance of the Crown, and DeLacy had married the daughter of Roderick O'Connor. The O'Donnells, the MacMahons, O'Moores and other Irish families were all related by blood with the best English families.

That the struggle was likewise no mere religious war is evidenced by the fact that when Dr. Bedell, the Protestant Bishop of Kilmore, died in 1642, five months before Owen Roe O'Neil landed, the Irish commanders sent a large military delegation to parade at the funeral as a mark of respect.

At the time of the red-haired O'Neils a sad war song was popular named "Mo Chraoibhin Cno," which wound up with the prophecy for the future:

There shall be peace and plenty then—the kindly open door;
Blessings on all who come and go—the prosperous or the poor—
The misty glens and purple hills a fairer tint shall show,
When your splendid sun shall ride the skies again—
Mo chraoibhin cno!

Thus, though O'Neil gained the name of the Bloody Hand of Ulster, it would seem that he was fighting against rapaciousness and for a peaceful land rather than against the English nation.

There is a document in Rome bearing the date 1139, reputed to have been written by St. Malachy, which gives the following prophecy:

"Ireland will suffer oppression, persecution and calamities for a week of centuries. At the end of that time she will be delivered from her oppressors by her own efforts, and in turn her oppressors will suffer dreadful chastisements, but in their distress the Irish people will be the mainstay of their former oppressors."

My grandfather, who came from North Ireland in the early forties and was related by blood to the O'Neils, the McConnels, the MacMahons, and the Stuarts and who was proud of his crest of the Bloody Hand, was very fond of the early New England poets. In his edition of 1857 of John Greenleaf Whittier, I find a poem addressed to the Irish people who were at that time crowding the ships to American. It was a reminder to the Irish that their St. Patrick had been a slave but had returned to do good to his former masters. The poem ended with this appeal:

O dark, sad millions, patiently and dumb
Waiting for God, your hour, at last, has come,
And freedom's song
Breaks the long silence of your night of wrong!
Arise and flee! Shake off the vile restraint
Of ages; but, like Ireland's saint the oppressor spare
Heap only on his head the coals of prayer.
Go forth, like him! Like him return again,
To bless the land whereon in bitter pain
Ye tolled at first,
And heal with freedom what your slavery cursed.

The largest increments of the American and Australian armies today are of Irish blood. The Irish were at the forefront of the movement in 1939 and 1940 to have the United States side with the British. In spite of the fact that the government of Eire has not thought it advisable to yield the naval bases in Ireland, the Irish people have furnished a large percentage of soldiers to the British army, and Ireland has been an important factor in furnishing foodstuffs to England. Among the 20 million of Irish blood in America, we find few who bear ill grudge against the oppressors of their fathers, but rather a fulfillment of the prophecy of the New England poet, "To bless the land whereon in bitter pain ye tolled, and heal with freedom what your slavery cursed." I believe that the red-haired O'Neil of 300 years ago, who fought tyranny of the English Parliament, would be proud of the red-haired O'Neil who came back from the Dakotas to help the English nation.

Today And Tomorrow

By Walter Lippmann

Admiral Land And The President

IN DELEGATING his authority to Admiral Vickery for the construction and to Mr. Lewis W. Douglas for the operation of ships, Admiral Land has shown the qualities of a good leader—the ability to pick able men and to give them power. It is never a sign of weakness or of failure when a man in high position delegates authority; on the contrary it is a sign of his strength and of his capacity to deserve success. The President, for example, is now beginning to reap the good fruits of the decision he took some months ago when he delegated his authority over war production to Mr. Nelson. So, in his own smaller but nevertheless critically important sphere, will it be with Admiral Land in the days to come.

LIPPMANN

By this decision the way has been opened to the next necessary steps in producing and operating ships. As regards production we may confidently hope that Admiral Vickery and Mr. Nelson will move as rapidly as possible to develop a system of allocations by which materials will flow smoothly to the shipyards. As regards operation we may confidently hope that Mr. Douglas will take the drastic decisions which are needed in order to bring all the ships of the United Nations into full military use. We may then hope that Admiral Land, with his final authority over all shipping, will devote some part of his energy to insisting that better protection is provided for his precious ships and their precious crews.

PROTECTION is, of course, the task of the Navy. It seems clear that the Navy Department is, as regards the submarine, not truly organized on a war basis. If we look upon the struggle with the submarine in American waters as one of the great naval campaigns of the war, which in fact it is, then we have a right to ask: who is the MacArthur, who is the Nimitz, who is the commander in chief of this front? The answer is that nobody is commander in chief, and that this battle is being waged without unity of command.

There is no one whose word is final and decisive over all the forces engaged, on shore, off shore, and in the air. The commandants and the Washington bureaus and the Coast Guard and the Army Air Force are no doubt trying to cooperate and to coordinate themselves. But they have no recognized and undisputed commander in this battle. The struggle is not organized as a campaign of battles, and that is one of the determining reasons why it is not being waged in the spirit of battles. When it is waged in this spirit, we shall know it by hearing of the appointment of a fighting commander to lead the campaign.

WE SHALL HAVE to come to this eventually. Then why not come to it now? In the intricacies of official Washington, where molehills so often seem like mountains, clear and healing decisions of this sort always seem difficult to make. Yet they are very simple and obvious once they have been made.

I HAVE just come back to Washington from a few days in the Middle West and in New England. The change in mood is, unless I am much mistaken, a notable proof that the observers were right who said that the thing we mean by that horrid word "morale" would in the country be a direct reflection of how actively the people were able to participate in the war. Since early winter the conversion of industry to war production has been cumulative and successful. This has brought with it an immense pride and feeling of confidence. The American people like to produce things. Never before, I imagine, have they had such a chance to do the thing they like to do and know how to do—to produce without thinking of anything else but producing, without having to consider balance sheets and customers and competitors. The war is a producer's dream, and the sense of power and of competence which men are finding in doing what is needed will, I believe, give to the American economy enterprise and confidence which it has not had since the opening of the West.

HARD AS it is to discern the future, or to prove what is mere intuition, I have the strongest impression that the men who are actively working in the war are beginning to live more and more in a mentally different world from most of the politicians, and the agents of pressure groups, and from many who talk about public affairs in the alignments and in the language of prewar days. I do not think they feel about many issues industrial relations, vested interests, taxes, or the passing confusions of rationing and wartime regimentation—as much of our current discussion assumes as a matter of course. I have the feeling, though I could not possibly prove it, they find much of the discussion hackneyed and uninteresting and unimportant.

That accounts, I suspect, for the widespread impatience with Congress, and also for the evident fact, noted recently by the Gallup Poll, that if the congressional elections took place now, the President would increase his majority. As the people become actively engaged in the war, their sons at the front, they in necessary work, they are not much interested in the politicians who did not or would not see what was coming. And as the President takes the decisions which mobilize the country, as he breaks the bottlenecks and removes the obstructions and gently pushes aside the deadwood, they remember in the light of his growing successes the fact that on the greatest issues he saw more clearly than his opponents. And so, as of today, he is stronger than he has been at any time since the difficult weeks after Pearl Harbor.

Vichy And Quebec

By Eric Estorick

The Petain Factor

REPLYING to a question posed by M. J. Coldwell, leader of the Cooperative Commonwealth Federation regarding Canada's continued recognition of the Vichy government, Prime Minister Mackenzie King stated on May 19 that there would no rupture of diplomatic relations between the two countries. The Prime Minister said, in effect, that a break at the present time would be unfair to 95 per cent of France's population who are opposed to the Vichy regime. "It is most desirable," Mr. King declared, "to sustain in every way possible the morale of the French people, as distinguished from any sort of a particular government . . . I should like to emphasize with respect to the (Canadian) government that no one in this country so far as I am aware has other than the strongest feelings against the present administration in France."

This is a remarkably strong statement when one considers that Mr. King is both judicious and restrained in his public utterances. The fact, too, that he had the benefit of an exchange of views on this subject with the British and American governments indicates that his remarks have the added weight of the support of both these governments.

THE CONTINUED recognition of Vichy may have the effect, however, of supplying additional ammunition to a number of Quebec nationalists who are out to scalp Mr. King at the present time as an aftermath of the plebiscite and his expressed resolution to amend the conscription clause in the National Mobilization Act. There are also a number of persons in Quebec, for example, who favor Petain and the Vichy regime because they claim that the marshal has exorcised all of the anticlerical practices of the Third French Republic. This does not mean that all Quebec Catholics are in favor of Canada's continuation of relations with Vichy. One of the most important Catholic educators in Canada, with whom I talked in Quebec City recently, an abbe occupying a very high post at Laval University, states flatly that Canada should break her ties with Vichy. Since 1855, he said, French Canadians have loved France. Quebec's poets extolled France. There was a steady exchange of students. But in 1903, anticlerical legislation changed the picture. French Canadians had no use, thereafter, for the Third Republic. Petain, the abbe continued, revoked many acts of 1903, which were responsible for prejudice against the Third Republic and thus it was only natural that some French Canadians should prefer the present Vichy government to the Third Republic. The Vichy Embassy, on the other hand, he felt should be closed. If it was necessary that Churchill continue to have a tie with Vichy the Canadian government should at least close the consulates and permit the pretense of an embassy in Ottawa only. The Vichy consulates in Montreal and Quebec are very active, he said, and have a bad influence in enlisting sympathy with the Petain regime.

The ultranationalist French-Canadian press, typified by Le Devoir, also supports ardently the Vichy government every time the English press attacks Petain's regime. Many private persons, in addition, react similarly. A Canadian government official explained this situation to me a short time ago. He said that after the fall of France many French Canadians suddenly realized that the main source of their culture was now closed—no more French books were available, for example. These French Canadians suddenly realized how much they owed to France and they became sympathetic to her fate. Thus, many Quebec nationalists took to supporting Vichy not only because of a heightened sense of loss due to France's fall but also because the English press attacked Vichy and they preferred to take a contrary stand to any view the English press took as an expression of their own anti-English attitude.

THE VICHY CONSUL in Quebec was not slow to take advantage of this situation. He has played up constantly in his propaganda the fact that France was masonic and antireligious before her collapse but that now all that is finished; even if France were forced to collaborate and cooperate with Germany, he has maintained, the antireligiosity and masonic influences of France have been liquidated, and have to remain so if the "true" France is to live.

The situation thus boils down to a choice of painful alternatives. On the one hand there can be no doubt of the attitude of Mr. King's government, as is evidenced by the sharpness of his words. His decision to continue relations with Vichy must thus be equated in terms of the need of the United Nations to have an ear in Vichy. Over as against this tactical advantage there is the prospect of ever-increased anti-United Nations propaganda being poured into Quebec which has already expressed itself as opposed to conscription. The result of this decision is that Canada's information services cannot attack the Vichy consuls for the simple reason that Canada continues to recognize Vichy. To meet this situation, Ottawa seems to have adopted as effective a policy as the present situation permits. Petain, instead of being attacked, is ignored. Instead of openly supporting DeGaulle and promoting outward hostility to the Petain regime, the opposition of the French people to Germany is highlighted.

This kind of directive is of great value because even though the people of Quebec voted in the negative at the recent prebiscite, French Canadians do support the war. French Canada is an area in which the relationship of the individual to both secular and church institutions is based on authority. The church recognizes state authority, and since the government has declared war the people follow. As one French-Canadian put it, "the people may not like it but it's the law. We may not be enthusiastic but we follow." He was quick to point out, however, that the French-Canadian people had gone on record as supporting the war—as they have in rejecting conscription—by the resounding defeat which they accorded Maurice Duplessis and his Union Nationale when both went to the people of Quebec with an anti-war plank a few years ago.

Belgium In Nazi Jail

By Andre Visson

Low Countrymen Continue The Fight

TWO YEARS AGO, on May 10, 1940, the Nazi military machine started its long expected drive in the west. The "phony war" was over. It had been over, as a matter of fact, since April 9, and the invasion of Norway and Denmark. But on May 10, three other small European countries—Holland, Belgium and Luxembourg—became new victims of Nazis' unprovoked aggression.

For months these European countries desperately tried to safeguard their neutrality without sacrificing their independence. On May 10, they lost their last illusions about Hitler's pledge to respect their neutrality. Five and 18 days later Holland and Belgium, respectively, lost their freedom and independence. Luxembourg's freedom had been ravished the very day of the attack.

For France, May 10, marked the beginning of the most tragic chapter in her modern history. This chapter is not yet closed and the latest developments hint that many more dark days lie ahead for this unfortunate country, defeated on the battlefield and betrayed by a few unscrupulous and ambitious politicians.

FRANCE IS today in Nazi jail, but some windows in this jail are still open, either because Hitler could not shut them, or because he believed that it would be more advantageous for him to keep them open, in order to prevent the explosion of French anger. But the Low Countries and Luxembourg are not only in jail, they are held incommunicado. Still news leaks out, thanks to the courage and the ingeniousness of those who, though enslaved, resist and have faith in the recovery of their ravished freedoms.

It is naturally impossible to disclose how the contacts between the enslaved nations and the free world have been established and how they are maintained. But a daring and spectacular action, performed in January of this year by a Belgian pilot, serving with the Belgian unit of the R. A. F., illustrates well both the courage and the ways of those who volunteered for the establishment and maintaining of these contacts.

This 34-year-old Belgian, whose name was withheld, because of fear of reprisal to his family in Belgium, landed on Belgian soil from a parachute. Helped by a Belgian underground organization, which had been informed about his arrival, he went to the Forest de Soignes, near Brussels, where, after the capitulation of the Belgian army in May, 1940, officers of the Belgian air force have hidden the colors given to this fort in World War I by King Albert. The Belgian pilot took these colors and brought them to England, where they have been offered by the Belgian government in exile to the Belgian fighting squadron of the R. A. F.

On the other hand, practically every week, despite all the watchfulness of Nazi military police, doubled by 8000 Gestapo men, refugees reach England, escaping from Belgium, as they escape from Holland and from Norway, from Poland and from Greece.

Senator Henri Rollin, Belgian labor leader and professor at Brussels University, managed to escape from Belgium, where he had been under special police surveillance and reached London. He joined the Belgian government as undersecretary for national defense. Another new member of the Belgian government in exile is Mr. Gustave Joassart, who escaped from Belgium where he was the director of the well-known armaments factory at Liege.

THUS NEWS arrives from Belgium, as it arrives from other Nazi conquered countries, and it depicts a distressing picture of well organized looting by the Nazis of this once rich industrial country.

Contrary to what happened in World War I, there are no "contributions," except those which are imposed upon a determined city or borough as a fine for an act of sabotage committed by its inhabitants. But Belgium is required to pay "the cost of occupation." And this cost, according to the German papers published in Brussels, amounts to a yearly rate of around 15 billion francs, exceeding the entire Belgian budget in prewar days (13 billion francs).

As the Belgian national income, according to the Nazi estimates, did not exceed in 1941 50 billion francs—which is probably an optimistic figure—the Belgians had to pay for the occupation a crushing burden of 30 per cent of their reduced income. And this burden was added to their routine administration taxes.

It was, however, only a part of the tribute imposed by the Nazi conquerors upon the population they have enslaved.

The combined statement of the National Bank of Belgium and of the Brussels Issue Bank showed claims on Germany amounting to nearly 20 billion francs. As these claims are actually worthless, because they are in "occupation-marks" for which no German goods are now available, the total burden of Nazi occupation for the first 19 months exceeds 30 billion francs.

This grim situation of Belgian economy is excellently exposed in a pamphlet published by the Brookings Institution and signed by R. Ardenne (pen-name of a distinguished Belgian economist). As Mr. Ardenne rightly points out, 30 billion francs, which at the prewar rate of exchange would represent one billion dollars, represent in fact much more goods and labor than one billion dollars in the United States.

THIS systematic looting of Belgium, a country which was before the war depending on imports to feed its eight million inhabitants, resulted in a food shortage, which threatens to degenerate into famine.

The legal ration in 1941 fluctuated around 1350 calories, compared to 2725 calories before the invasion. But the actual ration of the inhabitants of Belgium's industrial cities rarely exceeded 1000 calories.

The result of this lamentable situation found its most eloquent expression in the rise of the death rate from 1.4 per hundred in 1939 to 1.7 in 1941, while the birth rate fell from 1.6 per hundred in 1939 to .9 in 1941.

Despite this state of famine, which especially hit the working classes, who cannot afford to buy products on the black market, only 190,000 workers, mostly under the threat of being taken off the unemployment pool, went to Germany. Of the 979,000 members of Belgian trade unions, only 250,000 had joined the nazified trade union, offering special privileges to its members. All other Belgian workers refused, and are furnishing today the greatest part of Belgium's saboteurs and underground organization adherents.

Though the Belgians are becoming obsessed by the acute food shortage, their spirit of resistance has become much stronger in the course of the second year of the occupation.

The number of clandestine publications has reached the record of 52. Published in French and Flemish, they are printed in greater cities and mimeographed in smaller towns.

AND BELGIUM'S "roll of honor"—the list of persons sentenced to hard labor or to death,—for spreading underground publications, for acts of sabotage or for assistance given to the "enemy"—is getting tragically longer every month.

But despite the increasing terror, which succeeded to the former policy of seduction and division, the failure of which has been recognized by the Nazis, the Belgians appear to act as all other Europe's enslaved peoples. They are now more than ever convinced that only the victory of the United Nations can give them back their ravaged freedoms.

The Women's Army

Tramp, tramp, tramp, the girls are marching!

Women in uniform will be the 1942 feature of our war program. Girls will be doughboys.

The bill creating a Women's Auxiliary Army has been passed and one creating a Women's Auxiliary Navy is in the works.

It is soon going to be a question whether to tip your hat to a lady or give her a salute.

There will be 150,000 gals in the new army, and it is fairly obvious that before long there will be so many of them in uniform that a woman dressed like a woman is going to feel conspicuous.

It is all going to be a terrific blow at feminine daintiness and charm. The boudoir is going to look like an army locker room, every clothes hanger is going to have a military garment on it and the male members of the family are going to have their troubles telling which are their hats and which belong to mother and sister.

We fear a big drop in charm. A woman has to have everything to project oomph in flat heels and an army hat.

There will be no generals, majors, colonels, etc., in the Female Reserve. Those responsible for the matter were smart enough to know that chaos might result. But there will be other less militant titles. The ladies will be ranked as directors, assistant directors, first leaders, second leaders, junior leaders, etc. The preliminary battles will be fought over the question who are to be plain everyday members of the rank and file.

The gals will be paid. Directors will get $3000 a year and expenses, assistant directors will get $2400 and expenses, and those from junior leaders to first officers will get from $648 to $2000 a year and expenses.

Expenses will not include bridge losses.

Just what the ladies will do has not been completely decided, but if the boys in the army could get their wish some of them will be assigned to cook, make beds and do the general housework which the boys now have to do.

Nothing would raise the morale of the American buck private like being relieved of the job of making his own bed.

The Women's Army will be noncombatant. (Except within its own ranks.—Ed.)

It may be sent anywhere in the world. And there is this one great consolation: it will not be sent out in those funny spring and summer hats.

Chuck Wiggins Dies Broke

LAST SATURDAY night Chuck Wiggins was found lying in the street in Indianapolis and a few hours later one of the bravest prize fighters of the era of wonderful nonsense died of a fractured skull. Chuck was a white Battling Siki, hilarious, ribald and regardless and, like Siki, a true sportsman, and it fell out that after a few hours in the spotlight and a little fun, both of them vanished into the past and died in the gutter.

PEGLER

Wiggins belonged to that innocent age when a mere fist fight between two athletes under genteel rules and solemn government supervision more early filled the eye of the Nation and required more type to tell of than a battle does on sea and land today in which hundreds of American boys are killed. Reference to the files will show that either of the Tunney-Dempsey demonstrations aroused more interest then than the loss of the Houston and the Jacob Jones together, but I have no point to make and so will abandon this abdominal tone and say that those were anyway happier days in a better world, and that the old Chuckler scattered many a laugh as he went his merry way.

He was only a lightweight and his punch was nothing much and yet this man so ill-equipped to hurt another fought Tunney, Greb and Gibbons and kept them busy and, after his first fight with Greb, joined that human sausage machine in protest against meddlesome interference by a fastidious referee and in a demand for a return match, free-style, so that they could really express themselves.

They were matched back soon afterward on condition that the referee mind his own business, which, in their view, was only to count the knockdowns and call the coroner but not to scold and pester honest men and thus relieved of molestation, waged a brawl which, in point of savagery, was the gayest of their lives. They were warm friends and fought pretty much alike and the high point of the return bout to Wiggins was the moment when Greb clamped his teeth on his cauliflowered nose and tried to pull him around that way and Wiggins kicked him loose with his knee.

WIGGINS ADMIRED Greb and Tunney but had no respect for Gibbons for a reason which I will presently make apparent.

Tunney recalls that in one fight with Chuck he was practicing a body-punch close to the foul line and twice sent his fist in low without comment from the Chuckler who might have claimed the verdict. A third time Gene hit Wiggins low and very hard and more than half expected to be run out of town. But Chuck only stepped back and, with an earnest appeal to reason in his swollen eyes, exclaimed:

"No kidding, now Gene, that one was honest-to-God low."

This courage and bizarre style endeared him to Gene and so when Tunney trained at Speculator for his second Dempsey fight he imported Wiggins from some beloved jungle to box him in the practice ring. Within a week, Chuck was reported at Gloversville, 70 miles down the mountains, but thereafter his progress was halting and not always forward but his final arrival in camp was accomplished with something that passed for eclat.

Arriving about dawn in a Model T, he knocked over the only fire hydrant in 60 miles, and almost drained the reservoir. He was promptly proposed for membership at the barber shop where the quality played poker and flouted the foul amendment and it was there that he told one night why one should never trust an honest man.

HE WAS matched with Tommy Gibbons in New Orleans but broke a rib fighting a friend in Memphis on the way and so appealed to Gibbons to spare his injured side, as a knockout would impair his standing but couldn't add much to Tommy's. Mr. Gibbons expressed solicitude and inquired which side the sore rib was on and the Chuckler, in a flash of suspicion, told him the left side, which was a willful falsehood on his soul.

For two rounds then, the model Christian gentleman poked him on his port-side ribs and Chuck each time was slow to wince which delayed reaction prompted Tom to mutter with moralistic scorn, "Wiggins, you have deceived me."

Thereat, Tommy whanged him on the right side and the pain put Wiggins down.

"Never trust an honest man," he said. "They are strictly no good."

Leaving town alone past midnight with his little satchel, Wiggins was approached in the old brick station by a tall, elderly man who asked, "Are you a fighter?"

Chuck admitted such and the stranger said that 30 years ago he had been carried shoulder-high by a rejoicing mob in that same station, having just knocked out John L. Sullivan, though no one recognized him now, entraining on his endless tours.

"Save your money, Wiggins," Jim Corbett said, but Chuck never made much and life misused him when his little was gone, and he groped the rest of the way to the gutter broke, sick and forgotten.

Broadening of Income Tax Base Is Favored By Majority of Civic and Community Leaders

Princeton, N. J., May 22.—If this year's income tax bill were written by civic and community leaders throughout the country, many millions of families who have not heretofore had to pay an income tax would start paying one.

Under the present law a typical family—a married man with two children—has an exemption of $2300. Community leaders interviewed by the Institute from coast to coast would reduce that exemption to $1800 a year. They give three reasons for doing it:

First, they think the brunt of the war cost should be more evenly spread; second, they believe such a step will help check inflation; and third, in their opinion the tremendous revenues needed for war cannot be raised without broadening the tax base.

The tax views of these leaders were gathered by personal interviews with the heads of service clubs, political, business, religious and educational organizations, labor councils and other civic leaders in 239 communities from coast to coast.

The income tax issue was approached in two ways during the course of the interviewing. Community leaders were first asked:

"In the case of income taxes would you be in favor of reducing the amount of personal exemptions—that is, broadening the base—so that more people would have to pay income taxes?"

The results were:

Yes	57%
No	41
Undecided	2

Next the leaders were asked to state what income a family should have before income taxes are levied on them. The question was:

"At what income level do you think a typical family of four—a married man with two children—should start paying a Federal income tax?"

The median average of all replies was $1800. About a third, however, would make the program even stiffer and start taxing such a family when its income is $1500 or less.

If the general public were in charge of writing the tax bill, it would actually broaden the base to a greater extent than the community leaders propose on the average.

The public would levy a small tax on a family of four earning as little as $1000, a recent Institute survey showed. For a family earning $1500 a year the public would set the tax at $24; for a family earning $2000 at $54.

South Capitol Street Bridge Approved

Although it may not be started for many years, designs and plans for the South Capitol Street bridge were approved last night by the Commissioners. The engineering firm of Modjeski & Masters of Harrisburg, Pa., were awarded a $42,000 contract for the working drawings for the $4,000,000 structure.

The bridge, which will span the Anacostia River at the foot of South Capitol Street, will be of the deck-girder type supported on seven masonry piers. There will be a single swing-span, opening horizontally instead of upward, because the Navy Department disapproves high structures in this area because of airplane activity.

There is little chance of the bridge being built this year "or any time in the near future," Highway Director H. C. Whitehurst said. The use of steel for war purposes prevents the allocation of any for this purpose.

A 45-foot boat clearance will be allowed, the bridge itself being 62 feet high. There will be four traffic lanes, each 12 feet wide.

ALISON ANDREWS—BARCLAY WAS STRUCK BY HER FACE

Lieut. McClelland Barclay, U.S.N., the Barclay of the beautiful girls on the magazine covers, thought a moment here yesterday about the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps, letting a whole troop of faces parade before his eyes.

He wondered what the WAAC's would be like. He knew what they should be like—and then he saw a girl who looked so strongly American that all the WAAC's—as he would like to have them—centered in her.

So he drew her picture and The Post today presents it, not necessarily as typical of what the WAAC will look like in the composite but rather as what an artist would like to see America give into the WAAC.

She is Miss Alison Andrews of New York City, a singer in one of the Mayflower Hotel's clubrooms. The artist didn't know who she was. Struck by her face, he went to some pains to get her to pose because he thought she typified something American. It was a strong impulse in the artist. He wasn't here looking for any girl subjects.

He was here, working at his first love in art, marine pictures, drawings of sea-hardened sailors shooting guns, sinking submarines, posters for the Navy (which he loves). He just happened to see the girl's face and it awakened a notion he's had for some time.

This notion is that American girls now are dead sold on the war, that in the aggregate they want their men dead sold on the war and that when the WAAC is recruited it won't be full of girls with super-allure—but girls with character, strength and a flair for adventure in their faces. He saw this character in the face of Miss Andrews and wanted the public to see it, too.

Barclay is working hard for the Navy—which he was in as a reservist before the war began. In now with the same rank, he hasn't taken it on the easy side. When the time is right he wants to go to the sea front and paint the action.

He's toughened his body for it, boxes and exercises until his biceps and stomach muscles are like a professional fighter's. And his poster drawings, with the feel of the sea and smell of salt in them, are pretty swell publicity for the Navy. SCOTT HART.

Summer Walking Shoe

Query—What kind of a summer outfit should I select with walking shoes? The average walking shoe looks too heavy with a "pretty" light dress.

ANSWER—The first consideration must be the type of walking shoe you are wearing. Too many women choosing walking shoes for the first time, select a pair that can be worn all the year around. Walking shoes are seasonal, like other shoes. Summer versions should not only be lighter in weight, but lighter in color.

Jane Driscoll

If dark colored straight through the summer, then the dark walking shoe would be appropriate. Since most Washingtonians prefer light colors for summer, a woman has to be especially diligent in her search for darker dresses. But they are to be had, especially in washable rayons. Even with dark summer outfits, however, there is no guarantee that the cold weather shoe will be comfortable this summer.

The wisest selection for summer is a walking shoe that has some white on it, combined with a dark color. With two-piece suits and softly tailored functional dresses these should look proper. Dresses that are light and airy generally require a slightly more dressy shoe, however. There are many low-heeled pumps or strap versions that would be comfortable for walking moderate distances. Thus, you avoid that disagreeable "heavy" look.

Gingham Problem

Query—Although I am not a large woman, I have avoided selecting gingham and plaids, especially in two-piece summer dresses. Am I wrong in feeling these are only for the tall, slender young woman?

ANSWER—Generally speaking, your theory is tried and true, but there are exceptions. Now that life is becoming more casual, women are wearing country-type ginghams and plaids in the city for afternoon wear, business and committee meetings. The dark tone versions are more adaptable to every type of figure than any other style.

All too many plaids, however, have light grounds. These violate virtually every rule governing a smartly dressed woman, such as "one center of interest." A famous designer has said a woman is well dressed when no one notices she has on a new frock. This may certainly not be said about too vivid plaids. Not every woman wants to be inconspicuous in her dress, however. For the woman who strives for a dramatic effect and has the figure to wear bright plaids, I say go to it.

With checks, there is a little more leeway. Some very striking effects may be achieved with small gingham checks, especially in black and white or brown and white. Even the large woman may wear these. Combined with dark accessories, they make a very stunning outfit, with a minimum of color contrast.

Second Wedding

Query—This is my second wedding and it is to be to a member of the clergy.. Would a Sunday afternoon wedding at 2:30 with a reception from 3:30 to 6 be appropriate? Probably the whole church will be invited to the wedding and a great many persons to the reception. Could punch be served in fancy paper cups at home? What type of a gown would be appropriate?

ANSWER—You do not say whether you are a widow or a divorcee. The only difference between the two types of weddings is that a widow may have her own children attend her if she wishes. With this exception, her marriage follows the same rules as that of a divorced woman, with quietness and simplicity. She may or may not have an attendant, as she desires. She will wear an afternoon frock, usually, and a hat, or her traveling clothes.

The bride who has been divorced will not wear a white gown and veil, for such a bridal costume is still a symbol of virginity. If her marriage is to be held in a registry office, a traveling costume is worn. It may take place in a chapel, a church or at home, in which case a formal afternoon dress with a hat is appropriate. She will have one attendant or none—no children by her first marriage. Some relative, preferably her father, will give her away.

It is still the custom for the second venture to be solemnized in a very unobtrusive manner. A Sunday afternoon wedding and reception would be proper. Usually the marriage is so informal that guests are invited verbally or by an informal note. Simple decorations and simple refreshments for a few close relatives and intimate friends, are all the occasion requires, though it is an individual matter. Likewise a matter of personal decision is the question of paper cups. If you have a large gathering, chances are no one will ever notice what the drinks are served in. The same degree of informality should be carried throughout in the ceremony, decorations and refreshments.

Dark, All-Weather Frock

Every wardrobe should include one dark dress for those in-between days when it is neither hot nor cold, for sunshine, rain or dreary weather. The two-piece town frock (above) is perfect for filling in. In lacquer-dotted Eastman rayon jersey, it is cut to flatter the shorter-than-average figure. The short-sleeved blouse has an inset belt with big pearl buttons for accent.

Woman Contends Merchants Should Reduce Prices To Patrons Who Carry Their Parcels; Why Not Reward Conscientiousness and Penalize Indolence?

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: This problem is of vital interest to many women in Washington and I am hoping it may receive a hearing. It concerns the carrying home of packages from downtown stores, where delivery service is still maintained. In the good old days, when we nonchalantly said, "Charge and send," and went happily on to more interesting things; or when we telephoned a store to ask delivery of standard articles, we knew we were paying extra for the convenience (or the articles), because of the expense of delivery service. We rightly recognized delivery service to be a luxury and were willing to pay for it as such.

Now, however, the situation is changed. Responsibly minded persons are gladly foregoing luxuries, in order to invest that margin of savings in defense stamps and bonds. They cheerfully accept the small inconvenience, with the thought (or in the hope) that they are "doing their bit" to help our country win the war.

At the stores' first request for patrons to carry home their purchases, I fell in line. I have waited patiently the extra minutes required at each counter, to complete the transaction involved in a "carry" package,—and when one is doing household and personal shopping, these "waits" rapidly pile up into hours of time. I have then plowed my way through crowded stores into the street, with my shopping bag and various slippery parcels creating more or less havoc. I have reached my homeward-bound bus exhausted; there to sink wearily into a seat (if I am lucky enough to find a seat), with my bundles piled nose-high on my lap.

Then, when finally arrived at the elevator in our apartment building, I start to stack my packages on the seat, in order to get at my latchkey. But there is no room. The seat is already stacked with parcels the boy is about to deliver to other occupants of the house. These packages have been delivered from the stores which I had been patronizing an hour before! And their purchasers paid the same prices I paid,—with none of the inconvenience and weariness.

It seems to me that considerations of common justice should prompt the stores to remedy this situation. Since their prices are based on and include delivery costs, it seems only fair to those of us who are voluntarily supporting Government conservation of rubber and gas by carrying home bundles, to reduce the price of all merchandise to a non-delivery basis; and then charge those who want their purchases delivered, a sum that covers the expense of the service.

We have been told for years that it is delivery service which inflates the cost of department store merchandise. If this be true; and if the service were discontinued (except for those who wish to pay for it), the prices of all articles in such stores could be substantially reduced;—thus permitting those of us who so desire, to put the money thus saved into defense stamps and bonds; and allowing those who want purchases "sent" to have the service at the same cost as before. Sincerely,

M. B. K.

Merchants Think Public Hasn't Grasped Problem

DEAR M. B. K.: Your letter has been discussed with the president of one Washington's largest department stores; and, also, with Mr. Edward D. Shaw, secretary of the Merchants and Manufacturers Association of Washington,—both of whom were (1) respectfully sympathetic to the gist of your argument, that penalties of war-curtailed delivery service should be equitably shared by all; yet (2) frank to admit that, for the present, merchants are in the position of having to look to the public (which is to say, their customers) for cooperative assumption of individual responsibility, in conserving store trucks' tires and gas.

In appealing to patrons, some time back, to carry small parcels, the merchants were aiming, foresightedly, to reserve (and thus prolong) their delivery facilities for "heavy hauling" of bulky packages, furniture, bedding, etc., such as the customer couldn't possibly (much less conveniently) tote. Now that a substantial percentage of local householders have been deprived, by gas rationing, of the use of their own cars as a purely personal convenience—the "sense" of the merchants' forward-looking attitude becomes more apparent. And the possibility arises that those thoughtlessly selfish customers who ignored their appeal, and continued to exact the "luxury" of delivery service on small mechandise, may have been hastening the day of consternating inconvenience to themselves. Because, as these spokesmen point out, it is problematic whether more tires for merchant delivery trucks will be available when the equipment now in use has given out.

When asked how heavy merchandise might be transported from store to customer's home, in the event delivery trucks should be temporarily taken off the streets for want of tires, both men admitted they didn't know. It is evident the merchants still hope to ward off that dilemma, by cutting down mileage and wear-and-tear on delivery truck tires. As one man said: "Most stores have already adopted the two-day service. That is: delivery trucks from a given store cover a given section of the city only every other day—say, Monday, Wednesday and Friday—instead of every day, as formerly. On alternate days, they operate in other sections."

Both men praised your self reliant behavior in emergency. However, while stressing the cumulative value of that type of sacrifice, when generally shared, they felt you were being perhaps overly conscientious. In that regard, Mr. Shaw said: "One of the unfortunate aspects of our economic system is that the thoroughly conscientious person is usually penalized, in any situation calling for sacrifices of the all-for-one and one-for-all variety. There are always selfish persons willing to let him carry the load and do the worrying."

The department store executive remarked that you were doing more than your share—more, indeed, than was asked or expected of the individual woman—in personally carrying all drygoods you buy. "In fact," he said, "we don't like to see our customers carrying big packages or an overload of bundles; if for no other reason than it adds to pedestrian congestion in the shopping district. While we encourage them to take small purchases, because it is to their interest to do so, we believe it is better business practice, all around, to deliver the larger stuff. Of course," he added, "when you're doing some last-minute buying of goods you must have in a hurry, you may have to take it along or be disappointed. Because, aside from the tire-conservation angle, which is as yet only a potential hindrance to be guarded against, the scarcity of labor is beginning to slow up our delivery service."

Which brings us to your assumption that delivery costs are heavy, and directly assessed against all patrons of department stores; and to your theory that merchandise could feasibly be sold more cheaply to the customer who waives delivery service. Each man, speaking without knowledge of the other's comment, said that the expense of delivery service is only a small per cent of the retailer's operating cost, — and whether retained or eliminated, would not in itself perceptibly affect the retail price of merchandise.

They said the scarcity of labor, now beginning to be felt more or less acutely in all business not contributing directly to the war effort, is forcing employers to bid competitively for personnel; and that if the trend were in the direction of translating mounting operating costs into rising retail prices, the new salary scale and not pre-existing types of customer accommodation would largely account for it. But, as they pointed out, the federally established "ceiling on prices," now in effect, is the consumer's protection against spiraling expense. (Which, though they did not say so, suggests that it is the merchant and manufacturer, not the salaried citizen, who is really "taking the rap," in the economic shake-up brought on by this war.)

Careful Make-up Is Advised

Hollywood, Calif.—"I believe it is in the power of every woman to make herself beautiful," says Pere Westmore, Warner Brothers make-up expert. Women, on the whole, have made rapid progress in the art of applying make-up, but the percentage of expert make-up artists among women is small. It could be greatly increased if two things were given more attention—time allowed for make-up, and sufficient thought to the individual beauty problems.

"No wanm should expect to be correctly made up if she allows herself only a few minutes for application. It is hurry that produces shapeless splotches for lips, outlined dabs for rouge, darkened smears for eyeshadow and hard lines for eyebrows.

"Lighting and the camera demand that plenty of time be taken in making up Bette Davis, Ann Sheridan, Brenda Marshall, and other stars for the screen. I don't expect all women to spend as much time in their own make-up, but I do emphasize the importance of a sufficient period.

"No woman should expect to be understand their own particular beauty problems, I strongly urge that they seek expert advice. There are some points, however, all women should know:

"Lips should be made full and curving, with a slight upward turn at the corners.

"Rouge should be blended, never splotched.

Women Find War Work Is Agreeable

By Ida Jean Kain

THEY were saying we had become so dependent on machinery we couldn't even bend down and tie our shoelaces. But we are learning to do without the things that made life soft even faster than the manufacturers can stop making them.

Women who hadn't walked around the block for five years are now swinging gaily along to market every morning. And, since their maids have skipped over to defense, where there's more money as well as more freedom, the housewives are patriotically doing their own work. Moreover, they are going at it with so much zing that they have time left over for war service.

Improve Looks and Health

They are finding out you never know how much you can get done until you have tried. You can get around faster, do more, and look and feel better.

You can even find time—as you never have before—to do your calisthenics. In fact, a good percentage of the women's civilian defense units insist that you attend classes in exercise twice a week. Exercise is getting to be part of war work. Like knitting.

For the times you can't attend the class workout, you need a few simple exercise that will pull you and your figure out of the doldrums. These will serve nicely.

Get down on the floor on your hands and knees and raise alternate legs backwards, stretching the leg out straight and raising it high in air. Tense the hip muscles and pull up and in with the abdominal muscles while doing this exercise. Repeat 10 times.

Stand erect with your feet parallel on the floor arms straight out from the shoulders. Give a leap into the air and whirl the arms around in one direction, and swivel the knees around in the other. Leap again and reverse the position. Keep it up for about 8 to 10 counts. This is a vigorous exercise—but it does you good.

Use Doorway

Stand in a doorway with hands up on door frame at either side for support, and swing your legs high up in front and away up in back. Let the swing come from the hips and repeat 50 times.

There you have three exercises that get at your waist, abdomen and hips. If you keep these measurements trim, you're in pretty good shape yourself.

Ann Sheridan's Beauty Regime

Hollywood, Calif.—Ann Sheridan literally feeds her face when giving herself a facial mask. Ann, who will soon be seen in Warner Brothers' "Juke Girl," still clings to one of the old-fashioned treatments her grandmother handed down to her.

Ann mixed oatmeal, mineral honey and milk to a soft consistency, smoothes it on her face, leaves it for 15 minutes, then washes it off with cold water. Ann's beautiful skin vouchsafes the treatment's effectiveness.

Brightening Hair Without Bleaching

Here's a way to use a dash of peroxide without bleaching the hair—just to pep it up a bit.

Rosemary de Camp, a natural blonde, had her hair dyed black for her role in Alexander Korda's "The Jungle Book." To brighten it a little while it was growing back to normal, she dipped a hairbrush in plain peroxide and brushed it lightly over her hair, in a backward movement. Since her hair was so dark, she had to repeat this procedure several times before she got results. One of two treatments would do the trick on lighter hair.

Unless applied too freely and too often, this will not bleach the hair, only give it lighter streaks like the very attractive hair of young children.

One Way of Keeping Trim

It's patriotic to keep fit. Here Joyce Reynolds, movie actress, aids her waistline by flipping a deck of cards to the floor and then picking them up one by one

War Opening New Opportunity To Women in Art Work

WAR is creating unprecedented opportunities for women with art training, according to Guy Gayler Clark, dean of the Cooper Union Art School. The Government has joined private business and industry in opening more channels of art expression than have ever existed before, Dean Clark reports. Even the age-old barriers against women in engineering are being swept away.

"There will be nine calls to the drafting bench and designer's board for every one to the painter's easel," Dean Clark says. "Fortunately, modern art education has broadened its scope sufficiently to enable graduates to take the new demands in stride.

"Business organizations that widely advertised their wares a year ago, find no need to merchandise the guns, tanks and airplanes now rolling out of their factories. Potential purchasers of art are putting their surplus funds into war bonds and stamps. Styles have been standarized, thus reducing the number of openings for textile designers and stylists. "On the other horizon loom new and greater opportunities for artistically adept young people, especially women. Traditionally male-minded engineers who used to ban women from their offices and shops, are now courting female draftsmen and designers with tempting offers of employment. The Government, in order to release able-bodied men for military service, is seeking women who can wield a brush or a drawing pen."

As a sign of the engineer's changing attitude toward women employes, Dean Clark cites the case of a New York firm of naval architects which a few months ago hired its first woman draftsman, a Cooper Union art student. Since then, Dean Clark adds, six of the girl's classmates have been given similar jobs in this organization. Other firms that have hired Cooper Union women students this year for the first time include a sheet metal company and several aircraft factories. The Army also has been opening new opportunities for artists and designers in its ordnance division.

It is true that the social order in this country has been veering toward more and better opportunities for women ever since the last World War, Dean Clark points out. But this war, with its inevitable replacement of men with women, has given the old order "a violent shove," he adds.

Mme. Pastoriza Feted By Mrs. Ricardo Alfaro

The hostess planned a garden party but the weather disapproved of her idea and virtually poured its objections, so the fete was indoors yesterday afternoon when Mrs. Ricardo J. Alfaro entertained at her home on Forty-third Street in honor of Mme. Pastoriza, wife of the former Minister of the Dominican Republic. And in spite of the fact that the lovely Alfaro gardens were almost blacked out by a curtain of rain, guests had just as merry a time in the spacious house.

Mme. Pastoriza, who came to Washington last week, and has been feted constantly since her arrival, will be here another week to attend the graduation of her daughter, Matilda, from Arlington Hall. The two of them will then be off for New York, where they will join Matilda's brother, Andres, jr., who is ill there. From then on their plans are somewhat indefinite, but they will probably return to Santo Domingo within the next few weeks. The former Minister, Dr. Andres Pastoriza, will meet them there on their return, but is not plannjng a visit to this country any time soon.

Mrs. Alfaro, who received wherever she happened to be, was gowned in a floral print jersey model in shades of beige and brown. Mme. Pastoriza had chosen a green frock with a white polka dot print and with it she wore a white straw hat which was swathed in green veiling.

Since the affair was most informal, the hostess simply asked friends as they arrived to assist at the tea table. Among them were Senora de Recinos, wife of the Minister of Guatemala; Mme. Espaillat, Mrs. Tomas Cajigas and Mrs. Thomas Dawson.

Youngsters Invite Guests To 'Come On In'

Generally assisting during the afternoon were the hostess' daughter, Mrs. Harry C. Maddux, jr. (the former Yolanda Alfaro), and the daughter-in-law of the hostess, Mrs. Victor Alfaro. Adding a special touch of charm to the party were Mrs. Victor Alfaro's two small children, Nancy and Kimmie, who stood at the door to greet guests and welcomed them with winning smiles and the phrase, "Come on in, we're having a party."

Roses and peonies and iris in profusion, all from the Alfaro gardens, rioted all over the house, and the dining table was centered with a bouquet of rust and gold iris of a rare variety.

Mexican Ambassador Due Back Soon

Among those who dropped in during the tea hours were Senora de Castillo Najera, wife of the Mexican Ambassador, who said that her husband and their daughter Erma, now in Mexico City, were expected back in town in a few days; and Senora de Escalante, wife of the Venezuelan Ambassador, who came in with her daughter Mme. Kerpel-Fronius. They reported that the Arturo Bustamantes, (she is the former Maria Teresa Escalante) had just arrived in Mexico City on their honeymoon and will be there for some time before going on to El Salvador to make their home.

Senora de Recinos, smart in a black silk suit, was telling friends that Adrian jr., would graduate from Harvard soon and had already made arrangements to enter the Medical School at Columbia Universty as soon as possible.

Mrs. Robert Whitney Imbrie came in with Senora de Arguello and still others there included Mrs. Thad Brown, Mrs. Thomas Burke, Senorita Beatriz Recinos, Senora de Campbell, Senora de Munilla, Senora de Mackehenie y de la Fuente and many more.

Ensign Battle And Bride Now In Hot Springs

"Now it can be told" that Ensign John Stewart Battle, jr., U. S. N. R., and his bride are on a honeymoon trip to Hot Springs, but their destination after that is a closed book.

Mrs. Battle, before her marriage May 20 in Charlottesville, Va., was Miss Grace Remsen Linton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Gold Linton of that city. Ensign Battle is the son of State Senator and Mrs. John Stewart Battle of University, Va.

The deep green of palms and ivy with white peonies and rambler roses for contrast formed the background at the Charlottesville Presbyterian Church as the Rev. Dwight M. Chalmers read the 4:30 o'clock vows. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was gowned in ivory satin cut on princess lines and featuring a long train. Her bouquet was baby gardenias and stephanotis.

Miss Lucy Bell Linton, who was maid of honor for her sister, was costumed in nile green marquisette with bracelet-length sleeves and carried a mixed bouquet of snapdragons, iris, painted daisies and talisman roses. Bridesmaids were Miss Margaret Andrews Linton, also a sister of the bride, who was gowned in purple marquisette, and Miss Lucy Douglas Wood, who wore lavender. Both carried mixed bouquets.

Best man was William Cullen Battle, brother of the bridegroom, and ushers were Ensign Lee Massey McLaughlin of Richmond, Ensign Thomas B. Mason of Lynchburg, Harry Gold Linton, jr., brother of the bride; Bennett Barnes, jr., Dr. John R. Morris, jr., Patton Janssen, the latter all of Charlottesville.

The Farmington Country Club was the scene of a reception following the ceremony, and later the bride donned a gray and white silk shantung suit with a small gray hat for traveling. Her corsage was white gardenias.

Mrs. Battle attended Randolph-Macon Woman's College in Lynchburg. Ensign Battle attended Hampden-Sydney College in Virginia and was graduated from the University of Virginia. He later attended the University of Virginia School of Law.

Secretary of Late Poet Markham Advocates 'Acres of Diamonds' Idea With an Entirely New Twist

By Genevieve Reynolds

IF YOU'RE in the doldrums because of gasoline rationing or lack of money for entertainment, find the nearest stream to your house and look for pearls. This is the advice of dynamic Mrs. Florence Hamilton, friend and private secretary to Edwin Markham, author of "The Man With the Hoe."

Mrs. Florence Hamilton

Mrs. Hamilton came down from her home in New York to hold an exhibit of the author's letters written to her before his death. These are on display at the Library of Congress. While in town she attended the installation banquet of the National League of American Pen Women held last night at the Willard Hotel. She is the retiring first vice president of the National League and was a nominee for the presidency but withdrew to devote all her energies to the war effort.

"Contrary to popular belief, you do not have to go to the Orient to find pearls," said Mrs. Hamilton. "The finest in the world can be found in fresh water streams in all parts of the United States. All you need is a bathing suit, knapsack and the willingness to wade, to break your fingernails and dig, dig into black mud."

"Also," she laughingly added, "you must be willing to open 2000 shells without finding a single pearl. Yet, you might find two in one shell the next day. Besides being a costless hobby, the pearl digging keeps you out of doors in the sunshine."

Gardening is another of Mrs. Hamilton's hobbies. This she recommends to relieve taut war nerves.

Referring to the war effort, which is her first thought now, she said: "No one is too old to aid. If you can't work in some war agency or do other war work, buy defense bonds . . . buy until it hurts."

She advised all women's clubs to use idle money in the treasury for defense bonds. "Put your treasury to work," urged Mrs. Hamilton. "The clubs whose members are too old to do actual war work should do their bit by buying bonds. Other organizations not geared to a war program should do the same."

As for writers and artists, Mrs. Hamilton suggests that they lend all their creative ability to the war effort. "All writings should be colored to propagandize 'The American Way of Life,'" she said. "This can be done in poetry as well as in prose."

Mrs. Victoria Faber Stevenson

Mrs. Hamilton has just completed a biography of Edwin Markham and expects to publish her large collection of the poet's letters in book form in the near future. Working with the great poet was an education, according to Mrs. Hamilton. From him she really learned the English language as well as about life, literature, philosophy and politics.

At the National League of American Pen Women's banquet last night, Mrs. Victoria Faber Stevenson was installed as president. She held the same office 1934 to 1936. Other Washington women installed at the same time were Mrs. Emma Matthews Triepel, fifth vice president; Mrs. Annabel Glenn Lawyer, recording secretary; Dr. Mary Meek Atkeson Moore, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Ellamay C. Thomas, registrar; Mrs. Nellie Walker Irish, auditor; Mrs. Helen Orr Watson, librarian, and Mrs. Elizabeth S. Tilton. The other officers were from various parts of the country but were in town for the installation ceremony.

Mrs. Wright Succeeds Simons as Writers' League Head

Mrs. Agnes D. Wright succeeds Thomas A. Simons as president of the Writers' League of Washington. The slate of officers presented at the meeting this week was elected unanimously.

Other officers named include Mrs. Lelia W. Marshall, first vice president; Mrs. Nellie Walker Irish, second vice president; Miss Margaret Jean Bailey, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Ethel H. Allen, treasurer and Andrew N. Smith.

Preceding the election of officers, Mrs. Irish, contest chairman, announced the winners in the article contest. First prize went to Mr. Simons, the retiring president, for his article, "The Horse Marines Aid the Navy;" second prize was awarded to Miss Ruth Ribbe for "Rickshaw Coolie," and third prize went to Miss Bailey for "Lost Last Stanza of the National Anthem."

Mrs. Eva Grant Marshall, publicity chairman of the league, turned over her illustrated scrapbook with clippings to Mr. Simons.

Mrs. Hadley's Installation Set for June

MRS. CLYDE H. HADLEY, whose biography reads like a leaf from "Who's Who," will be installed as president of the Washington Branch of the American Association of University Women at an early June meeting. She was elected at a recent business meeting of the local branch.

Mrs. Clyde Hadley

A native of Indiana, Mrs. Hadley received an A. B. degree from Earlham and did graduate work at Butler University and the University of Washington. She is a member of Kappa Gamma sorority. Since coming to Washington she has held various places on important committees of the A. A. U. W. At one time she served as treasurer and first vice president of the Washington branch.

Other officers elected to serve with Mrs. Hadley are: Ruth Evelyn Henderson, second vice president; Marjorie Ina Hull, recording secretary; Madge Lane Cooke, treasurer and Mary Louise Brown, director.

Dr. Fisher to Address Vassar Club

Dr. Mary Shattuck Fisher, chairman of the department of Child Study at Vassar College and director of the school's forthcoming Institute on Family and Child Care Services in Wartime, will speak before members of the Washington Vassar Club at 4 o'clock Friday afternoon, May 29, at Pierce Hall.

Mrs. Henry Morgenthau, jr., and Mrs. A. A. Berle are among the Vassar alumnae arranging Dr. Fisher's lecture. Also, they are vitally interested in the institute to be held at Vassar June 22 to August 1. Representatives of the Emergency Child Care Committee, P.-T. A., Red Cross, A. W. V. S., Junior League, A. A. U. W. and other organizations have been invited to attend the meeting Friday afternoon here.

Members of the committee include Mrs. John B. Martin, jr., chairman; Mrs. Morgenthau, Mrs. Berle, Mrs. Waldron Faulkner, Dr. Elizabeth Kittredge, Miss Helen Zartman, Mrs. Roger Robb, Miss Neville Miller, Miss Gertrude Good and Mrs. Marjorie Cleveland.

An election of officers and an informal tea at 4 o'clock will precede Dr. Fisher's talk.

Mr., Mrs. Jones Entertain at Cocktail Party

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Jones entertained a few friends at cocktails during the late afternoon hours yesterday at their home on S Street. Mr. Jones, who lives in New York, has been spending several days in the Capital.

A quartette of out-of-town visitors—Mr. and Mrs. Henry de Bach, Mrs. George Mesta and Mrs. Emory Sands—took the spotlight at yesterday's gathering so that it really might be said that the fete was in their honor.

Mr. and Mrs. de Bach have been widely feted during their stay the past few days in Washington. They will return to New York tomorrow. Mrs. Sands, whose home is also in New York, is spending some time here as the house guest of Mrs. Leland Harrison. She formerly made her home in Washington.

Miss Jane M. Shuey of Harrisburg, Pa., will entertain today with a luncheon at the Mayflower for 18 classmates in the June graduating class at National Cathedral School for Girls. Miss Shuey is a niece of Traffic Director and Mrs. William A. Van Duzer with whom she has been living while attending Cathedral School.

The luncheon guests will include Miss Madeline Booth, Miss Joan Davis, Miss Barbara Cooke, Miss Hilda Munson, Miss Hazel Hottel, Miss Anne Curzen-Howe, Miss Frances Ethridge, Miss Edith Heim, Miss Katherine Donahoe, Miss Shirley Budds, Miss Gwin Barnwell, Miss Helen McCulley, Miss Wistar Watts, Miss Patsy Krutzer, Miss Betty Waite, Miss Peggy Roirson, Miss Patsy Blickensdefer and Miss Nancy Lou Hollerith.

Actress Weds Flying Officer

PRISCILLA LANE, 23-year-old film actress, was married yesterday in Las Vegas, Nev., to Lieut. Joseph A. Howard of the United States Army Air Forces. They motored from Victorville, Calif., for the ceremony, performed by a justice of the peace in the hotel apartment of Lieut. Col. Herbert W. Anderson, executive officer of the Air Force gunnery school. Miss Lane was previously married to Orin Haglund, film director, from whom she was divorced. It was Lieut. Howard's first marriage.

Decentralizing Of D.C. Defense Units Ordered

The Civilian Mobilization wing of the District Civilian Defense organization was ordered decentralized yesterday by Conrad Van Hyning, chief of the mobilization services.

Each of the 68 Civilian Defense area committees was instructed to set up a mobilization committee similar to the central planning committee.

The services thus represented include consumer interest, salvage, family security, health, housing, nutrition, war savings, youth advisory committee, education, and welfare services, including family security and child care and protection.

The members of these committees will be nominated by the area committees, but appointed by Van Hyning. He said the reason for the decentralization was that the war program "must reach every home if there is to be a total participation in the war effort."

Chairman of the District Mobilization Committee reported on the progress of their programs at a meeting yesterday afternoon in the U. S. Information Center.

More than 36 million dollars worth of war bonds and stamps have been purchased in the District in the last year, H. L. Rust, jr., chairman of the war savings committee reported. The District's quota for June will be $7,100,000 and for July and each succeeding month 10 million dollars worth of bonds is expected to be purchased here.

Horace Walker, speaking for the salvage committee said that 49 million pounds of waste have been collected in the four months the program has been in operation, including 34 million pounds of paper.

John Reilly said that although the Housing Registry had been moved into the Information Center and now is included in the Federal Housing Administration, volunteer inspectors still are needed. Reilly said the Registry answers more than 6000 inquiries a month

Civilian Care Put Up to OCD

Immediate responsibility for care to civilians injured in bombing or shelling belongs to the Emergency Medical Service of the Office of Civilian Defense, President Roosevelt said yesterday in a formal statement.

According to the statement, the OCD, the Federal Security Agency, and the American Red Cross have agreed among themselves on plans to aid civilian injured.

The Red Cross will not duplicate the work of the OCD, but will supplement it by furnishing nurses' aides, stretcher teams, ambulances, and other supplementary equipment.

This agency also will be relied upon to supply food, clothing and temporary shelter for masses of individuals immediately after or during an attack. These functions will be continued only until regular Federal, State and local agencies are able to begin assuming the responsibility.

The statement ends the confusion that has existed in various emergency fields in which the Red Cross formerly operated alone, but now are in the OCD program. Plans agreed on by the three agencies, President Roosevelt said, supply the means for dovetailing work of the Government with that of organizations supported voluntarily by the public.

"The 3734 Red Cross chapters," he said, "can now work on a common understanding with local defense councils and public welfare and health agencies in every county in the United States—for the safety and welfare of the American people."

While emergency feeding and housing is recognized as a responsibility of the Red Cross, the statement pointed out this is also a function of the over-all emergency service of the OCD's Citizens' Defense Corps. Both agencies have been setting up feeding stations, but it is assumed the program will be so dovetailed some of the stations can be eliminated.

Registration Of Boys 18-19 Set for June 30

would reach agreement "in short order" today, but declined to predict what the conference recommendation would be.

It was believed, however, that the conference would vote to accept the Senate version of the new enlisted pay scales, a move certain to precipitate a bitter fight on the House floor, where the higher rates were voted by an overwhelming majority last week.

Earlier in the day, a majority of the Senate Military Affairs Committee was reported in favor of including in legislation granting allowances for dependents of men in the armed services a provision for deferment of draft-age men on the basis of family relationships. Deferment from the selective service is at present on the basis of financial responsibility of the registrant for members of his family.

"Family ties should be a basis for deferment," declared Senator Lee (Democrat), of Oklahoma. "A husband and a father should not be called until the supply of single men is exhausted. We do not want to break up home life unless we have to."

Senator Johnson (Democrat), of Colorado, said the allowances bill would be considered by the committee Tuesday. Johnson was chairman of the subcommittee that conducted hearings on the bill recently. As reported to the full committee, the measure would give wives of soldiers and sailors allowances of $50 a month with $12 additional for the first child and $10 for each additional child.

The President's registration proclamation read:

"Pursuant to the Selective Training and Service Act of 1940, as amended, the registration of male citizens of the United States and other male persons who were born on or after January 1, 1922, and on or before June 30, 1924, shall take place in the United States and the Territories of Alaska and Hawaii, and in Puerto Rico on Tuesday, the 30th day of June, 1942, between the hours of 7 a. m. and 9 p. m."

Nearly 40 milion men 20 through 64 years of age, inclusive, have registered in a series of four registration days that began October 16, 1940. Men in the 44-64 age group, as well as the 18 and 19-year-olds, are not liable for military service, but some of them may be mobilized for work in war plants. The two groups together comprise a man power reservoir of approximately 16 million.

In the 20-44 class are approximately 26 million men, all of whom are liable for military service if they qualify.

Early this week, Man Power Commissioner Paul V. McNutt declared that approximately 22,500,000 men would be needed this year and next either for military duty or work in war plants. He said that 10,500,000 war workers would have to be recruited this year and 7,500,000 more by the end of 1943. Another two million men will be needed by the armed forces in 1942 and 2,500,000 in 1943, he declared.

Statements of congressional leaders last night clearly indicated that there has been no substantial relaxation in that quarter of opposition to mustering 18- and 19-year-olds for military service.

Extremity Not That Dire

"We have not reached such a dire extremity that we must draft these boys," declared Representative May. Senator Hill, of Alabama, who is a member of the Military Affairs Committee and the Democratic whip, said he did not believe a move to draft "these youths" would be made in "the near future."

Conferees on the pay bill yesterday were reported to have ironed out some 20 minor differences in House and Senate versions of the legislation. House Committee Chairman May said the conference committee would reconvene today at 10:30 a.m. and added that he expected agreement on major points in controversy "in short order."

One of these points was the Faddis amendment which would require the secretaries of War and Navy to give Congress a detailed report every 60 days on commissioning of civilians who lack military training but who possess special technical skills.

Undersecretary of War Robert Patterson appeared before the committee in its closed session yesterday. He was reported to have opposed the amendment.

Officer Candidates Chosen

COMMISSIONER DRAWS NAMES FROM CAP—Commissioned John Russell Young draws the first capsule from an officer's cap held by William E. Leahy, District director of Selective Service, in the lottery for volunteer officer candidates. The drawing took place yesterday at District Selective Service Headquarters, Twenty-third and M Streets Northwest. Holder of the first number drawn was Oscar E. Lundquist, 1633 Franklin Street Northeast, a War Department employe.

More Debt Protection Asked for Service Men

Service men who have acquired debts or other obligations in civil life will get added protection under a bill sponsored by Representative John J. Sparkman (Democrat) of Alabama and backed yesterday by Maj. William D. Partlow, jr., of the office of the Judge Advocate General.

At hearings before the House Military Affairs Committee, Major Partlow told the group that the bill would apply to those who are unable to meet such obligations by reason of their military service.

The new bill safeguards enlisted men against the seizure of their property, prohibits the collection of loan interest at a greater rate than 6 per ecnt a year and continues this protection automatically for periods of three to six months after discharge from service.

A further provision of the bill discussed by the House Committee gives the courts discretion to extend post-war settlement of a serviceman's debts from six months to a period equal to the time the soldier or sailor spent in service.

Concerning the provision against interest charges of more than 6 per cent, Major Partlow pointed out that some States allow rates of as high as 3½ per cent a month on small loans.

Foreclosures of real estate mortgages and of chattel mortgages, other than under power of sale or warrant of attorney to confess judgment are also prohibited in the bill. A special provision of the existing law which allows repossession of a service man's car if the automobile is encumbered by a purchase-money mortgage is also removed.

Funeral Rites For Mrs. Ottile Kiel Held at Ft. Lincoln

Funeral services for Mrs. Ottile Kiel, long-time resident of the District who died Wednesday, were held yesterday at Fort Lincoln chapel. Burial was in the Fort Lincoln Cemetery.

Mrs. Kiel, whose death came at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Helen Lillis, Arlington Village, was born in Texas in 1869 and came to Washington in 1907. Her husband, H. G. Kiel, died in 1938.

Surviving Mrs. Kiel are Mrs. Lillis and two sons, Lieut. Col. Henry Kiel, U. S. A., and Paul Kiel, a sales engineer.

Lottery Solves Puzzle Over Commissions

Twenty-eight candidates for Army commissions were chosen by lot by District Selective Service officials yesterday from a group of prospective selectees who volunteered for induction ahead of their turn under the plan to give a chance for commissions to 3-A men who volunteer.

The lottery was ordered when it was found that more registrants had applied to local boards for induction than the District was allowed candidates. As the lottery began yesterday, William E. Leahy, chairman of the Appeal Board, announced that the District quota had been doubled to 14 a month.

Commissioner John Russell Young shuffled the applicants' cards before they were numbered by A. P. Bauman, the board's chief clerk. Commissioner Guy Mason, blindfolded, then drew 28 capsules, containing numbers, from the cap of Maj. Fletcher W. Berndorff.

1-Man Tax Appeal Board Again Appointed to Post

Jo V. Morgan, the District's one-man Board of Tax Appeals, was reappointed yesterday by the Commissioners for another four-year term at $7500 per year.

Morgan, who lives at 5620 Moorland Lane, Edgemoor, Md., was appointed to his unique position on July 1, 1938, shortly after the board was set up under a revision of the District Revenue Act. He is charged with affirming, canceling, reducing or increasing any assessment under any of the seven tax categories.

Fish's Renomination Opposed by Dewey

New York, May 22 (AP).—Former District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey announced tonight that he was "unalterably opposed" to the candidacy of Representative Hamilton Fish (Republican) of New York for renomination for Congress from the Twenty-sixth District.

He said that he had informed Fish of his opposition by telephone today.

Revenue Camera Club Exhibits Photographs

More than 50 photographs by members of the Revenue Camera Club went on display last night in the windows of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Co., 725 Thirteenth Street Northwest. Comprising the club's first annual salon, the pictures will remain on view for two weeks.

"This job of hiring is very tiring," SAID MR. THWAITE

EVERY MORNING, when Mr. Thwaite looked into his mirror to shave, he saw new lines in his face. Hiring lines, you might call them.

Because Mr. Thwaite had a specialty shop and he needed salesgirls badly—as well as stenogs and credit men for the office. And he didn't know where to find them.

On this particular morning he looked particularly bad. He was running a sale next week. Man, oh man, was he worried!

"I know I look simply terrible," he said to the mirror. "But this job of hiring is very tiring. And I do need more help for my sale. Golly, what'll I do?"

He never expected an answer—but he got one, all right!

Ever hear of a magic mirror? "Look," it said, "finish shaving . . . then go to the phone, call NAtional 4200 . . . and put a Help Wanted Ad in The Washington Post. That paper sure gets results! Only 22 cents a line, too."

Mr. Thwaite keeps the mirror in a beautiful, plush-lined box now. His sale was a great success. He hired all the help he needed—through The Post.

The Federal Diary

By Jerry Kluttz

LeCron to Take Job In Rockefeller's Office

James P. LeCron will resign as chief of the Distribution Branch of Agricultural Marketing Administration to become director of nutrition and food supply in the office of Nelson Rockefeller. He formerly was Vice President Wallace's campaign manager. . . . Aubrey Williams, National Youth administrator, is slated to head a proposed new youth agency resulting from a merger of NYA and the Conservation Corps. Administration leaders in Congress have been told the President has decided to merge the agencies. . . . Interior Undersecretary Jack Dempsey is visiting his New Mexico home. His friends here believe he will run for Governor of the State.

The very few skeptics who refused to believe that the President was behind the overtime pay plan for Federal workers should now be satisfied. The President told his press conference yesterday that the overtime plan was a long-delayed effort to do something for the low-paid Federal worker. He went on to explain that Federal workers would be placed on the same basis with the rest of the working people under the overtime pay plan. He said that his office was still working on the actual cost of the program.

From other quarters it was learned that the President is gratified by the response given the overtime proposal. Only a few sour notes were sounded from employe ranks and these came from postal workers. However, it's generally believed that the powerful postal groups will line up behind the bill if they are assured of being worked overtime. Some weeks ago Congress passed a bill which permits straight time to be paid after 40 hours to postal workers. The great majority of postal employes haven't been worked overtime and for them the law is meaningless as a device to raise salaries to offset higher living costs.

The President will ask Congress shortly to appropriate approximately 650 million dollars for the construction of homes for war workers. Meantime, National Housing Agency has just about straightened out is difficulties with War Production Board. WPB orders prevented NHA contractors from buying lumber and other materials to build war homes. A plan is being worked out whereby WPB will give the same priority rating to the war homes as is given to the war plants being constructed. After all, why build a plant if workers aren't available?

New boards of review to dispose of efficiency rating grievances wil be sworn in on July 1 in every Federal department and agency. Election committees are now being set up in agencies to conduct the balloting for the employe members. Committees that have been okayed by the Civil Service Commission are as follows: Postoffice Department, D. C. Link, L. J. Keough, T. A. Taliaferro, F. H. Clough and J. F. Buehler. State Department: Mary Sprigman, Harley A. Notter, Norvelle H. Sanneback, Edward L. Reeves and Louis L. Widmer. Board of Tax Appeals: John A. Purinton, Ida R. Goodman and Catherine McKenna.

Office of Government Reports: Elizabeth Carland, Clarence Donohoe and Dana Orwich. Food and Drug Administration: Ralph F. Kneeland, Laura Ethler and Charles Boone. District Unemployment Compensation Board: Mary Armfield, William Freund, Robert McPherson, James Parker and Essie Whitaker. Federal Works Agency: E. A. Needham, P. F. Critz, S. T. Hitchcock, W. R. McKinley and G. H. Sprehn. National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics: Alexandrine M. Johnston, Charles Yates and John A. Nance.

National Resources Planning Board: Wilbert G. Fritz, Homer F. Gilliam, Kathleen McCormick, Anne McMurray and William J. Ponorow. National Gallery of Art: Sterling P. Eagleton, Lamont Moore and Charles B. Walstrom. Smithsonian Institution: Frank M. Setzler, Dr. Frank H. Roberts and David L. Dupre. United States Courts: John H. Hope, Darwin H. Anderson, Wilmer J. Wilkie, Inez Alvord and Helen B. Lawrence. . . . Civil Service exams: radio inspector, $1620 to $2600 . . . Underaircraft modelmaker, $1260 . . . Zone deputy collector, $1800 . . . Machinist, electrician, pipefitter, and sheet metal helpers, $5.52 to $6.48 a day.

Another Auto Hazard

As though gas and tire rationing don't make things tough enough for motorists, Dame Nature yesterday pitched in and put a crimp in any plans which James H. Chaconas, 810 H Street Northeast, may have for driving.

Yesterday's downpour, uprooted "two fair-sized trees" and deposited them across Chaconas' parked coupe. Chaconas said the top and one side of the car were crushed.

Faulty Military Intelligence

Camp Lee, Va., May 22 (AP).—Soldiers started a run on the post exchange barber shop when the word got around that two beautiful young ladies had been assigned to duty as barbers.

A second message over the khaki grapevine ended the rush, however. The girls were engaged to care for the tonsorial needs of Army nurses.

National Gas Rationing Called Sure

Nelson, WPB Chief, Says Step Awaits Only Plan; Intended Solely to Save Tires

Gasoline rationing will be extended to the entire Nation as a rubber conservation measure just as soon as necessary plans are developed by the Office of Defense Transportation.

This notice was served on the motoring public yesterday at a press conference with War Production Chief Donald M. Nelson and WPB Rubber Chief Arthur B. Newhall.

While the Office of Petroleum Coordination continued to urge construction of a new pipe-line from Texas to the East Coast, Nelson and Newhall said the project was out "unless you want to give up steel for ships, tanks, planes and bombs."

Nation-wide gasoline rationing will be dictated solely, the two officials asserted, by the drastic need of conserving rubber now on private passenger cars, rather than by any shortage of petroleum production or transportation facilities. They added that the situation calls for stringent action to save this rubber for essential needs.

Roosevelt Discusses Problem

There were other rapid developments in the gasoline rationing picture. Federal officials conferred with President Roosevelt at the White House and discussed all possibilities of bringing the precious fuel to the oil-starved East. No immediate conclusions were reached.

On Capitol Hill, the House Rivers and Harbors Committee approved legislation to help relieve the Eastern oil shortage by constructing a pipeline across northern Florida and improving and connecting Gulf and Atlantic barge canals.

Maj. J. R. Parten, OPC Transportation Director, told a special Senate committee that there was no prospect of lifting the rationing in the East unless a 24-inch pipeline were constructed from Longview, Tex., to Salem, Ill. The plight can be alleviated, he added, providing seagoing tankers resume service along the Atlantic Coast.

Motorists were given another jolt when Nelson, Newhall, ODT Director Joseph Eastman and Price Chief Leon Henderson issued a joint statement saying that no rubber could be spared this year or next to make new tires for passenger automobiles.

Warned of Auto Seizures

In this connection, a blunt warning was issued yesterday by Newhall that if motorists fail to conserve "the transportation miles in their tires," it may be necessary eventually to transfer the automobiles and tires—as a unit—to communities where they are needed. Specific legislation authorizing seizure of cars and parts is pending in the Senate Military Affairs Committee.

At the press conference of Nelson and Newhall, the latter declared: "Personally, I think there is enough transportation in the tires already built to care for the country's essential needs for this year and next, at which time we will be able to see the future more clearly.

"I don't think we will need to take them (privately owned tires) to grind them up into reclaimed rubber, but if you don't take care of your tires, it might be necessary to move some of the transportation facilities from one place to another."

He explained that vehicles might be needed to transport workers to such huge plants as Willow Run, the Ford bomber plant 40 miles from Detroit.

Nelson also declared that every bit of synthetic rubber, as well as existing stock piles of crude and reclaimed rubber, would be required for direct or indirect military use.

Heavy emphasis on the fact that military requirements would take every ounce of every type of rubber was made by Newhall, and he declared his belief that Americans therefore would accept Nation-wide gasoline rationing with good grace.

Studying Use of Grain

There is "no question," he added, that grain can be used for alcohol to produce synthetic rubber, and he said that the WPB was currently giving earnest consideration to an expanded alcohol synthetic rubber program.

Price Administrator Leon Henderson announced that fewer tires would be made available for rationing in June than in May, despite normal seasonal rise in demand.

Meanwhile, gasoline rationing is hitting the Army too. At Fort Lewis, Wash., one of the largest encampments in the Nation, all Army vehicles from motorcycles to the biggest trucks come under a strict rationing order prompted by a War Department directive, urging the minimum use of gasoline. A gallon per day per vehicle is the common allotment. Messengers who have been getting about in jeeps or on motorcycles delivering military orders, will soon be riding bicycles instead. The Quartermasters' Corps, it is said, has a large shipment of bikes ready to put to use.

War Department officials here said orders to conserve gasoline had been issued to camp commanders before public gas rationing was ordered, and it was left to the individual officers how their gas allotments could be best utilized.

At District gas ration headquarters in the Force School, 1740 Massachusetts Avenue Northwest, officials reported continuing heavy exchange of X and B cards for the lower ones. Seven new neighborhood branch offices are soon to be established; and their locations and personnel will soon be announced.

District gasoline dealers, despite the ration edict, are not planning any cut in personnel, they stated yesterday. Business is good, they reported, having gradually picked up since motorists filled their tanks to the brim prior to the start of rationing.

Victory Sidelights

Standing Room Only to Mean Just That in D. C. Trolleys

It will probably come as a distinct surprise to Washington streetcar riders to learn that they have had seven theoretic square feet of standing room alloted each person.

It will be a less pleasant surprise to learn that the Public Utilities Commission, thinking this far too spacious, last night ordered the standing room cut down to four square feet a person.

Furthermore the P. U. C. found that 150 cars—those numbered from 187 to 336—had such wasted space that four more seats could be added between cross-seats without decreasing the standing capacity under the new allowance.

The P. U. C. also recognized the increase of rush traffic and officially designated the hours from 6 to 9:30 a. m. and from 3 to 7 p. m. as weekday rush periods. Saturday morning has the same rush hours, and all of Saturday afternoon from noon to 7 p. m. is considered a rush period. There are no Sunday rush hours.

Kalorama Wardens In Demonstration

Air wardens of the Kalorama area participated in a practical demonstration last night at the John Quincy Adams School. Approximately 1000 defense workers of the area were shown just what to do in reporting bombings, poison gas, and high explosives.

A complete control center was set up, with the necessary desks, signs, maps of the area, control panels and other paraphernalia. The demonstration was under the supervision of W. T. Krugiak, deputy air warden, for the Kalorama area.

Another Angle On Helmet Affair

What really happened to the 22,000 civilian defense steel helmets about which Director James M. Landis of the Office of Civilian Defense and Mayor F. H. LaGuardia of New York are having the words?

According to the Akron (Ohio) Beacon Journal, they were made too small for everybody except midgets and are "gathering dust and maledictions" at Ohio plants to which the orders were given.

Mayor LaGuardia has charged several times that the Government—presumably the OCD—is holding up delivery. Director Landis has charged the Mayor of New York with subversive irresponsibility of utterance and declared the helmets are a matter to be settled by New York and the companies hired to make them.

Police Holidays Canceled May 30

Acting Superintendent Harvey G. Callahan yesterday ordered all police holidays falling on May 30 canceled because of the large details of officers which will be needed to handle the eagerly awaited Memorial Day parade.

Commanding officers also were instructed to "restrict" the granting of annual leave on that day.

Scouts Discuss Air Training Plan

Youth aviation training was stressed at a charter meeting last night of Troop 55, Washington Council of Boy Scouts, at the Boys Club, Seventeenth Street and Massachusetts Avenue Southeast.

The "spotter model program," with which the U. S. Office of Education is teaching airplane model building and how to identify various types of aircraft by silhouette, was outlined. John Chandler of the Washington Council of Boy Scouts, spoke on the air scout program. The Army Air Corps and the Navy Bureau of Aeronautics contributed movie shorts to illustrate the subject.

Residents Inspect Wardens' Quarters

Residents of the Glover Park area took advantage of "open house" last night at the deputy air-raid warden's post, 2514 Tunlaw Road Northwest, and the area's emergency feeding and housing headquarters, 2517 Thirty-ninth Street Northwest.

Among those who inspected the facilities was Capt. W. L. Clemens, assistant to Civilian Defense Executive Lemuel Bolles. Deputy Warden H. H. Hobbs reported the visitors semed "favorably impressed."

Fellowship House Will Mark Year's Work for Service Men

The first anniversary of service men's entertainments at Fellowship House, 3583 Massachusetts Avenue Northwest, under auspices of the Covenant-First Presbyterian Church, will be celebrated at the house tonight with a special program and cake cutting.

Several hundred service men are expected to attend the observance, which will include a dinner, music by an orchestra by the United States Navy Band School and dancing. Speakers will include Grover L. Hartman, director of the Defense Commission of the Washington Federation of Churches, and representatives of the Chief of Chaplains' Office and the Army Special Services Branch.

Young people of Foundry Methodist Church will be hosts and hostesses to service men for a dance, floor show, games and refreshments tonight at the American University gymnasium, Massachusetts and Nebraska Avenues Northwest, following the regular Saturday night dinner for service men at the Letts Educational Building, Sixteenth and P Streets Northwest.

Young women of St. John's Episcopal Church will entertain service men tonight with dancing, games and refreshments at the church parish hall on Sixteenth Street between H and I.

Twenty service men will be lodged and breakfasted in homes of congregation members after a party at 8 o'clock tonight at the Fourth Presbyterian Church, Thirteenth and Fairmount Streets Northwest, by members of the church's "Mothers Class" and young adult "Conquerors."

A sightseeing tour for service men, sponsored by the Federation of Churches, will start at 2 p. m. today at the National Gallery of Art. Participants afterward will attend a dinner party at the First Evangelical and Reformed Church, Thirteenth and Monroe Streets Northwest.

Rites Set Today For Civil War Nuns

Memorial services will be held at 8:30 p. m. today for nuns who served in the Civil War at the Nuns of the Battlefields Monument, Rhode Island Avenue and M Street Northwest. Services will be in charge of the Women's Relief Corps, auxiliary of the G. A. R., of which Mrs. Delia L. O'Brien is chairman. Mrs. O'Brien inaugurated the exercises six years ago.

Representative Louis C. Rabaut, (Democrat), of Michigan, will speak. Music will be furnished by the United States Navy School Band.

'Empire Day' To Be Observed

"Empire Day," anniversary of Queen Victoria's birthday, will be observed today at the National Press Club, with diplomatic, military and other representatives of the British nations appearing as guests of honor.

Members of Congress, the State Department and ranking officers of the Army and Navy will assist in playing hosts to the visitors. Open house will be held for invited guests from noon until 7 p. m. At 4 p. m. a special program will be presented.

Peace Seen Bringing New Opportunities

College students should explore fully the opportunities to be offered in the peace to come, Dr. Harold W. Dodds, president of Princeton University, told the Princeton Club of Washington last night at the annual dinner at the Chevy Chase Club.

The speaker dwelt on education before the Pearl Harbor attack and the changes that will take place in university teaching after the war is won.

John G. Foster, First Secretary of the British Embassy, spoke on American-British relations, and said on his return to Oxford University in the near future he would tell the students there of conditions in the United States.

Democracy generally committed suicide after achieving a great victory, like the last World War, said Dr. Dodds, by internal complacency, and urged it not to happen again. He hoped, he said, for a lasting peace and one that would offer numerous opportunities.

F. Moran McConihe of the class of '28, was toastmaster and introduced the speakers. Arthur G. Lambert was chairman of the annual banquet committee. Approximately 200 local Princeton men attended the dinner.

Civic Groups War on Home 'Juke Boxes'

Spurred by a report of its social service committee, the Federation of Civic Associations last night in a meeting at the District Building set in motion a war on "juke boxes" discovered in hundreds of private homes of colored citizens, which contribute to delinquency of school children. The report was ordered published for general dissemination.

Establishment of trailer homes in the section near the Navy Yard, where 153 colored families have to make way for expansion of the yard, was deplored, following committee inspection of trailer homes in Arlington, Va. It was found that only 25 of these families include war workers, who expect preferential treatment in houses of the James Creek Project, now 25 per cent completed.

The federation, by resolution, requested the Secretary of War to make available some 450 demountable houses unused at Quantico for use of colored families proposed to be housed in trailers. The Government was requested, also, to take care of storage problems.

Another resolution provided for investigation of problems of colored food handlers at Gallinger Hospital. These persons, a report stated, were paid $90 monthly, from which $20 was deducted for three meals daily, which meals were not available on 52 Sundays and on 46 days, including holidays, sick and other leave during the work year.

Workers, it was understood, desire deduction for only one meal. The investigation will include a study of locker facilities.

The federation concurred in a request of the Robert T. Freeman Dental Society for appointment of a colored dentist on the Board of Dental Examiners. It outlined procedure for all-out safety activity, in connection with the home playground contest sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The federation was awarded a certificate of merit by Commissioner John Russell Young, coordinator of civilian defense, because of its contribution to the defense program.

War Dept. Buses Won't Be Delayed

Both PUC and ICC Give Permission For Operation, but With Reservations

Bus service to the new War Department Building in Arlington will not be held up while the District Public Utilities Commission, the Interstate Commerce Commission and the Virginia Public Service Commission fight out the question of jurisdiction.

The Interstate Commerce Commission and the PUC simultaneously issued temporary permits to the Capital Transit Co. yesterday to operate its shuttle line between Constitution Avenue and the War Department Building.

The PUC in its order made it clear, however, that this was simply a measure of expediency and did not necessarily indicate the commission's final action. It was especially reluctant in granting the 5-cent charge for the shuttle line.

"Nothing herein shall be construed as a representation by this commission that the temporary rate of 5 cents is just or reasonable, or that the buses employed in this operation are being employed otherwise than as part of the Capital Transit Co.'s transportation system in the District of Columbia," the PUC order stated.

Controversy over the jurisdiction of the bus lines followed an announcement of a hearing before the PUC on May 25 to determine routes and fares between the District and Federal buildings in Arlington County. Not only the Capital Transit Co., but also the Alexandria, Barcroft and Washington Transit Co. and the Washington, Virginia and Maryland Coach Co. were asked to appear at the hearing.

This was taken in some circles as an indication that the PUC was asserting its authority over the Virginia roads. The Capital Transit Co. subsequently filed a petition with the Interstate Commerce Commission for authority to operate its shuttle line.

Water Department Employes Held In Gasoline Theft

Two employes of the District Water Department were held under $500 bond each for jury trials by Police Court Judge Hobart Newman yesterday on charges of stealing 75 gallons of gasoline and 8 5-gallon test cans from the department.

Clarence W. Johnson, 37, 914 M Street Southeast, was charged with stealing 70 gallons of gasoline in 5-gallon amounts since April 1, in addition to three test cans. Edgar W. Lynch, 45, 512 Ninth Street Southeast, was charged with stealing 5 gallons of gasoline and 5 test cans.

Detective Sergt. Watson Salkeld told the court that the gasoline and cans had been recovered.

St. John's Drill Winners Named

Drilling in difficult weather conditions, Company C yesterday was awarded top honors in the St. John's College competitive drill on the muddy ellipse.

Capt. Robert Hayes received a large silver loving cup for heading the victorious company. Second place went to Company G, captained by Capt. Eugene Moran. Capt. Richard Gievel's Company A was third.

Capt. Anderson and Capt. Sorelli, of the 176th Field Artillery at Anacostia, were reviewing officers.

All-Star 'Candida' Coming To National for a Week

Katharine Cornell, Raymond Massey Head Cast; Goldwyn to Picturize Capital War Workers; Items of News and Gossip of the Theater

GOOD NEWS for Washington theatergoers!

As hopefully intimated here only a few days ago, the season of 1941-1942 at the National Theater will not end with the fall of the final curtain on "Arsenic and Old Lace" a week from tonight. The unique Kesselring comedy, now in the midst of its record run, will be followed by one of the most distinguished and most enthusiastically acclaimed productions of this or any other year, on or off of Broadway.

KATHARINE CORNELL

For the week of June 1, so Manager Edmund Plohn of the National announced yesterday, the attraction on E Street will be the Theater Wing's all-star production of Shaw's "Candida," for the benefit of Army-Navy Relief. The engagement will be for one week only, with the usual matinees on Wednesday and Saturday.

Katharine Cornell, Raymond Massey, Burgess Meredith, Brenda Forbes, Ernest Cossart and Stanley Bell are the volunteer stars of this brilliant Shaw play, now enjoying an enormously successful S. R. O. run on Broadway, where it has been unanimously proclaimed by critics and public the most magnificently acted drama of this generation. The entire receipts will be donated by the Theater Wing to the Army Emergency Fund and the Navy Relief Society. "Candida" was staged under the personal direction of Guthrie McClintic.

Although "Candida" is being presented in New York at a $4.40 scale of prices, lower tariffs will be assessed for the Washington week. For the evening performances, admissions will range from $1 to $3.85; for matinees, from $1 to $3.30. A bargain. While this Shaw work—and it is one of his best—of course, is familiar to Capital audiences, it has not been professionally presented on a local stage since Cornelia Otis Skinner's appearance in the title role at the National several seasons ago.

Mr. Goldwyn Makes A Discovery

Leave it to Samuel Goldwyn! Mr. Goldwyn has discovered that the multitude of secretaries, congesting the Capital in ever increasing hordes, are famous not only for their exorbitant number, but also for their extravagant beauty—something a certain Mr. Winchell found out even before the unprecedented influx set in. So now Mr. Goldwyn is going to make a picture about them. He will select six of the loveliest and most talented and put them in something called "Washington Story," which will occupy the camera attention of Bob Hope and Dorothy Lamour when they have dispatched their current bond-selling tours. Scouts for the Goldwyn organization are said already to have begun a survey of certain governmental departments here, where they are soliciting recommendations. The girls when finally chosen, will be known as "The Most Glamorous Secretaries in Washington" and will appear at the New York premiere of Goldwyn's "Pride of the Yankees," starring Gary Cooper in the Lou Gehrig role, in July. That is, of course, if the Man with the Whiskers agrees that what he is running here is a local branch of Hollywood's Central Casting Office!

Tryouts for solo and chorus parts in "Battle Hymn," by Earl Robinson and John LaTouche, will be held Tuesday, May 26, at 7:30 p. m., at the Jewish Community Center. Originally known as "Roosevelt" Cantata," the piece is based on the stirring speech delivered by the President on January 6. It has been produced several times for the airwaves on the Treasury Hour and was last heard on Fred Allen's Sunday evening radio program. The local performance of "Battle Hymn" is scheduled to be given at the Jewish Community Center on June 14, which is by way of being Flag Day.

"Monsieur Beaucaire," the film version of Booth Tarkington's novel that served as one of Rudolph Valentino's most popular starring vehicles, will be shown at Catholic University tonight and tomorrow night at 8:30 o'clock, as the final program in this year's Museum of Modern Art film series. In addition to the star, the cast includes such erstwhile favorites as Bebe Daniels, Lois Wilson and Lowell Sherman. Since the University's hit musical, "Count Me In," also will be playing this weekend, the Valentino picture will be shown in McMahon Hall, instead of the Music Building.

Washington Boy Makes Good

The Warner studios and the Hollywood columnists have been making quite a to-do lately over the "sudden" rise of a young fellow called "Gig Young," from a minor role of that name in "The Gay Sisters" to overnight stardom. It hasn't been such a meteoric rise as they may think. This Gig Young was born Byron Barr, in St. Cloud, Minn., on November 4, 1917. Byron had got as far as high school there, when his family moved to Washington, D. C., and he came with them. He graduated from Tech High School and immediately gravitated in the general direction of the theater. Phil Hayden, I believe, was instrumental in giving his career its initial impetus. "Gig" finally wandered West and into the Pasadena Community Playhouse, where he was "discovered" by a talent scout. He has been doing "bit" parts in pictures ever since—when not clerking in gas stations for eating money. And now stardom. But it didn't come overnight.

Isn't today the day the Misses Parker and Schoemer, those Treasury Department "Ship Ahoy Minute Girls" are to be in town selling War Bonds and Savings Stamps? I thought so.

For-Small-Favors-Etc. Note

Anyhow, it didn't turn to snow!

Earle

That his 30 years' experience as one of the foremost of the motion picture producers have pretty thoroughly apprised Cecil B. De Mille of what it is the public wants in its film fare, is eloquently attested by the continuance of "Reap the Wild Wind" for a second week at the Earle Theater.

"Reap the Wild Wind," adapted from Thelma Strabel's serial story, is De Mille's thirtieth anniversary production. Into it he has welded every element of popular screen entertainment and set it all off with the finest example of Technicolor photography yet to reach the public view. Here are richly emblazoned romance, combat, spectacle, thrills, love interest and whatnot. The action takes place on land, on the ocean and deep beneath the surface of the sea, having its successive locales in Key West, Charleston, S. C., Havana and the lanes of ocean travel between. The story centers in the adventures of a precious band of illicit salvagers who wreck the ships upon which they later hope to make a profit.

The cast is one for the book—Ray Milland, Paulette Goddard, John Wayne, Lynne Overman, Susan Hayward, Robert Preston, Raymond Massey, Hedda Hopper, Victor Killian, Louise Beavers and hosts of others. Shipwrecks and a fight with a giant squid on the floor of the ocean mark the picture's sensational climaxes. Made to order for the thrill-seeker.

The brief stage bill—short, but snappily entertaining—also is being continued with the screen attraction.

Skilled in Dance

MIRIAM LA VELLE

Broadway dancing star, featured with Artie Shaw and His Orchestra, in the new stage revue which opened Thursday at Loew's Capitol.

Opportunity Must Have Knocked!

ANNE GWYNNE AND JANET BLAIR

deemed by executives the most promising candidates for stardom on the Universal lot. Miss Gwynne is a titian from Texas; Miss Blair, soon to be seen with George Raft in "Broadway," a blonde from Pennsylvania. If vivacious smiles have anything to do with it, they're practically "in"

HEDDA HOPPER

Susan Reaps 'Harvest!'

Hollywood, Calif., May 22. Remember the saying, "One man's meat is another man's poison"? Well, this is vice versa. Little Susan Peters, who's been under contract to Warners for two years without getting much but tests, was dropped because the last one wasn't good. It was spotted by Director Mervyn LeRoy and she was given a good part in "Random Harvest."

RONALD COLMAN

Wait until you get a load of Greer Garson in kilts, in "Harvest." After looking at her gams, Marlene Dietrich's going to take to cover. I say kilts—or would it have been kilts if they'd let it grow up (I mean down!)."

Five minutes after Herbert Marshall's baby girl was born, he called up Ronnie Colman and said, "Congratulate me! Most beautiful baby, and the tallest, I've ever seen!" Said Ronnie, "What'd you do—make her stand up for you?"

Max Lief says the new American slogan is, "We believe in life, liberty, and the pursuit of Jappiness."

Metro has a new "Handsome Harry." His name's Dick Simmons—blue eyes, gray hair. They found him on a dude ranch at Palm Springs—he'll make you palpitate, girls . . . Another newcomer is Jim Davis, discovered in a Y. M. C. A. boxing contest. He gets his first chance opposite Pat Dane.

After watching Mickey Rooney, Freddie Bartholomew and Juanita Quigley in their Eton jackets, in "A Yank at Eton," I thought what a smart idea that would be for us. Skirts made of pin-striped material, Eton jackets, and big hats. You'd save material, and get something new.

That cute Dorothy Dinwiddie, besides playing on the screen, has been doing canteen work, and collecting buttons, as college girls do fraternity pins. She's got an aviator's, soldier's and marine's sewed onto a bright red leather bag. It's going to be hard on our soldiers if this fad catches on.

Nice to run into Nat Wolff, who was not in uniform. He's the Government's coordinator for radio here, and reckons he can do the job just as well in civies. And I reckon that's smart of him.

It's going to be funny when Jack Warner meets Darryl Zanuck, both in uniform, because Jack will have to salute.

Girls around town are in a quandary. They don't know whether to give the boys their full title, salute, or just rush up and kiss them and get it over with. What will you have, men?

Edith Barrett's on her way to New York for a month's visit with her husband, Vincent Price, who's in "Angel Street." Edith was slated for the lead, but fell ill. Judith Evelyn did it, and was awarded the Drama Club medal for the most distinguished performance of the year. It was, too.

Sidney Blackmer and Pianist Barbara Smitten looking lovey-dovey at Bill Jordan's Bar of music.

Johnny Hill, pilot who came out to serve as technical adviser on "Eagle Squadron," spent his last three nights here, squiring Jennifer Holt about the town.

Andy Devine's kids are down with the measles. Andy expects them any minute.

Funny, after all these years, to see "Tish" in work. So many have been lined up for it—from Marie Dressler, up and down. But they couldn't have a better threesome than Marjorie Main, ZaSu Pitts and Aline MacMahon. Their antics will have you screaming. ZaSu's so happy she's purring. Metro's so happy they've taken an option on her.

Aline tells me her husband, a widely known architect, is in Washington, helping with the housing situation.

Marjorie's been drinking lots of this stuff called Kevo, which is vegetable juices mixed with chocolate. Other night she had a wonderful dream about Clark Gable, woke up and said, "Keen stuff! When I drank coffee, I only dreamt about Wally Berry."

LEONARD LYONS

Broadway Potpourri

New York, May 22.

August 18 will be officially designated as "Atlantic Charter—4 Freedoms Day" in celebration of the anniversary of the Roosevelt-Churchill meeting . . . Ira Skutch, who is one of the backers of the hit play, "Angel Street," now is a page boy at Radio City Music Hall . . . Burnett Hershey, the radio commentator, describes the bombing of Tokyo as "Doolittle, but not too late" . . . Donald Oenslager, the scenic designer, now is a captain in the Air Corps' Camouflage Division . . . Walter O'Keefe, who's been away from the Broadway scene too long, signed two contracts last night—to appear in "Keep 'Em Laughing," and also at La Martinique.

GROUCHO MARX

Last week the troupe of entertainers at Leon & Eddie's agreed to do a show for the United States Navy. At the appointed hour, they met with Chic Farmer, the publicist, who led them to a number of automobiles. They entered the cars and were whisked across town to the West Side, through darkened streets, until they came to a mysterious building on West Twenty-sixth Street . . . "I thought you said we were to do a show for the United States Navy?" asked Eddie Davis . . . "That's right, but shshshshsh!" Farmer whispered, leading them into the building. "It's for Naval Intelligence."

For the first time in Manhattan's history, there'll be a Children's Night in a New York night club. Next Tuesday, 60 youngsters—of all creeds and colors—will be the guests at Cafe Society Uptown. They're members of Youthbuilders, Inc. . . . The Treasury Star Parade will feature "Rhapsody in Red, White and Blue," a new song by Vernon Duke and Peter Barry.

Chico Marx, who now is touring with his orchestra, and who hasn't seen any of his brothers in seven months, invited any member of the audience in Akron, Ohio, to step up and lead his band for one number—and up stepped Groucho . . . Capt. Robert Kintner, the former Washington columnist who was assigned to the Office of Facts and Figures, has requested and will receive a transfer to more active duty . . . The amazing success of the current revival of Shaw's "Candida" reminded some veterans of the meeting between Shaw and Jed Harris. Shaw expressed his dislike of American stage directors. "Here, in England, we authors direct our own plays," said the playwright. Harris reminded him: "Your plays run three weeks in London, four in Berlin and one year in America."

Gene Tunney's attack upon cigarette smoking will be answered by Dr. Louis E. Bisch, in Click. He'll remind Gene that the President, Churchill, Cripps, MacArthur, Stalin and Chiang-Kai-shek all smoke . . . Jackie Cooper is so mature now, that for the first time he'll play the role of a villain—in "Deep in the Heart of Texas" . . . Barnet Nover, The Washington Post columnist, who is president of the Overseas Writers, was discussing the parties being given in Washington. "The late Justice Holmes once referred to these parties," Nover related, "as 'Gibble, gabble, gobble—git!' "

These are two stories from Amsterdam. The first is of a railroad car into which a stranger entered and shouted "'Heil, Hitler." The passengers remained silent. "Heil, Hitler," he shouted again, and again was met with silence. "Good," said the stranger, relieved. "Now we can all talk" . . . The second story is of the British spy, who managed to enter Holland, wearing the uniform of a Nazi officer. Although his borrowed Nazi uniform was of the regulation issue, and although he spoke German fluently, the British spy nevertheless was quickly discovered—because when he walked down the street his arms weren't bulging with foodstuff.

Abbott & Costello, who were doing a guest-appearance in a Hollywood night club, noticed four soldiers at the bar. There were no drinks in front of them . . . "Give 'em a couple of drinks," Abbott told the waiter, "and put it all on my check" . . . The waiter returned later, with champagne drinks for both Abbott and Costello, who protested: "But we didn't order these" . . . "One of those soldiers did," said the waiter. "His name is T. Suffern Tailer."

Metropolitan

Those who may have repented of their reticence in approaching the morbid disclosures of "King's Row," still have time to view the Warner Brothers' picturization of the Henry Bellaman best-seller. It is being held a second week at the Metropolitan Theater, making four in all that it will have been shown in the midcity area.

Concerning itself primarily with the distasteful effects of insanity, suicide, murder and sadism on the lives of young people in a small Midwestern city, "Kings Row" still is not without its inspirational aspects. They are few and far to seek, but they are there—manifested mainly in the characters portrayed by Robert Cummings, Ann Sheridan and Ronald Reagan. On the gloomier side are Betty Field, Nancy Coleman, Judith Anderson, Claude Rains, Kaaren Verne, Charles Coburn and Mme. Maria Ouspenskaya, with Ernest Cossart and others of note comprising an admirable supporting cast.

The production is an impressive one.

Boyer Brushes Off Benny's Wooing

Charles Boyer, heavy-lidded lover who has a way with women, received the greatest shock of his career when he saw Jack Benny make love.

Boyer, who took a breather from his set at Warner Brothers, dropped in on Stage seven for a look-see. There, in all his glory, was Jack Benny, cooing sweet nothings into the ear of Ann Sheridan for an intimate scene in "George Washington Slept Here."

Answered Boyer:

"When I learned to act in France they told me 10 things never to do. There they are."

This Morning

—With Shirley Povich

Here's an Event You Can't Miss

Please go to today's ball game between Washington and the Yankees at Griffith Stadium. It will be a blessing to folks who have already gotten a rotten break in the war. Their daddies and their husbands are the Americans who have been listed as "killed, wounded in action, or missing." This is their ball game.

POVICH

The Army-Navy relief fund is helping widows and orphans to pay the rent since daddy went away to the war, and the Washington and New York clubs are playing this one for the fund. To the last penny, every dollar that goes to buy a ticket is turned over to the fund. The pass list has been suspended, nobody gets in free, not even the players or the umpires, and not a dime will be deducted for expenses. The relief fund is taking it all.

It ought to be a swell show. That's guaranteed, in fact. For the first time in history, the Army, Navy and Marine Bands will be holding forth in the same ball park. They didn't have to be asked twice to participate in this show. They've got a stake in this ball game, even as you and I. They have or know folks who will get by only because of Army-Navy relief.

Baseball is choosing Army-Navy relief as the best way to express its own gratitude to the armed forces in war time. Organized baseball got a break when President Roosevelt gave it the green light as a war time essential to civilian morale, but the big league clubs have not been content to accept that favor and hold forth with baseball-as-usual. Every big league town is staging its relief fund game, and today's is only a part of the whole big show.

'Nough Said—Buck Will Pitch

Anyway, today's ball game ought to be a beaut. Buck Newsom will pitch for the Nats, and even the customers who may be insisting on full value for their buck-ten always get it when Newsom pitches. Whether he wins or loses, Newsom stages a show, and in the setting of a big crowd, parades and notables, Buck has always been at his best.

This ball game ought to have a special sort of an appeal beyond its charity aspect. It will be Newsom vs. Lefty Gomez, and do you remember that ball game in Griffith Stadium in 1936 when they also were the opposing pitchers? The 32,000 fans who were at that ball game saw a battle to tell their grandchildren about.

That was the day when Newsom was pitching against the Yankees in the season's opener, and neither team had a run going into the fifth inning. Big Buck was revelling in the plaudits of the crowd and tipped his hat to President Roosevelt when the President applauded his strike out of Lou Gehrig at the end of the third inning.

But came the fifth inning, and Ben Chapman laid down a bunt. Newsom scrambled after the ball but permitted Third Baseman Ossie Bluege to make the play. With a one-hand pick-up, Bluege got the ball, cut it loose toward first base when—horrors! Newsom standing in the line of the throw, was hit full in the head by the ball before it traveled ten feet.

Big Buck didn't go down despite the awful impact. He reeled, first toward the plate, then on his heels he circled back to the mound. What was keeping him up was a mystery, but he stayed on his feet. Manager Bucky Harris asked for time out, and Newsom was taken to the bench.

His Feelings Hurt Worse Than His Head

"The doctor told Buck he was through for the day," Harris later revealed, "but Newsom wouldn't listen. 'My haid ain't hurt, only my feelings, doc,' said Buck, and he went back to the mound."

Well, Newsom pitched the full nine innings. One of the hits the Yankees made off him was that bunt by Chapman. There was only one other Yankee hit. It was a two-hitter Newsom pitched with his head aching all the while. He beat the Yankees that day, 1 to 0, when Carl Reynolds hit a two-bagger for the winning run in the ninth.

So it will be Newsom out there against Gomez and the Yankees today, and the circumstances that bring it about were themselves shaped by Newsom. Big Buck wasn't scheduled to pitch this one. He was due to work against the Browns last Thursday. Early that afternoon begged off, pleading a lame ankle.

Newsom's ankle wasn't any more lame than yours is, but Buck was maneuvering himself into today's pitching assignment, even if it took an unabashed bit of skullduggery. He wasn't ducking a tough job against the Browns; in contrast, he'll be strictly on the spot against the Yankees today, but as long as it is being accompanied by a parade, Buck loves it.

For a lot of reasons, some of them sad ones, you really ought to go to today's ball game or, if you can't make it, at least buy a ticket.

Giants Shell Head And Beat Dodgers, 5-1

By the Associated Press

New York, May 22.—The New York Giants throttled the Brooklyn Dodgers, 5 to 1, today with an early scoring rush that routed the previously unbeaten Ed Head after four innings.

The rookie right-hander who had won five straight games to lead all National League pitchers was shelled with a two-run homer by Manager Mel Ott in the first frame and another circuit clout by Hank Leiber in the fourth as well as being tapped for two unearned runs in the third.

The fast getaway enabled Lefty Cliff Melton to triumpn easily even though a succssion of three Brooklyn relief pitchers held the Giants to one hit and no runs in the last four innings and altogether the Dodgers outhit New York 10 to 6.

Dick Bartell led off with a single for the Giants in the opening chapter and Master Melvin brought him around with a tremendous drive into the upper rightfield deck of the Polo Grounds for his seventh homer of the season.

In the third, Arky Vaughan fumbled a difficult roller back of the pitcher's mound to let Melton reach first. Bartell singled and after Mickey Witek sacrificed, Ott was intentionally walked to load the bases.

Mize rapped a perfect double play ball at Bill Herman, who tossed to Pee-Wee Reese. Ott came roaring into second and bumped so hard the little shortstop was knocked unconscious. Ott was out, but he caused Reese to make a bad throw to first and two runs scored.

Melton Flirts With Defeat

This incident turned the base running into a rough-and-tumble affair for a few innings and had much to do with clinching the game, although Leiber led off the fourth with his homer for the Giants' final run.

The Dodgers got to Melton for hits in every inning after the first, but the lean southpaw, who had won four and lost two prior to today, worked his way out of trouble time after time. The only run against him was scored in the fourth when Vaughan doubled, Joe Medwick walked, Johnny Rizzo forced Vaughan, and Dolph Camilli singled Medwick home.

Vaughan, a left-handed batter, made a double and three singles in five times at bat.

3 Navy Teams Host Today To Georgetown

By the Associated Press

Annapolis, Md., May 22.—With one eye cocked on next week's Army-Navy clashes, three Middie spring sports squads face Georgetown University aggregations tomorrow at the Naval Academy.

Topping the academy's last big Saturday athletic outing, Navy's rampaging baseball team, boasting a 10-game winning streak, encounters the Hoya nine while the Middies' undefeated tennis squad seeks its eleventh triumph of the season. A golf match between Georgetown and Navy linksmen rounds out the varsity program.

Three plebe contests and one jayvee melee also are scheduled. The plebe baseballers oppose Baltimore Poly while the yearling golf and tennis squads meet teams from Baltimore City College. The junior varsity nine opposes the Bethlehem Accounting Athletic Club of Sparrow's Point.

The Army-Navy games, scheduled Wednesday, bring the Cadets' baseball and track teams to Annapolis while Navy's lacrosse, golf and tennis squads travel to West Point, N. Y.

Sharkey in Last Match for Hoyas

Capt. Buddy Sharkey, winner of 34 out of 38 matches in his collegiate golf career, will play his last match for Georgetown University this afternoon when the Hoya golfers close their season against Navy at Annapolis.

The Hoyas have won eight and lost four, including a second place finish in the Eastern Intercollegiate golf league southern sector. Coach Tony Sylvester will accompany the team.

Junior High Track Meet Postponed

For the second time the junior high school track meet, listed for today at Central Stadium, has been postponed because of the weather. The event will be rescheduled within the next two weeks, it was announced.

Williams Enlists in Navy; Wants to Fly

Bosox Hero, Silencing Critics, Asks for No Favors

Associated Press WIREPHOTO

Ted Williams, outfielder with the Boston Red Sox, who has been the principal of several stormy sessions in connection with his draft status, ended all arguments yesterday by enlisting in the Navy at Boston. No easy job does Williams seek, either, for he wants to fly. Here with Lieut. Frank S. Donahue he reenacts the oath-taking ceremony

Sox Slugger May Finish '42 Season

Induction to Come Normally in About 2 Months; Service Proud of His Choice

By the Associated Press

Boston, May 22.—Ted Williams, slugging outfielder with the Boston Red Sox, enlisted in the Navy today in the hope of becoming a flyer, but there appeared some chance that he would not be called before the end of the baseball season.

Williams, whose deferment in the draft caused a Nation-wide controversy, was sworn in as a seaman second class, and passed mental and physical examinations of the Naval Aviation Cadet Selection Board for training as a pilot.

Lieut. Robert P. Fuller, member of the board, said Williams asked no postponement of his induction nor would he be granted any, but would be called up in the normal course of procedure.

Fuller explained that the two months or more normally elapsing between the swearing of candidates and their summons for flight training would give the stringbean slugger a good chance to get through the present American League season.

"It's okay with me however it works out," Ted added. "I'm ready to go whenever they call me. I know now that I've done the right thing all the way through and I'm sure tickled to death to get into this branch of the service. I'm not looking for any favors and I know I'll have to start from scratch."

Mind Relieved

Ted said his financial problems were pretty well straightened out. Those problems caused a presidential appeal board to shift his draft classification from 1-A back to 3-A because of the dependency of his mother as he was about to be inducted into the Army.

He said his mother, to whom he wrote the night before last to tell her of his decision, was getting along well although under a doctor's care. At the time of his reclassification, Ted said that he wanted to play one more year to end his mother's financial problems and that he was ready to go into service as soon as the Nation wanted him.

I'm glad it's all straightened out now," he said. It's a load off my mind even though I felt I was doing the right thing all the time. People on the whole have been pretty swell to me and I hope this will show that I appreciated their feeling toward me. I'm tickled to death and I'm hoping I'll get into the air quick to start some slugging against the Axis."

Williams, who is batting .319 at the moment, has been hitting well all season but hasn't had the best of luck. To date he has belted out nine home runs and driven 37 runs across the plate in little more than a month of play. He has been well received in the various parks of the circuit although some have boohed when he failed to hit.

Eyesight Excellent

Lieut. Frank Raldolph Philbrook, the Navy doctor who examined Williams, said the ball player was "in the pink and very steady," indicating he was good for almost any type of flying.

"He has excellent eyesight," the doctor said, "and an unusually high degree of depth perception which accounts for his amazing ability to judge the whereabouts of a ball in a split second. That quality will be equally valuable to him in flying.

"His eyesight is 20/15, which is better than it needs to be since we require a normal of 20/20. You find

At Full Strength At Last, White Sox Open Lengthy Trip

By the Associated Press

Chicago, May 22.—The Chicago White Sox will be intact for the first time this year when they start their three-week road trip Sunday night, Manager Jimmy Dykes said today.

"We'll take along our casualty squad of Outfielders Taft Wright and Sam West and Pitchers Thornton Lee and Ted Lyons," Dykes reported.

Lyons is recovering from a bad cold; Wright still is having a little trouble with an injured abdominal muscle; West's sprained ankle is responding to heat treatments, and Lee is showing signs of licking an arm ailment that has prevented him from pitching since March 16.

The Sox open a three-game series at Cleveland Monday.

Pastor Upset, Held to Draw By Mauriello

By the Associated Press

New York, May 22.—The fistic upset of the year was chalked up in Madison Square Garden tonight when young Tami Mauriello was given a draw with Bob Pastor in a 10-round thriller, and the verdict put a decided crimp in the carefully laid plans for an early summer heavyweight title bout between Pastor and Joe Louis. Pastor scaled 183¾ and Mauriello 177¾.

After taking the best of Mauriello's Sunday shots through the first three rounds, in one of which he was staggered by a shot on the jaw, Pastor turned on the gas and gave Tami quite a boxing lesson most of the way home, until the ninth and tenth rounds. Then the two stood toe to toe and slugged it out to the final bell as a noisy, good-sized crowd stood and roared.

The Associated Press score card had Pastor well out in front at the finish, giving him every round from the third through the eighth and voting it six heats for Pastor, two for the young Fordham flailer and two even.

Each of the three officials came up with a different verdict. Referee George Walsh scored it five heats for each and called it even. Judge Marty Monroe had five rounds for Pastor, four for the uptown belter and one even. The third judge, Charley Draycott, turned in a surprising card of seven rounds for Mauriello and three even.

A highly-partisan Mauriello crowd of 11,327 was on hand and contributed to a gross gate of $22,972.

A Grand Finale

The boxing writers at ringside were almost unanimous in their opinions that Pastor had finished on top after getting off to his usual bad start, taking a right to the chin that made his knees buckle before going to work.

He had slowed Mauriello down by the fourth round, gashed the square-jawed youngster's right eye in the fourth, made it bleed again in the fifth and generally gave him quite a boxing lesson all the way up to the ninth.

Then Mauriello came to life again, and for a full minute in that heat, and throughout the tenth, the two stood there and banged away, toe to toe and head to head. Bob's right eye suffered a slight cut in the ninth and Tami's injured optic dripped crimson again in the final chapter.

The finish was probably the most thrilling put on in this big sports arena in years, especially coming after the seventh and eighth rounds, in which Pastor appeared to be go-

Navy Relief Fights Off Until Monday

Second Delay of Nova-Savold Bout Seen As Break for 'Gate;' Entire Card Held

With Griffith Stadium fetlock deep in mud, promoters of the Navy Relief boxing carnival decided to postpone the show until Monday night. This marked the second setback for the venture, it having been originally scheduled for last Thursday.

Although the delay has proved an inconvenience for all concerned, it will allow a few more tickets to be sold. Yesterday's sale boosted the "gate" above $15,000. With three more days left to sell the pasteboards, indications are the show will gross over $40,000.

Matchmaker Nat Rogers waited until the latest possible time yesterday before calling off the show. With this "California" weather playing "It's on, it's off," Rogers was in a quandary. Finally, a phone call from Mike Jacobs in New York settled matters, and it was called off.

Ray Carlen, manager of Lou Nova, one of the main event principals, was quite peeved about the whole thing and he was for postponing the show earlier in the day. But Rogers and his coworkers would not yield until late.

Card Held Intact

The entire card will be carried over. Nova and Lee Savold will meet in the 10-round main event. George Abrams and Steve Mamakos, a pair of local middleweights, fight in the 10-round semiwindup.

The rest of the card lines up as follows:

Chisox Whip Tigers, 7 to 4, In Night Game

By the Associated Press

Chicago, May 22.—The Chicago White Sox opened their night season by pounding out 15 hits to defeat the Detroit Tigers, 7 to 4, tonight. Manager Jimmy Dykes was bnaished from the field in the ninth inning for protesting too furiously a base-line decision by Umpire Bill Grieve.

The victory was the eighth in 10 games for the cellar Chicagoans, whose hit total, their largest of the year, included a pair of doubles by Wally Moses and three singles by Bob Kennedy. They kayoed Rookie Virgil Trucks to take a 4-3 lead in the sixth and then sewed up the game against Johnny Gorsica.

Taft Wright, injured outfielder, making his second pinch-hitting appearance of the year, singled in the tying run in the sixth and Moses doubled to drive across the next tally and erase Trucks.

Trucks fanned seven in his five and one-third innings, but allowed nine hits, walked three, and hit a batter.

Johnny Humphries, for whom Wright batted in the sixth, was credited with the victory. He gave up nine hits, including a homer by Catcher Ed Parsons, in six innings. Joe Haynes allowed the Tigers two more hits in finishing.

Dykes was chased—his second enforced exit of the season—when Joe Kuhel took Don Kolloway's throw inside first base and swiveled in an attempt to put the ball on the batter. Jimmy Bloodworth. Kuhel, Dykes and other Chicago players insisted the runner had been tagged, contrary to Grieve's decision. Some 15,040 fans attended.

Jones Avenges Loss to Ellis

Yale, Harvard Crews Renew Rivalry Today

Derby, Conn., May 22—Yale and Harvard renew their 90-year-old rivalry tomorrow with the Crimson highly favored to win the war-skimped version of America's oldest intercollegiate sports' competition.

The Poughkeepsie Regatta, which heretofore has shared the sectional crew spotlight has been called off, leaving this as the East's only big time regatta for the first time in years.

The general impression here, too, was that the Blue and Crimson eights would quit after tomorrow for the duration.

Once before, in 1918, war forced these ancient rivals to abandon the bustling valley of the Thames, then, as today, the focus of spirited Naval activities, for the placid Housatonic and to reduce their race course from the traditional four miles to two.

Welch Earns Draw With Tony Martin

Boston, May 22 (AP).—Twice beaten in previous duels, Coley Welch, 161, of Portland, Me., battled his way to a surprising draw with middleweight contender Tony Martin, 159½, of Milwaukee, tonight in a 10-round boxing bout before 3512 persons at Boston Garden.

The awkward-appearing Welch gave the sharp punching Martin plenty of trouble over the entire distance.

Pregame Ceremonies Scheduled

Play Starts at 4:45 P. M.; Even Players To Pay Way In; 3 Bands to Assist

By Shirley Povich
Post Staff Writer

Griffith Stadium, famed for ceremonial baseball, today will stage its proudest production—the Army-Navy Relief Fund game between the Nats and the Yankees.

The dollar sign is out, as far as the two teams are concerned. This is the day when the players will pay to get into the park. Sweet charity will take it all. To the last nickel, the money paid in at the gate will go to relief of families whose men are in the armed services.

For the convenience of workaday Washington, the ball game won't start until 4:45 p.m., thus assuring a larger crowd. And there will be a pregame show surpassing even the gaudy opening game ceremonies for which the stadium is noted.

For the first time in any ball park, the Army, Navy and Marine Bands will provide a pregame concert, starting an hour and 15 minutes before game time. The American Legion, in massed colors and with fife and drum corps, will participate in the march to the flagpole. The smart Western High School cadets, winners of a city-wide competition, will swing around the field in maneuvers.

High Officials To Attend

Dignitaries will be a dime a dozen in the flag-bedecked boxes. Paul V. McNutt, high boss of United States Wartime Man Power; Selective Service Chief Gen. Lewis B. Hershey and Undersecretary of War Robert H. Patterson will be among the honor guests to participate with Clark Griffith in the flag-raising ceremonies.

Before the ball game, Maj. Gen. Irving J. Philippson of the Army Emergency Relief will lead the crowd in a mass pledge of allegiance and "The Star Spangled Banner."

And then, Buck Newsom will take the mound against the Yankees, who are leading the league. Newsom, perennial gala-day pitcher, will be attempting to bring to a halt a string of five straight victories scored by the Yankees over the Nats this season.

Opposing Newsom will be Lefty Gomez, veteran Yankee southpaw, who is Manager Joe McCarthy's pitching choice.

Stadium officials are predicting a gate of $30,000 for the Relief Fund, with hope that the figure may be higher.

The game, too, may be a test of Washington's preference for twilight baseball. Clark Griffith indicates that if the fans show a liking for the 4:45 p. m. starting time, future games may be staged at that hour.

Unhappy Road Trip

The Nats will be making their first appearance in Washington since May 7, when they departed on what has been an unhappy road trip. Eight of their ten starts saw the Nats beaten, with Sid Hudson the only winning pitcher on the trip.

Manager Bucky Harris brings back to Washington an injury-ridden ball club whose line-up he has been forced to juggle daily. Stan Spence has been playing centerfield despite an injured back and a painful muscle hurt in his leg. Spence and Bobby Estalella are the only Nats who have not been in a protracted hitting slump.

Estalella's hitting was one of the bright features of the trip. The little Cuban third baseman has been a liability on defense, but his extra base hitting has offset that deficiency. He boosted to six his total of homers for the year by banging for the circuit in Chicago and St. Louis, and at his current rate will surpass the 21 homers hit by Al Simmons and Zeke Bonura in 1937, which stands as a home run record for a Washington player.

Washington fans will be getting their first glimpse of Mike Chartak in a Nats' uniform. The outfielder purchased from the Yankees 10 days ago is now a fixture on the Washington club.

Great Lakes Sport Trophies Scrapped For Armaments

Rolls Rough Captures Feature Sixth Race at Charles Town

Waple Horse Scores Easily By 5 Lengths

Jockey Miller Rides Winner; Second Won By Darting Star; Iva Mae Is Third

By Walter Haight

A Staff Correspondent

Charles Town, W. Va., May 22.—Rolls Rough, owned by W. C. Waple of Fairfax, Va., made every post a winning one and jogged home five lengths ahead of the closest opposition in the feature sixth race today. With George Miller, who recently signed with the Waple stable, in the saddle, Rolls Rough threw mud in the faces of his rivals around the seven-furlong course.

Mrs. E. Johnston's Darting Star was second and a length in advance of J. L. Friedman's well-backed Iva Mae. Rolls Rough was a $5.20 favorite and won his second purse of the meeting. He was clocked in 1.32-3-5 over the deep track.

Miller, riding his first race for Trainer M. H. Everhart, sent Rolls Rough away on top. The 3-year-old son of Rolls Royce and Play Laura opened a gap of five lengths on the backstretch. Darting Star was pushed along by Apprentice Al Bocson but was not good enough to menace the leader. Ive Mae lacked early speed and closed some ground.

Bocson Scores

Although second in the feature, Bocson made good with a long shot in the fourth race. He brought Mrs. U. Webb's Minstrel Wit to the wire a length and a half in front of W. D. Blick's Manny B. Third money in this field of eight went to Mrs. L. E. Crowell's Randle's Queen. Manny B set all the pace but Bocson urged Minstrel Wit in the final stages and the 6-year-old son of Royal Minstrel won going away. They hung up a $46.80 mutuel on the winner.

The daily double paid $23.40. Jockey Sammy Palumbo piloted Edward Brining's Marandan, an even-money favorite, to an easy victory in the second race while Jockey Joe Cowley brought Mrs. L. E. Crowell's Smart Lad from far back to win the third.

Jockey Patsy Grant rode his first winner of the meeting in the opening event. Big Sneeze, owned by Mrs. Esther Warren, had too many speed guns for a field of eight 2-year-olds. Bear Cat was second and Sug was third in the test of four and a half furlongs.

Track Stars Shoot for Records in Georgetown Meet Today

MacMitchell, Blozis, Hulse Seek Marks

Meet Will Dedicate New Athletic Field At G. U. First Event Listed for 3:30 P. M.

By Jack Munhall

Rain yesterday came to the aid of all special events records that Georgetown, Fordham and crack individual performers were expected to set today when the Hoyas dedicate their new athletic field with a big track carnival for the benefit of Army Relief.

The ingredients for plenty of hot and close competition still remain, however, and for their $1.00 admission the fans should get a 100 cents worth—at least. Then, too, Army Relief is getting every nickel of the gross proceeds. Field events will launch the oval meet at 3:30.

Georgetown officials worked constantly yesterday to offset, as much as was posible, the effect of intermittent showers and prepare the track and field for the record-seeking onslaughts of Al Blozis and Les MacMitchell, Bill Hulse, et al.

Blozis' Chances Still Good

Blozis should not be affected much by the wetness as he tries to lower world's records for the 8, 12 and 16-pound shot, and regardless of his success he should at the minimum better the Georgetown field record of 53 feet 6½ inches in his farewell local appearance.

How much MacMitchell and Hulse will be handicapped in their special events remains to be seen. Conditions were far from the best in the Metropolitan New York track championships when Hulse shattered MacMitchell's 25-race winning streak by winning the half mile, but his time was a good 1:56. The American records for the two-thirds and three-quarters mile, respectively, are 2:45.4 by Mel Sheppard in 1910, and 2:58.7 by Paul Moore of Stanford in 1940.

Competing against the star New York University runners over the shorter distance will be Bob Condon, Maryland's Southern Conference indoor half-mile champion, and Midshipman Charley Hayen of the Naval Academy. Setting the pace at 1320 yards will be Midshipman John Creamer, also of Annapolis.

The fourth and last special event will trot out Bishop Loughlin High of Brooklyn's classy relay team against an all-star Virginia quartet, two from Washington-Lee and two from George Washington. The schoolboys will be out to smash the American interscholastic record for the medley relay, 1⅞ miles, divided into legs of 880, 440, 220 and mile.

Bishop Loughlin was a double winner at the 1942 Penn Carnival, taking the mile relay in the new American record time of 3:22.6 and the medley in 7:47, just 6 seconds off the mark held by Overbrook High of Philadelphia, which is the one they are bent on today.

Running for Bishop Loughlin will be Robert Quinlan, Francis Fuerst, Vincent Mannix and Lawrence Schmidt.

All Are Champions

All are titleholders around the New York area, while Schmidt is the national interscholastic 1-mile champion, capable of turning the distance in under 4:30. John Rucker and James Rucker of Washington-Lee and Charley Crenshaw and Art Glass of G. W. High will run for the all-stars in that order.

Though conditions may preclude record breaking in the special events where the boys will be shooting for the top, they probably will not save a wholesale erasure of Georgetown field records. Threatened seriously are the discus, 166 feet 10¾ inches; the pole vault of 10 feet; the broad jump of 21 feet 6½ inches; the javelin, 171 feet 8¼ inches; mile run, 4:27; two mile, 10:22.5 and the 880, 1:59.8. The above records are almost certain to go, and it would be no surprise if all others are smashed, too. Fordham, perennially strong on the track and runnerup in the recent New York championships, will be a heavy favorite in the dual meet. The Rams will start out with nine points since Georgetown was forced to forfeit in the low hurdles.

Bob Pastor Hits Deck in Start of Fistic Upset

Col. J. R. Hall Takes D.C. Title In Trap Meet

A member of the armed forces, Col. J. R. Hall, appropriately enough earned the right to represent the Washington area in the champion of champions trapshooting matches in Vandalia, Ohio, yesterday when he turned in a 193x200 score in the 16-yard event of the metropolitan championships at the Washington Gun Club.

Col. Hall, an Alexandrian, beat out all but one of a field of 23 competing in the two-day meet. The only better score went to E. H. McDonald, a member of the Kyger (W. Va.) Trap Club, who finished with 197x200.

Close seconds to Hall were Julius Marcey and J. R. Groves, jr., both of whom broke 192 targets.

In the international 50, an event over various distances, the Washington Gun Club's secretary, R. D. Morgan, took down top honors with 48x50. One point behind was E. H. McDonald.

The annual matches at Thirty-fourth Street and Benning Road Northeast, will be concluded today with two events starting at 10 a. m. A doubles shoot will start proceedings, after which handicap firing is on the schedule.

Good Portion of Minor League Clubs Have Own Buses, Cars

Transportation Problem May Not Hurt All Leagues; Gas Is Big "If"

By the Associated Press

New York, May 22.—Baseball had its crystal ball working in the matter of transportation the last few months, so the minor leagues were ready for the latest ban on chartered bus travel for the most part.

An Associated Press survey came up with that general feeling today, in spite of pessimism in some quarters, the darkest of which was the statement by Business Manager Crowther Boyd of Jacksonville's Sally League club that the ban "would wreck minor leagues" as "90 per cent of them use buses and would be unable to meet schedules by train."

The new order was announced by the Office of Defense Transportation last night. It was that after June 1, minor league teams accustomed to traveling in chartered buses will be denied such transportation.

It seems, however, that a good portion of the minors, and their major league parents, foresaw this possibility, and provided for it by buying their own buses or station wagons or arranging to travel in private cars. Some players, owning their own cars, are taking their teammates around on a "share-expenses" plan.

In some cases, however, teams have continued to get around in chartered buses, and they are in for a tough time settling the problem. Among these are a couple of clubs each in the Appalachian and Wisconsin State Leagues, some in the Three-Eye, Western Association and Southeastern circuits and Twin Falls (Idaho) and Salt Lake in the Class "C" Pioneer League.

But all of those who haven't made previous arrangements are sitting tight until W. G. Bramham, the czar of minor league ball, finds out just "what's cooking." President Ross Edgemon of the Appalachian League said he had received a telegram from Bramham predicting "adjustments probably will be made in the ruling," and one league president in the Midwest, who asked that his name be withheld, said he understood Bramham is "taking up gasoline and transportation problems with Government officials." Bramham could not be reached for comment.

The ban will have no effect on leagues in double-A and A-1 classifications, since most of those travel by train or over regularly scheduled bus routes anyway. But from Class B down, it will be felt, even if only light.

2 Interhigh Games, Track Meet Postponed

Because of the weather the entire public high school sports card, including the interhigh track meet finals and two championship baseball games, was postponed yesterday.

Track action was rescheduled for Monday at 3:45 p. m., at Central Stadium. An Anacostia-Roosevelt ball game was put off until today if the weather permits, otherwise it will be played along with an Eastern-Coolidge game at a later date.

Postponement of the forty-fifth annual track and field finals proved satisfactory to all concerned. Central's oval was still sloppy yesterday from Thursday's rain, voiding all chances of good performances, much less any record breaking.

Unless their results develop as having a bearing on the playoff series between the top two teams, which is doubtful, both of yesterday's scheduled diamond clashes may be canceled. The season has already been extended into the second week of June because of postponements.

Browns Release Catcher Hayworth

St. Louis, May 22 (AP).—Ray Hayworth, third of the veteran catchers tried by the St. Louis Browns in recent seasons, was given his unconditional release today, bringing the club's roster down to 25 men, the limit allowed after May 25. Frank Grube and George Susce are the other old-time catchers who have been with the Browns.

Just what effect the even-Stephen decision will have on the plans for a big outdoor extravaganza for Joe Louis' heavyweight crown in late June or early July no one knew tonight.

Even Promoter Mike Jacobs was too flabbergasted to think up something to take care of the situation. Because Pastor was anywhere up to 1-to-7 in the betting going into this bout, and no one had given Mauriello the faintest kind of a chance. It was all supposed to be so cut and dried that only the United States Army's approval for a Louis-Pastor fight was needed to put the machinery in motion.

This would have been Pastor's third shot at the Bomber, and in tonight's tilt he was gunning for his thirteenth straight victory.

As usual, Pastor tried to slug it out with a slugger for the first two minutes. Mauriello clipped him on the chin midway of the opening heat and Bob hung on. Mauriello was trying for a quick connection with his right and Bob half-slipped and was half-pushed to the floor out of one scrimmage. Pastor evened up for this in the second heat, when Tami slipped to the floor.

After that, Bob started. As early as the fourth, he was beating Tam to the punch and drubbing him about the midsection. In the sixth, Mauriello, looking tired and worn, held on as Bob ripped in with his two-fisted body attack. And in the seventh and eighth, Tami's right seemed to have lost all authority for he caught Pastor with three solid shots and Bob never blinked an eye.

Jimmy Johnston, Pastor's manager, said afterward that "Pastor will never fight in New York again. Why should he? He doesn't have to risk highway robbery, does he?"

Johnny Jackson, fast-punching Los Angeles Negro, made his Garden debut on the preliminary card by taking an eight-round decision from Pete Deruzza, Mamaroneck, N. Y., in a fast-moving affair. Jackson scaled 151½; Deruzza 149.

Returning to the ring after an absence of several months, Beau Jack, aggressive Negro from Augusta, Ga., by way of Springfield, Mass., outpointed Bobby (Poison) Ivy of Hartford, Conn., in another eight-round tussle. Jack, whose real name is Sidney Walker, scaled 137½; Ivy 133¾.

Braves Rally, Beat Phils, 10-7, Under Lights

By the Associated Press

Philadelphia, May 22.—The Boston Braves put on a 4-run rally in the ninth inning tonight to beat the Phils, 10 to 7, in a seesaw game at Shibe Park. A single by Clyde Kluttz with the bases full and the score tied at 7-7 was the deciding blow of the rally.

The Phils' manager, Hans Lobert, was banished in the last of the ninth as Rookie Pitcher John Sain finished the game by striking out Ron Northey and Lloyd Waner.

The Phils led by 7-6 going into the ninth as a result of Relief Pitcher Earl Naylor's single with the bases full in the seventh, but Naylor was unable to hold the lead. Nanny Fernandez and Ernie Lombardi banged out singles to start the ninth. That brought in Frank Hoerst in place of Naylor.

Hoerst got Max West on a pop-up, but then walked Jim Cooney and Sisti to force in the tying run and set the stage for Clyde Kluttz's pinch-hit single. Kluttz later scored on Tommy Holmes' hit.

Lombardi slammed out five hits in five trips to the plate, one a homer. Bobby Bragan also homered for the Phils.

The game was a test of illumination of night baseball in this area. Officers of the Army and Navy were stationed on the Jersey Coast to observe the visibility of the glow from the lights.

Mrs. Hartman Is Victor in Class B Golf

The matching cards method of settling ties helped break a three-way deadlock in the Class B section of the Star Cup play yesterday at Kenwood and gave the trophy to Mrs. Calvin B. Hartman of Prince Georges with a 115 gross total minus 34 handicap for a net 81.

A field of 75 players in the 19 to 36 handicap bracket stuck it out through the heavy and frequent morning showers which required putting on the greens in some places with two-irons in order to hurdle the streams of water. Forty of the starters turned in cards.

Mrs. F. L. Williams of Argyle tied for first low net with a net 81, and after finishing second in the net play by matching cards took low gross instead with a 102 total. The rains prevented any player from cracking the 100 mark.

Second low net went to Mrs. H. G. Pratt, Washington, with a 102-21, 81. After matching cards Mrs. Hartman was one down to par, Mrs. Williams five down and Mrs. Pratt seven down.

Third low net went to Mrs. Helen L. Harner, Argyle, with a 114-31, 83, winning by matching cards over Mrs. Don Lee, Washington, with 103-20, 83.

The other net winners were Mrs. Marty Gordon, Indian Spring, 120-36, 84, and Mrs. H. C. Fisher, Columbia, 110-26, 84.

Myers' 73 Wins Medal In Schoolboy Golf

Roosevelt Youngster Noses Out Willett Over Rain-Soaked Manor Layout

By Merrell W. Whittlesey

Arthur Myers, a 17-year-old Roosevelt High School senior, started in a pouring rain with a birdie three and continued on to a 73 and medal honors in the ninth renewal of the Scholastic Golf championship yesterday at Manor Country Club.

The husky youngster, 6 feet 2 inches tall, knocked around 18 holes over a soggy course and between intermittent showers in just three over par figures but at that was just one shot better than the defending champion, Alton Willett, of Bethesda, who had a 74.

Only four of the 51 starters in the 18-hole qualifying round broke 80. Joe Barse, also of Roosevelt, paired 38s for a 76 while his teammate on the public high champions, Preston Wannan, had 41-38 for 79.

Top Score Is 85

Highest score in the championship flight was an 85 and Fred Seaton of Eastern, was a loser in a playoff to Charley Griffin, Roosevelt, and Dick Poerstel, Bethesda. Seaton took 7, Poerstel 6 and Griffin a par 4.

The only nonqualifiers among the favored youngsters were Georgetown Prep's Charley Price and Neil Sullivan, who picked up early and returned no cards. The Prep qualified two others, Jack Coyle, the wid-Western youngster who may have a say as to the disposition of The Washington Post trophy, which goes to the winner, and Billy Martin. They had 81 and 82, respectively.

Myers and Willett were among the first off the tee at noon and they started in a hard shower. Myers knocked a 20-footer in the cup on the first hole, however, for a birdie and holed an 18-footer on the third hole for a par three.

Birdies Again

Myers followed with another birdie on the fourth hole and after a par on the fifth was two under on his home golf course. He had 2 bogeys before the ninth and turned in 35 and despite a pair of double bogey sixes on the back nine held his lead, mainly with a fine 4-3-4 finish, which is plenty good on Manor's tough finishing holes.

Willett played mediocre golf on the out nine but required only 12 putts and turned in 38. He hit 8 of the 9 greens in regulation figures goming back but could not make up the deficit. The champion used only 27 putts for the day.

Featured match this morning in the first round play at Kenwood will be Willett against little Charley Griffin, Roosevelt, who upset Willett's older brother, Carroll, in the tournament last year and reached the semi-finals.

The second flight will play all matches at Georgetown Prep.

With CONSIDINE

New York, May 22.—I'm not conceding anybody the pennant," Billy Southworth of the Cardinals, shouted vehemently in his hotel room, turning on a reporter who had casually mentioned that he, the reporter, liked Brooklyn's chances.

CONSIDINE

"Sure they've got a nice team. They've got a wonderful team. So has St. Louis. They've been hot; we've been a little too complacent. They might cool off; we're just beginning to roll."

The papers scattered around the room corroborated at least a part of the Cardinal manager's speech. The previous afternoon the Cardinals had rolled over the Dodgers, 1-0, on the strength of a great brother act by the Cooper boys.

"We started to roll last Sunday. We had been hustling right up until then. We had been working hard and had a lot of spirit. But if we failed to get a win, well, we sat back and said, 'okay, we'll do it tomorrow or next day.'

"Then we came into the Polo Grounds, gave them four runs right at the start of the game, and old Hubbell went on and beat us. That's what started me. Hubbell! He hasn't lasted a full game against us since I became manager of the Cards, and here he was beating us and nobody on our bench semed to care very much.

"I got to thinking. I got to thinking about something the old Virginia judge, Walter Kelly, once said. He was down in Sarasota during the real estate boom and he had a few drinks with John McGraw one night and when John suggested that he buy a choice lot at the corner of Mathewson Avenue and Kelly Boulevard, in the new subdivision called Pennant Park, Kelly called for an order blank, wrote out a big check and bought it sight unseen. He was in dreamland. He could just see those waving palms and the coral blue sea and hear the whispering sands.

"Well, the next morning he called for his chauffeur and grandly ordered him to drive to the corner of Mathewson Avenue and Kelly Boulevard. The car left the paved road after a while and began bumping down a rut-filled dirt road. It was little more than a foot path, but after a while they came to a couple of signs, tacked on to old sticks, telling them they had reached their destination. The scene was one of utter desolation. In the distance, through the gnarled mangrove trees, you could see a little brackish water.

"So the old judge he reached down and he picked up a fist of that so-called whispering sand and he let it slide through his fingers. And he turned to his chauffeur and said, 'Sam . . . we been skunked.'"

Southworth stopped to let the parable sink in. Then he jumped to his feet and began pacing the little room. "That's what I thought of on the bench, watching old Hub beat us. I saw myself and my team as the old Virginia judge, living in a fool's paradise.

"Well, sir, I read the act to my boys between games. And when we gave the Giants four more runs at the start of the second game, I started to holler murder. I kept pacing up and down, like this, up and down that bench. I told them we had to have more than hustle and speed and class: we had to have guts and fight.

"We won that game after spotting them four, and we've been winning since and we're going to keep on winning. But we're not going to let down a minute. When we get home I'm going to give them more batting practice than they ever saw—yeah, morning batting practice, too.

"It's possible that we won't win the pennant this year. Lots of things can happen. But I know this much, by gosh, if we lose it will be because we weren't good enough. We weren't playing 75 per cent of the baseball we are capable of, until Hub beat us. I think we're close to 100 per cent now, and we're going to keep it there. The day that I sit back and decide that it's okay to lose today—for we might win tomorrow—I'm getting the hell out of this blankety-blank game. What's more I won't have a ball player around who thinks that way, either.

"My men will fight, and they'll keep fighting. They won't give up. They won't swing half-heartedly on a ball at the plate," Billy demonstrated, "they swing like this," and he took a cut at an imaginary ball with such fervor that his coat flew open and the reporters flattened out against the walls.

We left the room, pale and shaken, but determined to live a cleaner life, and hedge a little on our Brooklyn bet.

G.U.-Fordham Meet Run on Genuine Statler Hotel Dirt

Washington has a new hotel. Maybe it's far from finished but it has a press agent on hand smart enough to get a yarn in the sports section. Here's a dispatch received in his office last night:

"A large part of the Georgetown-Fordham track meet today will be held on what was formerly Sixteenth and K Streets.

"The explanation is that the dirt taken from that location for the foundation of the new Hotel Statler was used as fill to complete Georgetown's new athletic field.

"Among the spectators at the meet will be Frank A. McKowne, president of the Statler company, who will see his dirt put to good, healthful use."

Louis Opens Training In New York Tomorrow

New York, May 22 (AP).—Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis will spar at Stillman's Gymnasium Sunday and will box daily, at least all next week.

Although the Bomber did not explain his plans further, the sparwork will get him into condition for his forthcoming exhibition boxing tour of Army camps, and probably will serve as preliminary training for a late June or early July title bout with Bob Pastor—if the Army gives its permission.

Gain Narrows, Capital Store Sales Up 19%

Washington department store sales in the week ended May 16 were 19 per cent heavier than in the same 1941 week, the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond reported last night. The gain was one of the smallest registered for a week so far this year.

In the four weeks ended May 16, local store sales showed a 24 per cent increase over the like period last year. The Fifth Federal Reserve District as a whole showed a 19 per cent increase for the week and a 19 per cent gain for the four-week period.

National Gain Is 5 Per Cent

Nationally, the Federal Reserve Board estimated that department store sales in the week ended May 16 were 5 per cent larger than in the corresponding week last year.

In the week ended May 9, sales were 6 per cent more than a year ago, and in the four weeks ended May 16 they averaged 8 per cent more than in the similar period last year.

By Federal Reserve districts, percentage increases last week over a year ago included:

Boston, 5; New York, 5; Philadelphia, 7; Cleveland, 6; Atlanta, 5; Chicago, 3; St. Louis, 6, and San Francisco, 5 per cent.

In the Dallas district, sales were 5 per cent less than in the corresponding week last year, and in the Kansas City district, sales were just even with last year.

Drop in Current Week

For the first time in 1942, Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., reported yesterday, retail sales failed to maintain this week an increase over 1941.

The statistical agency said:

Like retail sales, wholesale trade in dollars averaged slightly below that of a year ago, reflecting a substantial decline in physical volume; industry felt the let-down in new orders principally in a drop in backlogs; but production held to the record peaks set last month.

Even though price ceilings on retail goods went into effect Monday, the agency said, sales turnover at midweek failed to suggest any rush to buy.

For the whole country the retail trade decline below last year's dollar volume was no more than 1 to 4 per cent but since prices were higher this reflected a substantial drop in unit sales.

Regions reporting mild percentage increases above 1941 were: East, 1 to 5; South, 3 to 6; Pacific Coast, 2 or 3. New England trade held unchanged. Percentage decreases appeared in Middle West and South, 1 to 4, and Northwest, 2 to 7.

United Air Lines Earns $143,002

Reflecting the influence of wartime traffic, United Air Lines' net earnings for the first quarter of 1942 were $143,002, equivalent to 9.5 cents per share of outstanding stock, as compared with a net loss of $1,014,272 for the same period in 1941.

W. A. Patterson, president of United, reported that the company's active role in the war effort was responsible for substantial increases in passenger, mail and cargo traffic demands. Two non-recurring items accounted for $111,683 of the net profit.

Operating revenues for the first quarter were $4,834,789 or 54.6 per cent over those for the first quarter of 1941. Revenue passenger miles totaled 57,698,945 for a gain of 57.7 per cent; mail pound miles totaled 2,395,270,305 for an increase of 53.1 per cent and express pound miles were 1,460,661,649 or 15 per cent more than for the corresponding period of 1941.

She gave a daily average of 115 pounds, or 55 quarts, and on one peak day gave 146.5 pounds, or approximately 70 quarts.

Rail Shipping Check Ordered; Priorities Seen

By the Associated Press

As a preliminary to establishment of priorities, if necesary, on transportation of materials, fuel, and other commodities, the Office of Defense Transportation yesterday ordered a Nation-wide check on all carload freight billed and forwarded from each railroad station on May 27.

Joseph B. Eastman, ODT director, said the spot-check would enable his agency to effect continuous adjustments between transportation requirements and available transportation facilities.

Working from the waybills, ODT will be able to determine the volume, origin, flow and destination of each principal article moving in commerce, as well as the extent of freght commodity cross-hauls and circuitous hauls.

Meanwhile the War Production Board announced that watchmakers had conferred with it here on the possibility of converting part of the industry to manufacture of aviation and navigation instruments.

It also announced that it had taken control of imports of all known commercial oils not previously under such restriction. Most of them come from Central and South America.

An amendment to the general imports order gives the Government control over fats, seeds and nuts, chinchona and other barks from which quinine is derived, and corundum and emery, in eddition to the oils named.

"The action was taken because imports of oils are important due to war demand, and the Government can expedite the flow better than private importers," WPB explained. The imports orders prohibits any person except Government agencies or their representatives from arranging for the import of the controlled materials, except under contracts existing when the order was issued.

SEC Approves North American Dividend

Philadelphia, May 22 (AP).—The Securities and Exchange Commission has approved the North American Company's plan for payment of a dividend through distribution of capital stock shares of the Detroit Edison Co.

The distribution on July 1 to stockholders of record June 5, will be on the basis of one share of Detroit Edison capital stock for each 50 shares of North American common.

North American estimated that it will distribute about 155,000 shares of the 606,630 Detroit Edison shares which North American owns and that cash payments in lieu of fractional shares of Detroit Edison will not exceed $325,000.

WPA ReportedChecking On Unnecessary Travel

Memphis, Tenn., May 22 (AP).—The WPA is checking travel on trains and buses in 100 metropolitan areas to determine how much is "unnecessary."

District Administrator Holt Peel said the information was being compiled for the Office of Defense Transportation, probably looking toward rationing of travel.

Specifically, the survey will ascertain the number of travelers and purpose of their trips.

Week's Clearings Gain 17.5% Over Year Ago

New York, May 22 (AP).—Bank clearings in 24 leading cities during the past week were substantially higher than in any of the past nine weeks, Dunn & Bradstreet reported.

The total for the group of cities was $7,532,525,000, an increase of 17.5 per cent from the comparable week of 1941 and 14.9 per cent ahead of the total reported a week ago.

New York transactions were up 15 per cent from 1941 at $3,901,496,000, while the aggregate for the remainder of the cities rose 20.3 per cent to $3,631,029,000.

New York Cotton

New York, May 22 (AP).—Cotton futures prices advanced 55 to 75 cents a bale today after getting off to a shakey start. The views of the President about a long war gave prices an almost immediate recovery tingle. Another factor in the upturn was unfavorable crop news. This included reported labor shortages in insect infested areas and the need for much replanting in Eastern areas. Short covering by recent sellers was reported by several commission houses, including those with a big Southern business.

Rubber Lack Is Blamed on U. S. Chemists

By the Associated Press

Chicago, Ill., May 22.—American chemists were accused today of "mental slothfulness" for not having developed rubber from native plants.

Dr. Thomas Midgeley, jr., of Worthington, Ohio, former president of the American Chemical Society and now chairman of the board of diretcors, told members of the Chicago section of the society that more rubber can be grown within the United States than could possibly be consumed. He delivered his indictment after receiving the Willard Gibbs Medal of the organization, one of the highest honors in American science.

No Miracles Seen

He warned "against the delusion that American ingenuity or a miracle will save the Nation from the sad day of reckoning by suddenly supplying a huge volume of rubber or satisfactory substitute from nowhere."

The Ohio scientist, who looks enough like President Roosevelt to be a brother, and in addition is a victim of infantile paralysis, is the inventor of ethyl gasoline, safe chemicals for use in household refrigerators, and many other compounds, including contributions to research on synthetic rubber. His group of patents would fill a large drawer.

Any American who believes that synthetic rubber manufactured in quantities is "just around the corner" is just as far wrong as Kaiser Wilhelm was at the start of World War I when he thought German chemists would solve the problem, he said.

Cites Kaiser's Faith

"The Kaiser's faith was blasted and this failure of the German chemists contributed greatly to the German defeat. Hitler did not start World War II until the problem of making a satisfactory synthetic rubber was an accomplished fact.

"Today our relative positions with respect to rubber are reversed. Germany is not suffering in any critical way from a rubber shortage. We are!"

American rubber production has been held up by the fact that it was more economically sound to produce rubber from the hevea tree by cheap labor in the Netherlands East Indies and on South American and African plantations, he said.

As a result the production of rubber from plants such as guayule, which can be grown in the United States, and the development of synthetic rubber processes has been held up while technologists put their minds to work on other problems.

Number of Cows In U. S. Reaches Eight-Year High

New York, May 22 (AP).—Dr. Charles K. Tucker, economist for the Borden Co., milk products concern, reported today a substantial upward trend in the number of dairy cows on American farms.

Tucker said Agriculture Department surveys showed a total of 26,303,000 head on last January 1, a total exceeded only on January 1, 1934, when the estimate was 26,931,000.

Factors tending to bring about this increasing number of cows are the unusually high prices of cows relative to the prices of other products the farmer sells and the production of plentiful supplies of animal feeds," Tucker commented.

"The unusually high prices of dairy products in 1941 have further accentuated this upward trend."

He said it was probable that the number of milk cows would increase more rapidly than the human population, at least during the next few years, pointing to the large number of heifers and heifer calves, protentially producers.

Tucker reported the price of milk cows in the United States averaged $68.90 in April, compared with $71.67 in 1941 and $61.30 in 1940.

C. & O. Railway Nets $1,955,225 in Period

Clveeland, May 22 (AP).—The Chesapeake & Ohio Railway reported today net profit of $1,955,225 for April, against a deficit of $1,615,776 the preceding April, when operations were sharply curtailed because of a shutdown of bituminous mines. Gross income was $15,318,455, against $5,290,647.

For the four months, net income reached $7,637,316, against $6,675,468. The railway directors declared the usual 75-cent dividend on the common, payable July 1 to holders of June 8.

The subsidiary Nickel Plate Railroad named Robert B. Tunstall, newly elected to the same position on the C. & O., as vice president and general counsel, and the Pere Marquette elected him vice president in charge of law.

Stock Market Backs Into Minus Territory After Hopes Fade for Quick Axis Collapse

New York, May 22.—The stock market ran out of peace-talk fuel today and most of the rallying stocks of Thursday backed into minus territory. Trends were shaky at the start and prices soon began to shrink. While scattered gains among leaders were in evidence, closing recessions of fractions predominated, with a few losses running to 2 or so. Volume dwindled appreciably.

Washington warnings that optimism regarding a quick ending of the war was unwarranted or at least premature, coupled with the reiteration of the President that a long conflict still was in the cards, served to chill buying sentiment of those who hoped for a nearby collapse of the Axis. The result was that commitments in most of the peace stocks were lightened, although even the war infants failed to draw much support.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was off one-tenth of a point, at 34.2. Transfers amounted to 329,160 shares, compared with 558,500 the day before.

Scant bidding inspiration was found in news from battle fronts, business, tax prospects, regular dividend declarations and excisions and further governmental steps in the spread of war economy.

In the retreating column Westinghouse dropped 2⅛, while American Telephone, Sears Roebuck and American Smelting conceded around a point each.

Lesser declines were posted for Bethlehem, Chrysler, Goodrich, United States Rubber common and preferred, Santa Fe, Great Northern, Montgomery Ward, International Harvester, Douglas Aircraft, United Aircraft, Standard Oil (N. J.), Union Carbide, J. C. Penney, Public Service of New Jersey and Texas Co.

Clinging to modest advances were U. S. Steel, Consolidated Edison, General Motors, Southern Pacific, Anaconda, American Can, General Electric, Allied Chemical and Eastman Kodak.

Rail bonds in the rear ranks during the upturn of the preceding session came to the fore for fair recoveries. Commodities were mostly higher. At Chicago wheat was off ⅝ to up ⅜ of a cent a bushel, corn ahead ⅛ to ½ and hogs 10 cents improved. Cotton moved forward 55 to 75 cents a bale.

In a mixed curb issues leaning upward included American Gas, Aluminum of America, Chicago Flexible Shaft and Pittsburgh Plate Glass. New England Telephone came back 4 points and Southern New England Telephone 2. Among losers were Gulf Oil, Lake Shore, American Cyanamid, Creole Petroleum, Republic Aviation and Sherwin Williams. Turnover here aggregated 38,840 shares versus 62,570 yesterday.

Tobacco Firms To File Appeal In Antitrust Case

Lexington, Ky., May 22 (AP).—Attorneys for 17 convicted tobacco firms and executives have filed bills of exceptions in Federal Court to perfect an appeal of their conviction of criminal violation of the antitrust act.

The records included 16 volumes of testimony and eight volumes of exhibits. The Government has until July 13 to file its part of the appeal record.

R. J. Reynolds, Liggett & Myers and American Tobacco Companies and American Suppliers, Inc., and 13 of their executives were convicted last October after a 20-week trial. Last December, each convicted defendant was fined $15,000.

Court attaches expressed the opinion that the record would not be completed in time to be placed on the summer docket of the Sixth Circuit Court of Appeals.

National Banks' Deposits Dip in First Quarter

By the Associated Press

Deposits of national banks declined slightly in the first three months of this year.

Preston Delano, comptroller of the currency, said deposits of all national banks totaled $39,477,493,000. This was $77,279,000 less than on December 31, but $3,190,012,000 more than on April 4 of last year.

Officials said the decline was too small to be insignificant, although bank deposits have been rising rapidly in recent years. They suggested that the small decline may have been due to withdrawal by some people of bank funds to invest in war bonds.

Loans and discounts of the banks amounted on April 4 to $11,569,311,000, a decline of $182,481,000 since December 31, but an increase of $1,141,845,000 over a year ago.

Total assets of the banks were $43,496,537,000, compared with $43,538,234,000 on December 31, and $40,193,021,000 on April 4, 1941.

Wheat Slumps, Other Grains Continue Rise

By the Associated Press

Chicago, May 22.—Wheat tried to recover from 6 months' low prices today but the rally was nipped in the bud by renewal of selling late in the session. Corn and oats stuck, however, the latter pushing up a full cent after yesterday's sharp setback.

Short covering and scattered buying credited to mills disclosed the wheat pit to be temporarily bare of offerings early in the day and prices moved up almost a cent. Later, when this buying was satisfied, the market fell as much as 1⅝cents from the highs or to net losses of almost a cent in some cases equaling or exceeding lows established yesterday.

Failure of flour demand to revive despite low prices and the big crop and scarce storage situation remained as bearish factors.

Wheat closed ⅝ lower to ⅜ higher compared with yesterday, July 1.20-1.20⅛, September 1.22⅛-1.22⅝; corn ⅛-½ up, July 86⅞-87, September 89⅛; oats ⅞-1⅛ up; soy beans ⅞-1¼ lower; rye ¾-⅝ lower.

Corn and oats were higher most of the session. Soy beans started upward with gains of almost 2 cents but then tumbled to net losses of almost that much at one stage after short covering subsided and selling was renewed on the basis of poor meal demand. Rye rose more than a cent with wheat early but later fell 2 cents.

Lend-lease purchases of wheat and rye flour, reportedly for Russia, amounted to 83,681 and 78,000 barrels respectively but there was no evidence that private flour buyers had reentered the market or that mills were attracted on any large scale by the six-month low prices for wheat.

Improved shipping business helped to strengthen both corn and oats. Spot corn was unchanged to ½ higher and oats ½-1 higher, with shippers selling 105,000 bushels of corn and 82,000 oats.

Reserve Board Index Leaps to 174% in May

By the Associated Press

Continued advances in armament production in April and the first half of May were reported yesterday by the Federal Reserve Board.

The board attributed an increase in its index of industrial production to the fact that gains in arms manufacture exceeded decline in civilian output.

The board noted that in the case of retail trade, however, business slackened "somewhat" in April, although retail trade had been gaining sharply in the first quarter of the year.

The board said that "expansion of industrial production in April was reflected in an advance in the board's seasonally adjusted index from 172 to 174 per cent of the 1935-39 average. This increase followed upon a period of relative stability during the first quarter of the year, when growing war production was offset by decreased civilian output."

The board noted uneveness in the production trend of different industries, saying:

"In general, output of machinery, chemicals, and armament of all kinds has continued to expand at a rapid rate. There have also been substantial increases in output of electrical steel, nonferrous metals, glass containers, wood pulp and coal.

"On the other hand, output of many products for civilian use such as automobiles, tires and tubes, wool textiles, electrical appliances, alcoholic beverages, petroleum, and petroleum products has been sharply reduced either by direct order or by shortages of material or transportation facilities."

In the case of furniture, cotton and rayon textiles, manufactured foods, paper products and tobacco products, the board said output "has been maintained in large volume."

Guy Lombardo has probably promoted more romances than all the marriage brokers put together.

Happy couples—at least temporarily—who fell under Cupid's spell while dancing to Lombardo's Orchestra are constantly sending the leader pieces of wedding cake with notes saying their life-partnership was started to the strains of "the sweetest music this side of heaven."

The famous orchestra, now heard over WJSV and C. B. S. Saturday nights, was established in London, Ontario, Canada, when Guy was all of 11 years old. Guy began by lining up two of his younger brothers—Carmen, who was then tooting a flute and who is now vocalist, saxophone player and composer; and Lebert, who insisted on being drummer until he took up the trumpet. A few blocks away lived an 11-year-old piano player named Fred Kreitzer who was soon persuaded to join the after-school ensemble rehearsals.

Finally the boys were ready to make their debut—before the Mothers Club in their home town. From that time on they were in demand to play at all local parties. They charged $15 an evening, but were willing to make a reduction on account of all the chicken salad and ice cream they ate.

By 1923 the popularity of the Lombardo Band reached such a stage that they were offered a vaudeville engagement in the United States. Choosing the impressive name of Guy Lombardo and his Royal Canadians, they opened in Cleveland.

They've been royally treated in the United States ever since.

Contract Bridge

This question concerns South's defense of today's hand, which is played at a four-spade contract. North leads his singleton heart. Where does South find four tricks to defeat the hand, and how does he go about winning them?

Today's Hand

North-South Vulnerable
SOUTH DEALER

NORTH: ♠ 7 5 2 ♡ 3 ◇ 8 7 6 3 2 ♣ Q 9 7 5
WEST: ♠ A K Q J 8 3 ♡ 9 6 ◇ K Q J 10 5 ♣ K
EAST: ♠ 10 4 ♡ J 5 4 ◇ 9 5 4 ♣ A J 10 3 2
SOUTH: ♠ 9 6 ♡ A K Q 10 8 7 ◇ A ♣ 8 6 4

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♡	Dbl.	Pass	2 ♣
3 ♡	3 ♠	Pass	4 ♠
Pass	Pass	Pass

The Solution

South defeats four spades by forcing his partner to ruff a trick he could win himself in hearts, thus winning a diamond ruff on the return and taking, in all, a heart, a diamond, a heart ruff and a diamond ruff.

When North leads the heart three and small is played from dummy, South puts on the ten, which holds the trick. He can be certain that North is leading a singleton as it is the three-spot and he himself holds the deuce. Also, it is almost certain from the bidding that declarer's spade suit is solid and that North will be unable to overruff a third round of hearts. Without the vital ruff in diamonds North and South will take only two hearts and a diamond. Therefore, South lays down the diamond ace to trick two, and to thrick three bravely leads a little heart, forcing his partner to trump and telling him in no uncertain terms to return a diamond.

- Whether you're from Peoria, San Diego, Dallas or Bangor, you're probably acquainted with the nationally famous clothing names at The Hecht Co. Labels such as Palm Beach, Tropi-tex and Society Brand are symbolic of quality, value and style whenever fine clothing is discussed.

- In our Modern Man's Store there are over 3,500 suits . . . one of the largest clothing stocks in America. Many native Washingtonians already know that at The Hecht Co. they are practically sure of finding their size in the style, fabric, patterns and color they want. If you wear a 34 short or a 48 long or a 50 stout, we'll not hem and haw about such a size, but come right out and show you, not one or two suits, but many in your particular size.

- Our clothing salesmen are like the ones you've known in your own home city. Why were you partial to one particular salesman in your favorite store back home? Was it because he knew what you wanted . . . the size best suited to your figure . . . the color that looked best on you . . . or the way he knotted his necktie? We'll soon get to know your likes and dislikes. Our twenty experienced salesmen and fitters will serve you quickly and efficiently. And we've eighteen new dressing rooms so you won't have to wait.
